SEVEN BILLIONS TO BE SPENT ON 1930 PROJECTS

Record Construction Is Assured.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Expenditure of almost seven billion dollars on construction and maintenance of public works and public utilities, a record figure, seems assured during 1930, Secretary of Commerce Robert P. Lamont announced today on the basis of statistics compiled by the new construction division of his department.

This total, Mr. Lamont said, does not include residences, commercial and industrial structures and other private operations which last year totaled more than three billion dollars.

Programs for betterments to plant and equipment, announced by public utilities, railroads and telegraph companies represent expenditures of three billion, 250 million dollars, divided as follows: Class A railroads, one billion, 10 million; electric, gas and street railway companies, $1,400,000; American Telephone and Telegraph company, $700,000; independent telephone and telegraph companies, short line railways and privately owner waterworks, $100,000.

All Records Broken.

According to Dr. John M. Gries, chief of the construction division, the designated expenditures for these types of construction are in excess of all previous records during times of peace. He added that in connection with public utility construction large amounts also will be spent for maintenance of existing plants and equipment. This sum is estimated at 410 million dollars for electric, gas and street railway companies alone.

Complete returns from the governors of 26 states indicate probable expenditures of $1,778,742,901 for public works and this combined with conservative estimates based on partial returns from the remaining 22 states aggregating one billion, 275 million dollars, it was stated would give an indicated total of $3,053,742,900 for public construction by the various states. When federal construction is included this total for public construction, it is estimated, will be increased to three billion, 325 million dollars.

New York in Lead.

Among the 26 states which have reported, the largest program, amounting to 475 millions, will be carried out by New York and the second largest of 233 millions, by Ohio. Texas came next in line with a program of 140 millions and Massachusetts fourth with a program of 105 millions.

The only one of the five states in the Chicago area to file its complete report has been Wisconsin. Gov. Walter J. Kohler estimated that his state would spend $61,430,000 on construction work during 1930.

Other central states which have reported and the contemplated cost of their programs included Kansas, forty-six millions; Missouri, sixty-seven millions; Nebraska, thirty-two millions, and North Dakota, seven millions.

DETECTIVE FINDS CLICKING TEETH ARE GOOD CLEW

While Detective Charles Enos was standing at 63d street and Woodlawn avenue yesterday afternoon meditating about the customary topics of a detective's meditations he heard a clicking sound, very much like the chattering of teeth. Detective Enos looked about him for the source of the chattering and saw John McWilliams, 710 Sout' Halsted street, standing a few feet away.

McWilliams glanced at the detective furtively and started to walk away. As he walked the chattering became more audible and Enos collared him. In McWilliams' pocket the detective found a handful of teeth, which McWilliams admitted he had stolen, along with a quantity of gold, from a dentist's office on Saturday. He was locked up at the Woodlawn police station.

Shoots Burglar in Home; Wounded Man Escapes

The Irving Park police last night were canvassing doctors' offices on the north side in search of a burglar who was shot while fleeing from the home of Alex Reffino, at 5050 Argyle street. Reffino was in bed when he heard a noise at the front of his cottage and, entering the living room, found the burglar there. The intruder, who apparently entered the house with a pass key, leaped out a side window and fled through an alley. Reffino opened fire with a pistol, firing three shots, and the police later found a trail of blood on the snow for several yards along the burglar's route to the alley.

2 Policemen Missing After Liquor Raids

Unconfirmed reports that a former police lieutenant and a patrolman of the Melrose Park police force had been taken for a ride by gangsters, created a stir last night in the western suburb and aroused the interest of the United States attorney's office in Chicago.

Lieut. Rocco Passarella, who resigned or was discharged from the police force—there are two versions of his departure—has not been seen in the suburb since last Friday, according to reports. Patrolman Albert Ristau has been reported missing the same length of time.

Hears Report They Are Slain.

Yesterday a special policeman, Philip Rakowsky, informed Police Chief Arthur Leesberg of Melrose Park that he had received information on Saturday that Passarella and Ristau had been slain because of their activities against the Melrose Park alcohol ring. Rakowsky declined to reveal the source of his information.

Chief Leesberg indicated that he placed little credence in the special policeman's story. Passarella handed in his resignation last Friday because, according to the chief, the village trustees had intended to discharge him. Leesberg said charges of malfeasance in office had been placed against Passarella.

Wife Shows No Worry.

From police headquarters, Passarella went to his home, informed his wife, Anna, that he was going away for a few days, and departed without baggage, according to Chief Leesberg's information. Mrs. Passarella has expressed no concern over her husband's absence, the chief was informed.

Assistant United States Attorney Daniel Anderson had another version of Passarella's leaving the police force and declared he would summon Chief Leesberg, President Edmund G. Brust of the village board, and the other trustees to his office today for an explanation.

"Following the bombing of the home of Guy C. Guerine, attorney for the village, I called the chief and the village officers to my office and demanded a cleanup," Mr. Anderson said. "I thought Passarella was the only man with sufficient courage and resourcefulness to clean out the alcohol cookers and told them so.

Recalls Passarella Raids.

"They agreed to put Passarella on the cleanup job. Within a day or two he raided three stills, the last one being a 1,200 gallon redistillery, which the government regarded as an important seizure. We need Passarella's testimony in these cases and if he has come to harm the village officials will have to explain."

Mr. Anderson said President Brust has admitted that Passarella had not resigned but had been discharged.

WARMER TODAY AND SOME SNOW, FORECAST SAYS

Comparatively moderate winter weather, only a few degrees below normal, returned to Chicago yesterday after two days of subzero temperatures and the prospect was for even greater relief from the cold today. The official forecast was for a slight rise in temperature with a light snow probable both today and tomorrow.

As the city emerged from the grip of the frigid wave, the mercury climbed to a maximum of 18 degrees yesterday afternoon and was not expected to fall much below 15 during the early morning hours. The lowest yesterday was 1 degree below zero at 4 a. m., the steady rise starting at 7 a. m. and continuing until afternoon.

Before the temperature forsook the subzero regions, three more deaths were attributed to the cold in Chicago, bringing the total of the cold wave to five. William Daly, 65 years old, a laborer, was found dead in his basement room at 535 Green Bay road, Glencoe, and Christopher Weyhe, 67 years old, 834 Sherman avenue, Evanston, a railroad watchman, collapsed and died on an elevated train. The two weeks old baby of John Zinter, 516 West 43d place, was asphyxiated by coal gas fumes escaping from a stove which Zinter had kept burning in an effort to keep the house warm.

Killer of Drys Dupe of Their Critics—Doran

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Prohibition Commissioner Doran said today that "the recent inflammatory attacks upon our personnel were largely responsible" for the killing of two prohibition agents in Florida yesterday in a raid upon the home of a suspected bootlegger.

He asserted that such criticism of the enforcement squad "leads weak minded criminals to attack honest and efficient officers acting in the performance of their duties." There have been frequent denunciations of officers during the prohibition controversy that has swept Washington since Senator Borah [Rep., Idaho], a dry, on Christmas eve decried "the present personnel from top to bottom."

Warrant of Agents Attacked.

West Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 19.—(AP)—E. M. Baynes, attorney for George W. Moore, charged with the slaying last night of Robert K. Moncure and F. R. Patterson, prohibition agents, declared tonight that the agents attempted to enter Moore's home without legal warrant. He asserted that the warrant they held did not permit search after nightfall.

He said Moore repeatedly had warned prohibition officers not to attempt to search his home after dark without a warrant permitting night time entry.

Robert E. Tuttle of Savannah, prohibition administrator for the Ninth district, arrived today to take personal charge of the inquiry being made by federal authorities. He asserted that the agents were killed while serving a search warrant and that he will turn over the evidence to the state courts and ask that Moore be prosecuted for murder.

Moore, who was arrested at his home shortly after the shootings, maintained silence in his cell at the county jail. No formal charges have been placed against him yet.

Police Chief Held at Bay.

Four men were in the raiding party, but two escaped unharmed to summon aid. Moncure was shot while at the front door of the Moore home, while Patterson was shot while in the kitchen. Officers said no one was in the house at the time except Moore, his wife and small daughter.

Police Chief Matthews, the first officer to arrive after the shooting, was held at bay for 20 minutes by a shotgun in the hands of Moore, but managed to persuade him to submit to arrest.

Officers said the Moore home had been watched several hours by customs men and asserted they had evidence that a truckload of liquor had been taken into the residence the night before. Moore has lived here several years and police say he has a reputation as a bootlegger.

14 PASSENGERS AND TWO PILOTS CRASH VICTIMS

8 Women Among Dead on Air Liner.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Sixteen persons were burned to death when a trimotored plane bound from Agua Caliente, Mexico, for this city crashed and was burned near Oceanside.

PALM BEACH, Fla.—Three men were killed and two probably fatally injured when a cabin monoplane dived into Lake Worth.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Fourteen passengers and two pilots were killed this evening by the crash and burning of a giant airplane.

The airship was bringing race-goers from the track at Agua Calientes, Mexico, to Los Angeles.

It got out of control, and the pilots attempted a landing on the beach between Ocean Side and San Clemente. The plane was only a few hundred feet from the ground when it was seen to burst into flames and fall. The bodies of the victims were so burned they were not recognizable.

The plane was a giant tri-motored Ford Transport, No. 9689. It was known as the "Race Special." It carried passengers daily between Los Angeles and the Mexican track.

The plane was the property of the Transcontinental Air Transport-Maddux lines.

Victims Are Listed.

A list of passengers given out by the company later, showed the following names:

EDWARD J. SMALL, Los Angeles.
MR. AND MRS. BENJAMIN MILLER, San Francisco.
W. W. PADEN, Los Angeles.
DORIS CANTILLO, Los Angeles.
ADA M. CLOVER, Los Angeles.
FRANCES JAMESON, Pasadena, Cal.
ELIZABETH SQUIBB, Pasadena.
CHARLES RABOLD, Fairhope, Ala.
HANNAH COLLISTON, Fairhope, Ala.
MR. AND MRS. CEDRIC BROWN, Los Angeles.
MR. AND MRS. EDAWRD BOWEN, addresses unknown.
BASIL RUSSELL, pilot.
FREDDIE RUSSELL, pilot's mate.

The plane had left the flying field near the racetrack about 5:30 p. m. after the last race of the day, and was en route to the Grand Central Air Terminal station in this city.

Big Plane in Trouble.

Motorists who were eye witnesses to the crash say that the ship seemed to be having trouble as it made its way up the coast line. They telephoned that it was flying at an altitude of about 200 feet and that the pilot was apparently attempting to reach the sands of the shore for a landing.

Suddenly the plane was seen to burst into flames and crash to the ground. The wreckage was strewn for several hundred feet behind the plane, which was completely burned several hundred feet back of the shore line.

Those who reached the scene of the disaster within a few minutes after the crash declared that they were unable to approach the burning wreck.

Robert Hanson of San Clemente was an eye witness to the tragedy and was the first man to reach the wreckage. It was raining at the time, according to Mr. Hanson.

Heard Motors Missing.

"I heard the motors missing and saw the plane head toward the beach," he said. "It was flying low and I could tell from the way the pilot was handling the ship that he was having trouble. It suddenly swooped to the ground.

"When I reached it the last shreds of inflammable material on the plane burned away. The metal parts were red hot. I counted about a dozen bodies piled in a heap. Their clothing had been burned away and all apparently had died instantly when the plane burst into flames.

"It was too hot to approach close enough to try to get the bodies out and I returned to San Clemente and summoned Chief of Police Eaton and Sergts. Comber and Eaton and went back with fire extinguishers to cool off the metal so the undertakers could remove the bodies."

Fog Adds to Hazard.

Virgil Westbrook, reserve army pilot, was another of the first to reach the scene.

"Evidently the pilot was circling for an emergency landing and misjudged his distance," Westbrook said. "There

Effie Lobdell, Surgeon, Faces Death Charge

Dr. Effie L. Lobdell, noted woman surgeon who has been practicing in Chicago since 1891, was arrested yesterday in her rooms at the Congress hotel and taken to the detective bureau, where she was booked on a charge of murder by illegal operation. She was released on a $10,000 bond and will appear in the Felony court today before Judge William E. Helander.

The complaint against Dr. Lobdell was signed by Frank H. Sobbry, 936 East 76th street. He charged that his wife, Signia, died on Dec. 1 as the result of an operation performed by Dr. Lobdell. Records of a coroner's inquest into the death of Mrs. Sobbry revealed that evidence was offered indicating that Mrs. Sobbry died of blood poisoning following an illegal operation, but the jury was unable to decide who performed the operation.

Calls It Blackmail Attempt.

Dr. Lobdell readily accompanied Sergts. Felix Kosinski and John McVeigh to the detective bureau when they visited her suite yesterday. Attorney Jacob J. Kern, 5710 Dorchester avenue, furnished the bond for her. The woman physician declared there was no truth to the charge and said the arrest was an attempt at blackmail.

Dr. Lobdell long has been a figure in medical and social circles in Chicago. She has been the chief woman physician on the staff of the Illinois Hospital for the Insane and was obstetrician and pediatrician at the Cook county hospital from 1900 to 1904. She is a fellow of the American College of Surgeons, a member of the American Medical association, and of the Illinois and Chicago Medical societies.

Denies Performing Operation.

"Mrs. Sobbry was brought to my office in the Straus building about Nov. 23," Dr. Lobdell said. "She was brought there by an old woman patient of mine. I prescribed for her and treated her, but there was no operation. There was no indication that she was pregnant. Certainly, I performed no operation and there is absolutely no ground for the charge which is now brought against me."

Dr. Lobdell said she again treated Mrs. Sobbry on Nov. 25 and on Thanksgiving day. She repeated that she, at no time, had even considered an illegal operation upon the woman.

Attorney James De Vere, representing Sobbry, declared that he would produce two women witnesses in court today, one of whom would testify, he said, that she had been present while Dr. Lobdell performed the operation in her office.

Died on Way to Hospital.

The inquest into Mrs. Sobbry's death was held on Dec. 3. Testimony showed that she died on Dec. 1 in an ambulance while being taken to the South Chicago hospital. The dead woman was the mother of two children, 6 and 4 years old. She was 25 years old.

Dr. John Kercher, 6850 Dorchester avenue, said he had attended Mrs. Sobbry in an illness some eight months before her death. He was called shortly before her death and found her in a semi-conscious condition, he said. He testified he believed the cause of death was an infection.

Gives Cause of Death.

Dr. George F. O'Brien, coroner's physician, who conducted a post-mortem examination, gave it as his opinion that Mrs. Sobbry died as a result of sepsis following an abortion.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict in accord with Dr. O'Brien's findings, reporting that "We are unable to determine how or in what manner the abortion was performed."

U. S. SEEKS BIG SHIPS TO GUARD SEA COMMERCE

Lack of Naval Bases Influences Yanks.

U. S. IN LONDON

The Chicago Tribune's correspondents assigned to the London naval conference report as follows:

Mr. Henning finds that the character of the agreement reached will determine the future of America's foreign trade and our ability to protect it.

Mr. Steele reports that an attempt to discuss battleships has brought from Secretary Stimson the demand that the cruiser problem must be settled first.

Mr. Wales obtains from Premier Tardieu the statement that France will do nothing to wreck the conference, but, on the contrary, will labor for its success.

Mr. Darrah shows that the Italian foreign minister is reassured by Mr. Stimson as to America's open mind in the negotiations.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—An event of utmost moment for the future development of America's world power will be the London naval conference which opens here on Tuesday.

If an agreement is reached on the reduction of naval armament, the character of the agreement will determine not only whether the parity of American and British sea power is to be established but whether America will be able adequately to protect its foreign trade, already rivaling Great Britain's in volume, and achieve and maintain its position as the world's greatest commercial power, which is a destiny foreshadowed by the trend of economic developments during the last decade.

U. S. Problem Different.

Upon the outcome of the London conference will depend the safety and prosperity of future generations of American people. With the rapidly expanding foreign trade beginning to constitute a measure of American prosperity, with the reviving merchant marine, with the increasing dependence on overseas sources for a supply of rubber, manganese for steel manufacture, and other necessities, with vital communication lines encircling the globe, the time has arrived when protection of national interests in distant regions is as vital to America as to Great Britain.

America thus goes into the conference with the same objective as Great Britain, which is a reduction of armament consistent with national security, but with a wholly different problem of attaining that end.

Great Britain, with its 27 outlying naval bases and fuel stations scattered over the globe, with 50 merchant ships convertible into big gun and 177 into small gun cruisers, is far less dependent than any other power on battleships, big cruisers and other ships capable of steaming long distances and operating for extended periods far from their bases.

America Depends on Big Ships.

America, with only seven outlying naval bases and fuel stations, with only 70 merchantmen convertible into small cruisers and less than a half dozen into big ones, is wholly dependent for security and protection of its commerce on distant seas on big cruisers with long cruising radius, and a strong battleship fleet constituting a movable naval base capable of functioning far from home shores as effectively as the British with their outlying bases.

Great Britain, in advocating the reduction and eventual abolition of battleships and other big units of the fleet without due consideration of the elements of its seapower which outlying naval bases and convertible merchant marine constitute is charting a course that America cannot afford to follow without the impairment of national interest. In that direction, observers declare, America will seek a parity in vain.

Sees Big British Lead.

Reduction of battle fleets aims at the dependence of the powers on small cruisers and outlying naval bases, from which these small cruisers can be operated. It depends also on the converting of merchant ships for use as light cruisers. Great Britain, with its much larger number of merchant ships, would thus be far stronger as a sea power than America.

The British proposal projected in this direction is the best evidence, keen observers say, that the British, while professing a willingness to accept a parity, are maneuvering for a result that will assure them continued mastery of the seas.

In addition to the naval limitation agreement, the outcome of the conference will determine whether America is to narrow still further its splendid isolation and accept increased participation in European affairs. The French, supported in the background by British policy, aims at this latter consummation.

France Seeks Atlantic Pact.

The French government has clearly disclosed its desire to bring America into a pact putting teeth in the Kellogg anti-war treaty; if not, then an Atlantic powers' security pact, resembling the four power Pacific pact of the Washington naval limitation agreement of 1922.

These circumstances lent special significance to the conversations today between Mr. Stimson, Andre Tardieu, French premier, and Sig. Grandi, Italian foreign minister, on the eve of the conference meeting. The purpose of Premier Tardieu and Sig. Grandi undoubtedly is to enlist the sympathetic support of the American delegation in their respective policies. Sig. Grandi is seeking a Franco-Italian naval parity, which Premier Tardieu refuses to concede.

Premier Tardieu is evincing a suspicion that an Anglo-American entente has been reached on the question of a definitive naval reduction by this conference. The French government has served notice of its refusal to consider the conclusion of this conference as anything but an advisory report to the league of nations parley for disarmament on land and sea and in the air.

U. S. to Stand by Itself.

The purpose of Mr. Stimson, who gained an understanding of the French and Italian positions in his talks with Premier Tardieu and Sig. Grandi today, is to act, so far as possible, a disinterested composer of the differences of the conference powers. Whether he will endeavor to take America into a European security pact remains to be seen.

The farthest the Hoover administration has gone in this direction so far is the Anglo-American understanding reached by President Hoover and Mr. MacDonald, which Mr. Stimson describes as a moral alliance to preserve world peace. As for putting teeth into the Kellogg peace pact, the present position of the administration is that it is opposed to commitment for the use of force against a violator.

It is favorably disposed, however, to provision of machinery for an automatic investigation of any controversy produced by a breach of the pact for the purpose of mobilizing world opinion against the aggressor.

SETTLE CRUISER PROBLEM FIRST, STIMSON SAYS

Halts British Move to Ban Battleships.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The first slight hitch in the naval disarmament negotiations occurred last Friday, it was learned today, during the conference between Secretary of State Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald. Mr. MacDonald, it is stated, made a plea for the immediate consideration of a drastic reduction in the strength of the battleships of the fleets of the nations taking part in the parley.

Mr. Stimson, while not ruling the question out completely, insisted that there was nothing doing on the battleship question, until a full agreement, satisfactory to the United States, was reached on cruisers.

Such an agreement is, of course, most difficult, because is depends not only on the parity between the United States and Great Britain, which is comparatively easy to achieve, but on Britain's relative strength to other naval powers.

Suggest Pre-War Standards.

Among the new suggestions is one that Britain go back to something like the two power standard of pre-war days counting out the United States. This would mean that the British fleet would be the equal of any other two fleets but the equal also of that of the United States, the theory being that it will never have to meet the American fleet in battle, but may at any time, on account of European entanglements, be called upon to face a combination of two minor naval powers.

In the meantime England's big navy parties are mobilizing their batteries of retired admirals to fulminate against any reduction of the British navy. In the Sunday Chronicle today, Admiral Sir Richard Fortescue Phillimore, Rear Admiral Tufton Percy Hamilton Beamish, and Vice Admiral Ernest Augustus Taylor, all retired, predict dire things to the empire if the navy is reduced by a single ship or gun.

The Air League of the British Empire also comes out with an announcement that if the navy is reduced the air force must be increased, and quotes figures to show that France at present leads the world in military aviation with 4,730 planes, America is next with 1,813, Italy third with 1,640, and Britain fourth with 1,292.

Delegates Confer Today.

The real work of the conference begins tomorrow with a meeting of all the delegates at the prime minister's residence at 10 Downing street. There the program and proceedure will be discussed.

After this preliminary groundwork has been laid all the delegates will be presented to King George, and in the evening they will be entertained by the British government at a dinner at the Savoy hotel. After this they will be the guests at a reception given by Prime Minister MacDonald and his daughter Ishbel at Lancaster house.

GRANDI SEES STIMSON

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Dino Grandi, Italy's 35 year old foreign minister, lunched with American Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson at the latter's week-end villa at Stanmore at 1 o'clock today, returning to the Italian headquarters at the Hotel Claridge at 3 o'clock. Sig. Grandi was accompanied by Admiral Guiseppe Sirianl, Italian minister of marine and Admiral Acton, former chief of naval staff, and Sig. Ruspolia, advisor of the Italian delegation.

Following his return, Sig. Grandi held a conference with members of his delegation lasting three hours.

It was announced that the Italian foreign minister, who speaks English, expressed himself as very much pleased with the conversation with Mr. Stimson. Today's conversation was said to have dealt mostly with assurances by Mr. Stimson that no pre-arrangement exists between England and the United States for dictating to the other powers what the size of their fleets should be.

All members of the Italian delegation have arrived in England.

FRENCH OPTIMISTIC

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19. — An optimistic note for the success of the naval disarmament conference prevailed tonight as Premier Tardieu of France, after his interviews with Secretary Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald, expressed himself as satisfied that the many difficulties confronting the conference would be ironed out.

Mr. Stimson and Premier Tardieu remained together more than an hour. Premier Tardieu later visited Mr. MacDonald.

It is learned that Premier Tardieu assured Mr. MacDonald that under no circumstances will France wreck the conference. In return Mr. MacDonald said the British would do nothing without consulting France, particularly on the question of submarines and the peculiar necessities of France with regards to the two coasts—the Atlantic and Mediterranean—which it has to defend.

Italians Changing Tone.

It is learned that there has been a considerable change in the Italian attitude on the subject of parity with France. The Italians do not intend to continue arguing that they have a right to parity with their Latin neighbor, but instead will take the attitude that the principle already exists.

It is important to note that the same day the conference convenes, parliament reassembles with the budget as its most important question. Mr. MacDonald's announcement that Great Britain desires the abolition of battleships, it is stated, was motivated by the insistence of Philip Snowden, chancellor of the exchequer, that every possible effort must be made to save money on the Labor government's heavy program of social service measures.

Fair Yanks at Parley Tone Down War Paint for Critics

LONDON, Jan. 19.—[U. P.]—The stenographers accompanying the American naval delegation have begun to disarm.

The American girls, although only slightly rouged and powdered by American standards, toned down their "war paint" fully 50 per cent on their second day in London.

The stenographers, who monopolized the front pages of the London newspapers, recovered from the shock of the sudden publicity and began studying their English cousins—male and female.

London Lassies Short Skirted.

They discovered that the English girls show no sign of conforming to the new long skirts decreed by Paris, but are clinging to short skirts, enabling them to dodge through traffic and hop on and off buses. They discovered further that the English girls have naturally ruddy complexions, enabling them to get along with a minimum of cosmetics.

The reduction in the amount of paint and powder used by the Americans was attributed in part to the comment they aroused in hotels and restaurants.

The girls found themselves bombarded by reporters, who asked many questions, including, "And by the way, have you an engagement for tomorrow evening?" Nor were such invitations limited to the press, but were received from Britishers of various callings, including diplomats. But the girls decided that because of the pressure of work ahead, they would be unable to accept "dates."

Traffic Not So Slow.

The entire personnel of the American delegation was impressed by the speed of London traffic, which, contrary to preconceived ideas, moves much faster than in the United States, even if it does keep to the left.

The honesty of cab drivers also evoked comment, the taximen assisting in identifying unfamiliar English coins and gladly accepting small tips "which an American taxi driver would throw back at you," as one girl expressed it.

Molin, Crack Italian Pilot, Killed; Plane Dives in Lake

ROME, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Warrant Officer Tomaso Dal Molin, the only Italian entrant to finish in the Schneider cup races last September, was killed today as his hydroplane fell into Lake Desenzano from a height of about 50 feet. His body was not recovered.

BARONESS FROM GERMANY HERE TO MAKE STUDY

Baroness Monica von Militz of Meissen, Germany, distinguished for her social and cultural activities in her homeland, arrived in Chicago yesterday on the Twentieth Century to study Chicago schools and the activities of Chicago women. She was greeted at the station by Mrs. Edith Heileman of Forest Park, who was her guest two years ago when Mrs. Heileman visited Germany as a Schurz delegate. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Haenechen of Kenilworth will be hosts to the baroness during her stay here.

Mistress of a magnificent wooded estate, one of the largest and most beautiful in the Elbe river valley in Saxony, Baroness von Militz has made her castle the scene of many gatherings in the interest of modern art and education. The Dresden Opera company has held numerous rehearsals there, and outdoor pageants and theatricals have been staged in the wooded ravines of the estate. The castle itself contains art treasures, and archives with the works of great writers, as well as libraries and music rooms.

On Tuesday the baroness, who is the mother of two sons now in private schools in Germany, will be the guest of the Chicago Woman's club for a special all day program on education.

Sheriff and 16 Others Arrested in Dry Raids

Houston, Tex., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Seventeen persons, including Sheriff H. Wyatt Collins of Fort Bend county, his jailer and four deputy sheriffs, were arrested last night when a squad of 30 federal agents swooped down on Richmond, 40 miles from here, and made eleven simultaneous raids on alleged resorts in "Mud Alley."

ELECTION THROES DISTURB JAPAN ON EVE OF SHIP TALK

Intense Nationalism May Tie Naval Delegates.

TOKIO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Japan, the orient's only participant in this week's London naval conference, and half way around the globe from the parley, enters the council anxiously endeavoring to focus her attention on two widely separated events vital to her future.

On the day the conference opens in London, the Japanese parliament will reconvene here to listen to a statement of cabinet policies by Prime Minister Yuko Hamaguchi, Baron Kijuro Shidehara, minister of foreign affairs, and Junnosuke Inouye, minister of the treasury. The parliament, or diet, will probably be dissolved immediately, necessitating a general election.

Secretly Disappointed.

The Japanese nation views the London conference with some misgivings. It is difficult for an observer to estimate whether fear or hope is stronger. While officials publicly voice optimism, there is a strong undercurrent of disappointment at the failure of preliminary conversations in Washington and London to produce more tangible understandings with America and Great Britain.

It is noteworthy that no responsible official will state that Japan is ready to wreck the conference rather than yield her claim for a 70 per cent big cruiser ratio. At least the government is hopeful that London will extend the capital ship holiday, actually the greatest favor possible to Japan, which would postpone for another five years the necessity of resuming the yoke of lopsided budgets for capital ship construction.

The coincidence of the London conference and a Japanese general election, it is feared, may lessen Japanese inclination toward cruiser concessions, because of the probability of a flareup of intense nationalism during the election campaigns.

Pray for Wakatsuki.

Citizens of the city of Matsue, birthplace of Mr. Wakatsuki, former premier and leader of the delegation, organized a shinto religious service to pray for his success.

Japan's distance from the conference is emphasized by the fact that she will be the only participant unable to listen by radio to the opening speech by King George on Tuesday. It is not clear whether this is due entirely to communication difficulties, as the communication ministry insists, or to hidebound officials' unwillingness to remove legal restrictions which prevent radio fans in Japan from receiving broadcasts from other lands.

STIMSON WINS FIRST ROUND! BUT IT'S ONLY GOLF AGAINST AID

LONDON, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The first appearance of Secretary of State Stimson on an English golf course this morning resulted in victory for him, but hardly on a basis of absolute parity. He took Arthur W. Page, his personal aid, over his country estate course and beat him by one hole—but Mr. Page gave the secretary a stroke a hole as a handicap. The "global" cards were not made public.

Ceremony Recalls 123 Yrs. Since Birth of Robt. E. Lee

Stratford, Va., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Members of the Robert E. Lee Memorial foundation this afternoon observed the birthday of Gen. Lee in the Stratford hall room where he was born one hundred and twenty-three years ago. Mrs. Charles D. Lanier, president of the national foundation, delivered the invocation. Poems about Lee were read by Miss Ethel Arms of Greenwich, Conn., national secretary of the foundation.

TWINS IN EVERYTHING--
even in getting coughs

Eugene and Owen Egeberg are the twin sons of Mrs. M. Egeberg of 421 S. Duncan St., Baltimore. They just won't stay in the house if there's any possible excuse for being outdoors. So it wasn't surprising when twin colds, followed by twin coughs, developed during the winter. Then Mrs. Egeberg got a bottle of REM at the drug store. "There's nothing like it," she now says, "REM did them a wonderful lot of good and it stopped their coughing in a little while." REM's quick action in relieving a cough has delighted thousands. It's due, in part, to the fact that it clings to your throat and spreads a soothing healing film, bringing quicker relief. Insist on REM—you'll be glad you did!

REM is quicker. Clings to the throat. Starts relief immediately

BOLIVIAN ARMY RAIDS PARAGUAY FORT; 1 KILLED

Attacking Troops Flee After Skirmish.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Jan. 19.—(AP)—An official communique today charged that the Paraguayan fort at Isla Poi was attacked at 2 o'clock last Thursday afternoon by a Bolivian patrol, which for several days had spied on and menaced the troops quartered there. The attack, however, was described as a surprise.

A Paraguayan soldier, Sixto Benitez, was killed in the first onslaught. The Bolivians were stated to have been routed and to have retreated to the Bolivian outpost at Fort Boqueron, the scene of disturbances in 1928. Other details were lacking.

The news was received calmly here. It was generally felt that Bolivia had violated the status quo agreed upon while a conciliation commission was seeking settlement of the territorial dispute over the Chaco Boreal region.

DISPUTE BEGAN IN 1928.

The scene of the reported clash is only 20 miles from the Brazilian frontier and is one of the most advanced of the Paraguayan posts. Puerto Casado is a considerable distance from Forts Van Guardia and Boqueron, where clashes occurred in December, 1928.

The old dispute over the Chaco Boreal region, which goes back to the days of the early Spanish grants, had recently seemed to be nearing a peaceful settlement.

Following upon a series of clashes in 1928, efforts were made by the Pan-American union to induce both Paraguay and Bolivia to submit claims to arbitration. A commission was appointed with headquarters in Washington to take up the negotiations.

Several Points in Dispute.

The findings of this commission were accepted in principle by both Bolivia and Paraguay and called in the main for restoration of the status quo ante with restored diplomatic relations pending actual settlement of the territorial dispute.

In recent weeks a Uruguayan commissioner has been active in attempting to obtain agreement on some of the points in dispute. It was announced that Paraguay had agreed to the proposals and it had been expected in view of the fact that Bolivia had earlier indicated willingness to accept a similar solution, that Bolivia would also agree.

The clashes in 1928 resulted in destruction of both Bolivian and Paraguayan outposts, with casualties, and the taking of prisoners.

Will Inform Washington.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The Paraguayan government today instructed Pablo M. Ynsfran, charge d'affaires of its legation, to inform the state department tomorrow that a patrol of the Bolivian army killed a Paraguayan soldier last Thursday at Isla Poi, a Paraguayan outpost.

Attaches of the Bolivian legation expressed surprise and disbelief when informed of the report from Paraguay.

POLICE SEIZE BANDITS AFTER CHASE IN AUTO

Three bandits, armed with a sawed-off shotgun and pistols, who were surprised by the police while preparing to hold up a drug store, were captured last night by a detective squad after an automobile chase of several blocks through south side streets. At the detective bureau they were being questioned in an effort to link them with the robbery of the Hydrox Ice Cream company plant at 2400 Lake Park avenue last September in which $8,500 was taken.

Thomas Kane, 19 years old, 923 West 32d street; Theodore Simon, 23 years old, 701 West 31st street, and Walter Dobeck, 23 years old, 932 West 32d street, were waiting in an automobile outside a drug store at 32d street and Wallace avenue when Sergt. Joseph Burke's squad saw them. They fled at the sight of the detectives, but their car was forced to the curb as they were doubling back on 32d street and Union avenue.

At the detective bureau they confessed they were planning to rob the drug store and that they had robbed a grocery store. The three bandits are said to be viewed by nine employés of the Hydrox plant who were tied up by the gang of eight men who drilled a safe in the company office.

New Evening Gowns Trail Floor

SKIRTS SWIRL ABOUT ANKLES FOR SPRINGTIME

Makers Show New Season's Styles.

BY KATHLEEN M'LAUGHLIN.

To be feminine is more essential than to be free, if one hopes to be modish this spring. But then, who would be free, with the alternative available of the delectable styles reviewed yesterday at the Great Northern hotel by a committee of the Chicago Women's Apparel Manufacturers? The committee's selections will be modeled from Feb. 3 to 9 at the Hotel Sherman, under the auspices of the Associated Dress Industries of America.

Moderation of the extreme styles of the winter characterize the display for the approaching season. Skirts will retain the old dip, but dispense with the draggle, rules the committee. They may swirl about milady's ankles, but they must not slap ungracefully in trailing points and panels. Hems will be even all around almost as frequently as they reveal the slight backward dip.

Formal Gowns Follow Rule.

For formal wear gowns will follow the same general rule, but will be longer, fuller, and even more feminine in trend than the street and afternoon frocks. Tiny, puffy cap sleeves appear on many of them, suggesting the early 90's. Some effect coquettish shoulder capes of abbreviated length. In some instances the material in one skirt would have sufficed for three evening gowns of only a couple of seasons ago.

For evening wear the richest and most delicate of materials are employed, notably silk net, both brocaded and in solid color; taffeta, starched chiffon, flowered chiffons and elaborate laces. The color range achieves variety, neither the vivid nor the pastel shades predominating.

Suit Holds Sway.

In this season of pretty as well as picturesque fashions the suit will hold undisputed sway for spring. The short shoulder capes will be a feature of numerous models. More formal and less tailored lines will be the rule, with colored tweeds in greens, blues and tans attracting popularity in sports clothes. Fur trimming will be infrequent, and whenever found it will be flat fur. Standup or "Johnnie" collars will often appear. The same details will be true of coats, which will also adopt flares. Coats will be made this spring of softer materials than ever before.

Heading the mode, so to speak, will be hats of shiny soft straw called Panamalax, utilized in exclusive models. Baku, linen Sol and felt will also be seen, but the rule of the felt hat is a thing of the past. Berets and off the face styles, with brims drooping forward toward the back, will be correct. Colors include Waikiki brown, a light shade; San Marco blue, akin to royal or king's blue, and Piecrust, a golden tan.

One beach ensemble shown yesterday, appropriate for street wear as well, consisted of a canary yellow jersey and black trunks, over which was tied a wrap around skirt of the same shade of yellow. The cape, of the identical yellow jersey, completed the costume.

SKIRTS TOO LONG, WOMEN ASK RAILROAD FOR STEPS TO TRAIN

Beacon, N. Y., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Finding that the return of long skirts has made it difficult for them to get on and off trains, club women of Newburgh, N. Y., have decided to ask the New York Central railroad for relief.

The civic committee of the Theossoli club has arranged to present a petition through the chamber of commerce requesting that on trains which stop at Beacon box steps be carried or some means found to shorten the distance between the train steps and the station platform.

POSTAL EMPLOYE IS ROBBED.

Harry Pederson, 22 years old, 5318 Foster avenue, a postoffice employe, was robbed of $23, his overcoat and his watch early yesterday by three men who stopped him at Long and Norwood Park avenues as he was on his way home from work.

ERNST LEHMANN, SON OF FOUNDER OF THE FAIR, DIES

Stricken by Heart Attack in North Side Cafe.

Ernst E. Lehmann, son of E. J. Lehmann, pioneer Chicago merchant and the founder of the Fair, and one of the heirs to his father's $8,000,000 estate, died suddenly on Saturday night of heart disease.

Mr. Lehmann, who was 43 years old, was dining with his nephew, Edward J. Lehmann Jr., and several friends at the Edgecomb café, 4021 Broadway, when he was stricken. He collapsed in his chair at the table and died almost immediately.

Lives at Lake Villa Farm.

For the last ten years Mr. Lehmann had been living quietly at his farm at Lake Villa, where he had a large estate and devoted practically his entire time to the raising of blooded cattle. Although his brothers and other members of the family had been active in the management of the Fair, he had had no active connection with the business, other than his share in his father's estate.

For a time he was the owner of several pieces of valuable real estate in the heart of the loop and directed its management but transferred it to his mother, the late Mrs. Augusta Lehmann, in 1909. Upon her death, her estate, amounting to $5,324,000, was left in trust for her six children.

Widow in Florida.

While living at his Lake Villa estate most of the time, Mr. Lehmann maintained a residence at 420 Roscoe street and the body was taken there last night. Mrs. Lehmann was in Florida when her husband was stricken and funeral arrangements were awaiting her return to Chicago. She is expected to arrive here tomorrow.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Clara Francis Lehmann, Mr. Lehmann is survived by one son, Ernst E., Jr.; one daughter, Miss Jean Lehmann; two brothers, Edward J. Lehmann; former president of The Fair, and Otto W. Lehmann; and two sisters, Mrs. L. D. Behr, and Miss Augusta Lehmann, who is now in Europe.

DRUNKEN DRIVERS INCREASING IN N.Y. DESPITE DRY ACT

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—With national prohibition now ten years old, the number of persons convicted for driving automobiles while intoxicated continues to climb in New York state, Charles A. Harnett, commissioner of motor vehicles, disclosed today.

During the year 1929 the commissioner revoked the licenses of 2,577 persons found guilty in the courts of operating motor cars while under the influence of liquor.

"Despite the prohibition," said the commissioner, "the number of revocations has increased steadily since 1925, when there were 1,561 revocations for that cause. The number in 1928 was 2,560."

BRITISH, ROILED AT U. S. CAR SUCCESS, BLACKLIST TRADE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—The 33 1-3 per cent duty levied against American motor cars under the McKenna duty schedules, which the present government threatens to abolish, having failed to prevent Americans from selling a large number of cars here, English motor manufacturers are asking that United States products be blacklisted.

In the face of successful American competition under the tremendous disadvantage of heavy duty, the British manufacturers nevertheless cling to the old fashioned models, refusing to accept all suggestions to build American type cars with the assertion, 'The English do not like the American sort of car."

Nevertheless they like them enough so the situation has become serious and it is now decided that no seller of American cars will be permitted to handle English cars also. Placing these firms on the blacklist means that they will not be able to be supplied with any kind of accessories. It is stated that American representatives are meeting tomorrow to consider retaliatory measures, which are likely to take the form of a price cutting war.

Petoskey, Mich., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Joe Wells, 54, workman who was injured seriously when he was caught in a log jam on Beaver island in Lake Michigan yesterday, was brought to Petoskey by airplane this afternoon. George Austgen of Grand Rapids, pilot for Michigan Air Express, took off for the island at noon today and returned to the Emmet county airport at 2:30 p. m. with the patient. Beaver island is cut off from all except telephone communication with the mainland.

WHEATON TRADE PIONEER TAKES LIFE WITH GUN

L. L. Hiatt Shoots Self in His Home.

Linneaus L. Hiatt, one of the pioneer business men of Wheaton, committed suicide yesterday morning in his home at 709 North Wheaton avenue by shooting himself in the left temple. It was said he was despondent because of long illness.

Mr. Hiatt was born in Wheaton in 1871. His father was Luther L. Hiatt, one of the first assemblymen elected in Du Page county—long before the civil war. He founded the L. L. Hiatt Drug company, which was the first business established in the county.

Owned Business 40 Years.

The son, Linneaus, had owned and operated that business for the last forty years. In addition, for many years he had the newspaper circulating business in his territory. He was married in 1900.

Yesterday morning his wife, Mrs. Josephine Hiatt, arose about 7 o'clock and called her husband for breakfast. He went to the bathroom and a few minutes later Mrs. Hiatt heard a shot. She found his body.

Besides his widow, Mr. Hiatt is survived by a brother, Luther, whose home is in Glen Ellyn. The couple had no children.

Active in Club Work.

Mr. Hiatt was a member of the Oak Park commandery, Knights Templar, and the Blue lodge of the Masonic order at Wheaton. He was active on many committees of the Lions club and the Kiwanis club. He was a member of the Episcopalian church.

An inquiry convinced the coroner that Hiatt's death was suicide and a formal inquest will be held today, pending which no funeral arrangements were made.

SPIRIT MESSAGE WRONG; MISSING GIRL ON FARM

Ruby Rowe, 14 year old Geneva girl, whose disappearance on Saturday sent Kane county deputies on a search for a roadhouse where she was said to be held captive, was found yesterday by Sheriff L. L. Urch at the farm home of Fred Moore on the Du Page-Kane county line. She had sought shelter at the farm house on Saturday night, giving the name of Gladys Swanson.

The girl told the sheriff she left home because her parents had scolded her for not practicing her music lesson. Her disappearance was discovered when she failed to return from the Geneva postoffice to her home at 302 South 6th street, Geneva. Her father, George Rowe, a real estate man, consulted a spiritualistic medium and the medium's vision of three men kidnaping the girl and taking her to a roadhouse resulted in the search by Sheriff Urch and his deputies.

KILLS MAN WITH WIFE.

Encountering his wife with another man at Main and Guthrie streets, the principal corner of Indiana Harbor, last evening, Feliz Ruis, a Mexican, drew a gun and shot to death the other man, Lupe Gonsella, 35 years old, also a Mexican. Ruis escaped in the crowd. His wife was taken in custody.

BARRETT REPLIES TO MALONE SLAP AT REVIEW BOARD

Says Tax Chiefs Welcome Proper Audit.

Charles V. Barrett, member of the board of review, yesterday made a denial of charges that irregularities had occurred in the fixing of valuations on property by the board. William H. Malone, chairman of the state tax commission, has summoned the three board members to appear before him tomorrow to explain alleged irregularities noted by a firm of auditors.

"The statements of Mr. Malone are without truth," said Mr. Barrett. "The charge that many erasures appear in our books can never be substantiated. Mr. Malone's complaint that, after the books were finished, we held them up until we could undo certain mythical things in fear of his audit, is not based upon fact.

Followed Legal Procedure.

"The truth is that Hayden N. Bell, county attorney, and our own lawyers notified us that such an audit should be made in our offices. We didn't care where the books were sent but we had to follow this legal opinion and the books were made accessible to the auditing firm immediately.

"There were no changes made except upon formal, written proceedings, according to regular, legal procedure. There were not more than a handful of erasures in our work, caused by natural errors made by clerks.

"There were wholesale erasures in the assessors' columns of the books. I do not say they were improper, but there were many hundreds of them. Some of the erasures in our columns were caused by errors made by the assessors' staff.

"I am in favor of an audit of our books. But I want that audit to be a public audit, made by persons paid and retained by public agencies and officials.

"I am informed that the audit of Mr. Malone is being paid for by private interests. I would like to know who those private interests are and what is their motive? I shall seek a legal opinion to determine whether this type of an audit is legal, but I want it understood that I do not oppose an audit. I am heartily in favor of one."

Malone Issues Reply.

Mr. Malone, in response to this last statement, said:

"Why worry about who pays for the audit? What people are worried about is who is paying the tax bills. The audit is being paid for by the state of Illinois with money appropriated for that purpose."

Reviewer Barrett referred to the 1,700 complaints affecting valuations of loop property which are scheduled to be heard by the reviewers today. The board of review will not jam these cases through in one day, he promised. He explained that there will be merely an indexing of representatives of the property owners today and that they will be given time to answer the charges filed by the school board, which alleges that valuations are $300,000,000 too low in the loop.

Mr. Barrett said that if a raise in loop values is ordered it would not be possible, though it might be desirable, to lower outlying valuations correspondingly.

To which Mr. Malone declared that he had no wish to engage in a controversey with the board of review but that he held it within his power to order a reassessment of property in the loop alone if he found that valuations had been fixed unfairly there.

ASK INDICTMENT FOR MURDER IN "DUEL" SLAYING

Assistant State's Attorney Abe Marovitz said yesterday that he would seek a murder indictment against Rocco Brandonizio, 26 years old, of 905 Taylor street. Brandonizio was captured on Saturday in Indiana Harbor and confessed to Marovitz that he killed Francisco Ferri at Canal and Taylor streets on Jan. 6. Brandonizio's story that he shot Ferri in a duel was termed fanciful by the prosecutor.

"I was a good friend of Ferri," Brandonizio told Marovitz. "I was best man at his wedding. Some time ago I bought a taxicab from Ferri. It had been bought for him by his wife but business was bad and he couldn't make it pay. When it came time for me to pay Francisco's wife, Masima, I couldn't pay either.

"We quarreled. Ferri butted in and said there'd be trouble. One word brought on another and we decided we'd fight a duel, shoot it out. We were to get back to back, walk 20 paces and start shooting.

"When we met at Canal and Taylor streets he jerked out his pistol and fired four times, but he missed me. I shot him as he was running away."

The police believe that Brandonizio fired first.

Continue Search for Girl Convicted of Theft in 1927

The police yesterday continued their search for Peggy Collins, 20 years old, who was convicted of larceny by a jury in June, 1927, but has never been rearrested since the Illinois Supreme court refused her a new trial. The failure to apprehend the girl was disclosed when her case was brought before the pardon board at Springfield with a request for parole. Miss Collins was sentenced to one to ten years in prison for taking three diamond rings and a fur coat from an apartment where she had been employed as a maid.

MR. JAMES GILBERT

REM delivered prompt relief

Mr. James Gilbert of 70 Hollister St., Rochester, N. Y., has found that driving a truck through the winter is a mighty cold job. Not long ago he caught a cold that way and developed a bad cough that nothing seemed to relieve. So he dropped in at De Carlos' Drug Store, North St. and Skuse Park, and asked him what cough medicine he could recommend. "Try REM" said Mr. De Carlos, and Mr. Gilbert reports it proved good advice. "REM relieved my cough very quickly" he says, "I'm glad De Carlos told me about it." Mr. Gilbert's bottle of REM is just one of the more than ten million that have been sold under a "money back" guarantee. It's significant that not one customer in a thousand ever wanted it back.

STRAWN ADVISES TAXPAYERS' AID IN LOAN CRISIS

But City Still Hopes to Borrow from Banks.

City, county, and school board officials were hoping yesterday that the banks would lend enough money to pay current salaries to nearly 50,000 employés, but Attorney Silas H. Strawn, of the citizens' committee, expressed the opinion they had better look to the large taxpayers. City, county, and school board budgets have been passed, and the problem now is to dispose of enough tax anticipation warrants to meet pay roll needs.

The inability of the county to obtain immediate sale of $7,000,000 of its tax anticipation notes did not appear to discourage city and school officials. Mr. Strawn's recent statement to the Commercial club that the city and schools have debts of more than $27,000,000 did not seem to dampen official hopes either.

Calls Prospects Poor.

"I don't know where they expect to find banks which will accommodate them," Mr. Strawn said yesterday. "My view is that the prospects of sales are poor. There is no market for the city's tax anticipation warrants or the county's notes. The banks here are holding plenty of them now and the city's paper doesn't appeal to outsiders.

"It is hard to sell obligations of the city now with indifferent security behind them. We should look to the large taxpayers to take up some of the warrants and use them to pay taxes with later."

Mr. Strawn and a group of citizens were in conference yesterday, seeking to raise immediate funds to care for the sick at the county hospital, the Oak Forest infirmary, and the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium and for the mothers' pension funds. An emergency exists in these institutions and there is no money available to tide them over, Mr. Strawn said.

Hunt Immediate Money.

When the needy folk are provided for the citizens will endeavor to find immediate money to pay the policemen and firemen, but they were said to be not so much concerned about raising funds to pay "extras on the pay rolls."

Talk of laying off policemen and firemen, due to the repassage of the economy budget by the city council Saturday evening after Mayor Thompson's second veto was held to be without foundation yesterday. The date of their next pay day may be uncertain, it was said, but their jobs are secure pending the city's negotiations to borrow on the taxes payable this year, according to assurances.

Victor S. Petterson, deputy city controller, also discounted rumors that city employés will be paid in script, which would be of doubtful value. Under the present system city employés are given checks on the city treasurer which are not negotiable, but which banks recognize and accept, knowing the city will honor them.

More Time Is Needed.

Mr. Petterson said, assuming that no change is made in the budget by Mayor Thompson, that it is doubtful if the city clerk can publish the yearly appropriation bill before Feb. 25 and then ten days must elapse before the tax levy ordinance can be passed, after which the warrants may legally be sold. A few days may elapse while the legality of the levy is being examined but meanwhile the city will be sounding out the market for prospective purchasers, Petterson said.

Council members under the leadership of Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee, who passed a budget practically without change after two vetoes by Mayor Thompson, declared they had no doubts of the ability of the city to exercise its borrowing powers. By a coup, in adjourning instead of recessing the meeting, they left Mayor Thompson with the power to veto but with no means of any additions being made to the budget if he does veto, and so they are certain the budget which is nearly within the estimated revenue for the year will stand.

Expect O. K. of Lawyers.

Corporation Counsel Ettelson would not be quoted on his opinion as to the legality of the budget as passed. Ald. Clark and others of the majority expect a favorable opinion on it by the law firm of Chapman and Cutler, experts of bond issues and tax levies. Their approval is equivalent to a "merchantable opinion," it was explained.

Attorneys Frank S. Righeimer and Thomas V. Sullivan of the board of education said the board was expecting a favorable opinion from Chapman & Cutler on its budget, which will be submitted to the council on Thursday. The attorneys said that after the levy ordinance is passed on Friday the board will be ready to borrow to pay teachers and other employés.

The building and grounds committee of the board of education is to discuss this morning the advisability of selling some of the Austin school property. The board owns much of the 160 acre tract between Madison street and Roosevelt road, and between Cicero and Central avenues. Present discussion does not concern the sale of business frontage and the intention is to keep sites for schools but the prospects of raising perhaps $10,000,000 from the rest is under consideration.

Must Be Trust Fund.

Attorney Righeimer said that if authorized the sale could not be arranged immediately and it would be six months at least before the money could be obtained. Even then it could not be applied to current expenses but must be put in a trust fund. The income from this fund could be used for teachers' pay, he said.

"But by that time we'll be collecting taxes and the board will be in good shape," Righeimer said. "Meanwhile we believe we will be able to sell our tax anticipation warrants."

FEARED KIDNAPED

LUCYLE ORAM.

The police last night were assisting their fellow patrolman, Walter Oram, 213 East Chicago avenue, in a search for his daughter, Lucyle, 5 years old, who is believed to have been kidnaped from the home of her grandparents at 68 West Oak street on Jan. 9. Jack Hamilton, 30 years old, a sign painter, who formerly roomed at the grandparents' home, is sought for questioning.

FOOD HIGHER DEC. 15 THAN YEAR AGO, BUT LESS THAN NOV. 15

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The American housewife paid 1 1-3 per cent more for her food Dec. 15, 1929, than on the same date of the preceding year, but 1 per cent less than on Nov. 15, 1929.

In issuing its retail food index today, the department of labor said that from Nov. 15 to Dec. 15, there were decreases on 27 articles on which monthly prices were secured, increases on six and no change on nine.

UKRAINIANS USE ICE CROSS FOR RELIGIOUS RITE

Hundreds of persons gathered yesterday at St. Nicholas' Ukrainian Catholic church at Oakley avenue and Rice street for an unusual ceremony in observance of the anniversary of the baptism of Christ. A procession around the church to the churchyard, where a huge ice cross had been erected, was participated in by American Legion members in uniform, members of fraternal societies and sodalities, with the organization banners, and by the pastors and laity. Holy water blessed at the foot of the ice cross was distributed among members of the congregation to be kept in their homes.

8 KILLED, 4 HURT IN MINE BLAST; FIND 8 BODIES

Beckley, W. Va., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Eight miners were killed and four others injured, one probably fatally in an explosion early today in the No. 1 of the Lillybrook Coal company at Lillybrook, ten miles from Beckley.

The bodies of the victims, six Negroes and two white men, were recovered by rescue crews four hours after the blast, which J. B. Clifton, president of the company, described as local in character.

The miner most seriously injured, R. L. Meadows, was found lying beside the dead men, unconscious from burns about his entire body. The other three injured men walked unaided from the mine before rescue crews reached the entry in which the explosion occurred, a mile back in the hills.

FIVE BILLS SEEK BROAD CHANGES IN U. S. PRISONS

New and Bigger, Control More Systematic.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—With each of the federal penitentiaries jammed almost to suffocation, and the convict influx steadily increasing, the Hoover administration has launched in the present congress the largest prison program in the country's history.

The program is incorporated in five separate bills, drawn up by Attorney General William D. Mitchell and introduced in the house of representatives. All of them have been approved by the house judiciary committee, and they are scheduled for consideration in the house, possibly on Wednesday. Administration leaders hope to rush them to the senate without delay.

Proposals in Brief.

In substance, the five measures and what they provide for are as follows:

(H. R. 6801). Provides for two new prisons, one for adult prisoners, in the northeastern section of the country, and the other, a reformatory for first offenders, west of the Mississippi.

(H. R. 7410). Provides for a new prison hospital for mentally defective convicts in the central part of the country.

(H. R. 7412). Gives attorney general authority to establish prison shops and industries and to work prisoners on federal roads, reclamation, flood control and other construction projects.

(H. R. 7413). Sets up a new, independent parole board under control of the attorney general.

(H. R. 7832). Establishes a bureau of prisons in the department of justice, charged with the care of federal penal institutions and prisoners, with a view especially to caring for federal prisoners confined in local jails.

"Enlarge and Centralize."

The objective of the pending legislation, apparent at a glance, is twofold: First, to build more and bigger institutions to care for the ever increasing convict population; and second, to more effectively centralize control of prison affairs in the hands of Washington bureaucrats. What the eventual cost of the program to the taxpayers would be is problematical, but the three new buildings alone would run the cost into many millions aside from the extra pay rolls both in the prisons and in Washington.

Although distinct from the preliminary report of the Wickersham commission, which dealt chiefly with prohibition and court congestion, the prison legislation is an important part of the general Hoover law enforcement program and has the full support of the President.

The house committee hearings and a dozen or more communications from Mr. Mitchell explaining the program present a vivid picture of overcrowded conditions in prisons and convincing arguments for remedial legislation.

Dodge Causes of Congestion.

The attorney general's statements, however, fail to go into the causes of prison problems, being confined to measures for curing them. Reasons for the congestion, with emphasis upon the prohibition laws, are expected to be aired during the debates in congress.

Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.], a wet, sought to draw out the attorney general in the committee on the effect of the dry laws on the prison population, but he was squelched by his dry colleagues. He and others have announced they will have their say on the house floor.

"We were assured before prohibition that the eighteenth amendment would empty the penitentiaries and alms houses," La Guardia told the committee. "Instead, it has brought about a reign of lawlessness that has filled them to overflowing."

Traced to Prohibition Era.

The big increase in the prison population, as shown by a recent report of the National Society of Penal Information, has been since the beginning of the prohibition era. Forty-three per cent of all the prisoners in the federal penitentiaries are shown by the report to have been prohibition and narcotic laws offenders.

In 1918 there were 8,100 federal prison inmates. In 1929 this number had grown to 11,335, according to the society's figures. Mr. Mitchell, including the federal prisoners lodged in city, county, and state institutions, estimated the total number roundly at 20,000.

Advocating the first of the five prison program bills—that providing for a new prison in the northwest, and another in the west—Attorney General Mitchell depicted in strong language the almost desperate overcrowding resulting recently in a succession of mutinies in both state and federal prisons.

In a letter to Representative B. H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.], author of the bill, Mr. Mitchell said:

"The larger penitentiaries are now housing more than twice their normal capacity. Not only is the government already faced with an emergency which demands relief, but there seems to be no prospect that in the near future the number of federal offenders will decrease. The Atlanta penitentiary now has 3,800 inmates, whereas its normal capacity is 1,712.

"The Leavenworth penitentiary is about the same size as that at Atlanta. Even in any emergency it should not be required to house more than 2,000 men. To accommodate the nearly 3,900 men incarcerated there it has been necessary to place eight men in a cell designed for four, and press into use as dormitories badly ventilated basements and corridors. The kitchen and mess facilities are so overburdened that the first evening meal must be served at 3:15 p. m."

In letters to Representative George S. Graham [Rep., Pa.], sponsor of the other four bills on the program, the attorney general stressed them as "imperative," "urgent," "pressing," and "paramount."

Large Percentage of Defectives.

Emphasizing the need for a mental defective prison branch, he pointed out that about 6 per cent of all prisoners are insane or feeble minded. Some of these now are housed at St. Elizabeth's hospital and the government insane hospital, both in Washington, but both, he said, are "badly overcrowded."

Unemployment constitutes a serious problem in the federal prisons, Mr. Mitchell declares, advocating the bill to liberalize the regulations about putting prisoners to work. Eighty per cent of the inmates at Atlanta are idle, and 85 per cent at Leavenworth. Six thousand able bodied inmates in all the prisons are idle. The employment bill, in addition to establishing prison shops and mills, contemplates a system whereby the prisoners will be put to work building roads and flood control, reclamation and reforestation projects.

Need of Centralized Control.

The administration and parole bills would give the department of justice for the first time almost absolute control over the prison system. There recently has been a gradual trend toward centralization.

"Until recently," said Mr. Mitchell, "the penal institutions were, to all practical purposes, under the independent control of the wardens. Legislation is needed to establish a bureau definitely charged with supervising the treatment of federal offenders."

The prison bureau bill appropriates $100,000 for local emergency jails to house federal prisoners now scattered through 900 agencies.

The fifth bill substitutes an independent parole board selected by the attorney general for present prison board system. The new board would be entirely independent of the department.

SENATOR SHEPPARD DEFENDS HIS BILL TO PUNISH RUM BUYER

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 19.—(AP)—A defense of his proposed law to make the buyer of liquor subject to the same penalty as the seller was made by Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas in an address here today. The senator addressed a rally which concluded the Anti-Saloon league convention here.

"We need to make but few examples of the highbrows who think they are above the law which governs humbler folk in order to smash the bottom out of the bootleg market and reduce the illegal liquor traffic to the disappearing point," the Texan asserted.

"Too often," he said, "buyers are persons of business and social standing, using the exemption accorded them by the law as an excuse for its moral infraction. It is true that in punishing possession we get the purchaser by one foot. If there is any one we need to get by both feet, however, it is the individual of high standing who flaunts and defies the law. You can't do much with a fellow you are trying to hold by one foot. He can raise more disturbance with that loose foot than you can imagine."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

WETS OPEN WAR ON PLAN TO CURB TRIAL BY JURY

Measure Will Face Rough Sledding in Congress.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Although the Hoover-Wickersham dry law enforcement report has been before congress only a week, one major recommendation, that designed to clear congestion in the federal courts, has blazed up as the most controversial proposal in the program.

This recommendation, in substance, is for legislation to provide for trial of petty violators before United States commissioners, the District courts in these cases serving as appeal tribunals.

The wets assailed this phase of the Wickersham report as an abolition of the constitutional right to a trial by jury. So loud were the protestations that Chairman George W. Wickersham declared "the commission did not propose to take from any defendant the right to trial by jury."

Danger of Collapse.

But, wet congressmen continued their attacks and it has become apparent that the court legislation, if passed at all, will have rough sledding, and further that if it is killed, the whole structure of the program will be in danger of collapsing.

As seen by the dry leaders supporting the program, congestion in the courts is the key log in the jam which has dammed up the entire enforcement procedure. Once it is pried loose, permitting a rapid flow of prosecutions through the courts, they believe, the number of arrests will mount, convictions of both large and small violators will increase, and the fear of swift punishment will result in discouraging thousands of bootleggers.

The Wickersham commission devoted more than half its entire report to an exhaustive discussion of that subject, court recommendations. In many of the court districts, the report pointed out, weekly "bargain days" are held in which petty violators plead guilty and are released with small fines.

"Under such circumstances the severe penalties prescribed by the law become a joke," he report stated. "Moreover, it happens not infrequently that those who ought to be dealt with severely are able to take advantage of the crowded dockets and participate in the bargain penalties.

"Petty prosecutions must go on. But the pressure of the large volume of prosecutions for minor infractions, due to the necessity of proceeding in the great run of cases by indictment and jury trial, seriously interferes with vigorous handling of major infractions. This condition and the policy of wholesale disposition of cases on bargain days has done much toward creating a feeling in some localities that the law cannot be enforced."

The commission explained that it considered three plans for relieving court congestion.

Federal Police Courts.

The first was to increase the number of federal judges, but that was discarded because it "would leave cumbersome procedure by indictment" and "simply multiply the apparatus for great cases in order to deal with small cases." The second, to create federal police courts, also was cast aside because "it would multiply the courts" and because it might be held unconstitutional. The third plan, that finally was recommended, calls first for an exact definition by congress of "casual or slight violations." Such violations, under the plan, could be prosecuted by the U. S. attorney either by complaint or information. Should the accused plead guilty, such a plea would be made before a United States commissioner, who would report it to the court, which would impose sentence.

If, on the contrary, the accused should plead not guilty, he would be tried before the commissioner, who would recommend to the court conviction or acquittal. Should the recommendation of the commissioner be for conviction, the accused, within three days, could except to the report in writing and call for a jury trial. In the latter case, the U. S. attorney could elect whether to go to trial or to submit the case to a grand jury. Obviously, the belief of the commission is that such a plan would unburden the federal courts of a majority of petty cases and that most of the defendants would be content with the commissioner's verdict. Congressional wet spokesmen argue that it would make the judicial machinery still more cumbersome, as most of the defendants convicted by the commissioner would demand jury trials.

Wets Main Contention.

Aside from this argument, the main contention of the wets is that, although an accused person eventually could obtain a jury trial, his case would be prejudiced by a conviction in the preliminary hearing and thus the constitutional guarantee of an impartial trial by jury would be thwarted.

Recognizing that this issue would be raised, the commission devoted 2,000 words to citations of Supreme court decisions to show that the constitutional guarantee is not violated.

It is the consensus of opinion that the bills will be handled first in the house committee and then will be taken up in the house. With the house controlled by a dry majority, the belief is that all enforcement bills will have a better chance in that body than in the senate, which, although dry, is not so sympathetic to the administration.

TRIBUNE HISTORY CONTEST STIRS WIDE INTEREST

Professors Debate Merits of 500 Word Plan.

Can a comprehensive, satisfactory history of the United States be written in 500 words?

Discussion of this question was stirred yesterday by the announcement of THE TRIBUNE'S contest among its readers to produce the best history of the United States in 500 words, for which a first prize of $1,000 and nine other prizes totaling $1,100 will be awarded.

The contest aroused immediate interest and discussion, attracting the attention of historians, who expressed divergent opinions on the attempt of former President Coolidge to condense the story of the nation into 500 words to be carved upon the Mount Rushmore memorial in the Black hills of South Dakota.

Discuss History's Form.

The form which such a history should take, whether it should be a bare, unembellished recital of facts and dates or an interpretation of the basic ideas and principles underlying the development of the republic, was the chief topic of discussion among students and historians, and some expressed an opinion that such a history, regardless of its form, would be impossible to write.

Others regarded it as possible but difficult.

Prof. William Edward Dodge, chairman of the department of history and professor of American history at the University of Chicago, was one of those who regarded the idea of a 500 word history as impractical.

"It can't be done," Prof. Dodge said, when asked for his opinion of the method of approach in condensing a history into 500 words. "I have tried to write a good deal of history myself, and I believe I have a reputation for condensing material, but I'll have to yield the palm to Mr. Coolidge. If he can write the history of the United States in 500 words, he's a miracle worker."

Professor Gives Views.

On the other hand, Prof. Marcus W. Jernegan, professor of American history at the university and the author of several historical works, regarded it as possible of achievement and gave his views of how the task of writing it should be approached.

"It can be done," Prof. Jernegan said, "but not satisfactorily. Such an essay must necessarily be an interpretation rather than a narration of facts or a description. One may set down and comment on the central and most important ideas which have made the United States what it is as compared with other nations. One such approach may be the democratic idea, another the idea of union."

Here Is Your Chance.

There you have the opinions of two prominent historians. One says you cannot write the history, another says that perhaps you may and gives you one idea of the proper method of procedure. How would you go about writing it? Could you tell, in some manner, the full history of the United States from its birth down to the present in 500 words? This is your chance to do it.

The contest is open to every one except employés of THE TRIBUNE and members of their families. Professional historians are not prohibited from competing. Any one who thinks he can write the history is welcome to enter his history in the contest. The only stipulation is that it must cover, in 500 words, the complete history of the United States. All manuscripts should be addressed to History Editor, THE TRIBUNE, Tribune square, Chicago, and must be in THE TRIBUNE office by midnight Feb. 15, 1930.

LINDY FLIES GLIDER OVER OCEAN; GIVEN A PILOT'S LICENSE

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Without previous actual experience in motorless flying, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off here today in a glider plane, flew it out half a mile over the ocean, attained an altitude of 500 feet, remained aloft half an hour, and qualified for a first class glider pilot's license. He made an application for the license after landing and will become the ninth holder of that class of motorless flying license in the United States.

Mrs. Lindbergh watched her husband make the flight, but did not attempt to handle a glider herself.

William Van Dusen, local representative of the National Aeronautical association, officially checked Lindbergh's flight and received his application for a glider license. The machine Lindbergh used was built by Hawley Bowlus, who was construction superintendent for the builders here of the Spirit of St. Louis, in which Lindbergh made his flight to Paris.

London Basks in Record Day with 61 in the Shade

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 19.—While cables to London reported 21 deaths from the cold in Chicago and the rest of the United States, Londoners and England enjoyed the warmest January day ever recorded today. The shaded thermometer at the air ministry on Kingsway at one time reached 61 degrees. Temperatures between 56 and 59 degrees were widespread southeast of here.

OPERA BRANDED 'OLD FASHIONED' BY GALLI-CURCI

But Concert Stage—Ah! That's Different.

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Next Friday night, Mme. Amelita Galli-Curci, as Rosina in "The Barber of Seville," will sing her farewell to the Metropolitan's famed "Diamond Horseshoe" and will quit opera for the concert stage. This afternoon, in her operatic valedictory, she described opera as "very old fashioned entertainment for 1930 and pompous and slow."

The soprano, whose clear voice has swayed the opera going public since her debut with the Chicago Opera company in 1916, explained that "opera does not conform" to the times.

Apparently animated by her release from her contract which bound her to Mr. Gatti-Casazza until January, 1931, she described the concert as an art akin to "the Rembrandts and the Michel Angelos."

Public Losing Interest.

"The opera is not as high a style of music," she said. "The whole world, particularly the Italians, are losing interest in opera. The public and the artists alike both feel that it is a little old fashioned."

Mme. Galli-Curci was careful to explain that she exempted the Metropolitan Opera company from all such criticisms.

"The Metropolitan is quite a thing apart," she added. "It will never lose out, for it is unique."

Today, Mme. Galli-Curci explained that in music, as in other things, she liked innovation and was old fashioned only in marriage. In that institution, she said, she believed in constancy and attributed her happy marriage to the fact that she married an "artist, but one who is not in my line." She is the wife of Homer Samuels, pianist.

Older Composers Best.

Her desire to "keep up with the times" and her active distaste for "routine" does not, however, extend to modern opera. The modern composers can never write anything to equal the older operatic compositions, she declared, because such music "is not in our temperament in this mechanical age."

"We have no time for contemplation or for thought, we have no silence," the prima donna declared.

To prove her interest in things of the present, Mme. Galli-Curci asserted her liking for "jazz" music for dancing. "Jazz," she said, "was properly evaluated by the American people and has its place in the scheme of music, just as a caricature of a famous painting has its place in art.

Mrs. Harry Buckland, 45 years old, 3014 Fulton street, was arrested by the Warren avenue police yesterday on a charge of violating the child labor law by permitting her 12 year old daughter, Ruth, to dance in a burlesque theater at 63d and Halsted streets. The warrant was obtained by Miss Zeta Youmans, 902 Margate terrace, a worker for the Juvenile Protective association.

RIVERS RECEDE, BUT ICE KEEPS RESCUERS BACK

No Word Received from 85 Trapped by Flood.

Vincennes, Ind., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Flood waters of the Wabash and White rivers receded here today, but inundated areas either were frozen solid or so choked with ice floes that volunteer crews were forced to cease their efforts to rescue 150 marooned persons. At the crest of the flood small boats were able to make little headway against the current, and today, with the increased hazard of ice, it was impossible to operate them at all.

Although vast expanses of flooded farmland are surfaced with ice, the frozen sheets are not thick enough to permit refugees to escape across them.

Others Not Heard From.

The twenty-five families in Decker Chapel, forced to the second stories of their homes and the village school house, are believed to be safe, although running low on food and fuel supplies, but no word has been received from approximately eighty-five persons outside the village who also are believed to have been trapped in their homes.

When the break in the White river levee occurred the flood waters traveled so fast that a man who spread the alarm in an automobile was barely able to keep ahead of the water, so fears have been expressed that there may have been some casualties in Decker township.

Winter Wheat Destroyed.

With thousands of acres of rich Indiana farm land flooded, it appears probable that large quantities of ungathered corn and winter wheat have been destroyed. Farmers fear also that it will be impossible to work the fields until early summer.

The Red Cross now has field workers in charge of flood relief in Vincennes and Princeton, Ind., and Mount Carmel, Ill. Relief funds are being solicited.

Crest Passes Junction.

The crest of the flood today had passed the junction of the Wabash and White rivers at Mount Carmel and is expected to swell both the Ohio and Mississippi rivers. The Ohio was receding slowly at Evansville today.

Highways which have been under water are glazed with ice and virtually impassable for automobiles.

Missouri Land Flooded.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Southeastern Missouri and northeastern Arkansas tonight bore the brunt of a fanlike spread of water from five gaps in a 25 mile stretch of embankment along the flood swollen St. Francis river in Dunklin county, Missouri.

Approximately 25,000 acres of fertile farm land in Missouri gradually were being inundated and the water had moved into Holcomb, a town of about 500 persons. Sections of the town were reported tonight flooded to a depth of about two feet.

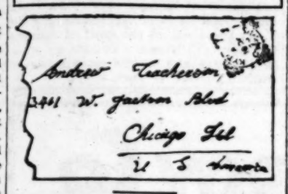
No loss of life has been reported and none is anticipated, due to warning given of the weakening of the levees which gave way late yesterday.

THE TRIBUNE CONTEST OF INTERESTING LETTERS

Every morning The Tribune prints a photograph of the stamp and postmark and the name and address of the recipient of a letter from an interesting or little known place, with a map showing its origin and a brief word of description.

If you have received a letter from an interesting or little known place send the envelope to The Tribune. The sender of every envelope which is reproduced will be paid one dollar.

From the Island of Cyprus



This letter came from Famagusta, one of the principal towns in Cyprus, an island in the eastern Mediterranean 40 miles from the coast of Asia Minor. This outpost to the Suez canal and the route to India was one of the trophies permanently gathered into the British empire at the outbreak of the world war. It had been held by England since 1878, when Turkey turned it over to London's administrative control, but nominally still a part of the Ottoman empire.

Cyprus has an area of 3,584 square miles and, next to Sicily and Sardinia, the largest island in the Mediterranean. The civilization of the island has been traced back to the bronze age, 3000 B. C., the great copper deposits of Cyprus making it the center of that era. Copper is believed to have been first mined there. The civilizations of Assyria, Greece, Persia, Egypt, Phoenicia, and Rome have all left their impress on the ancient ruins of Cyprus. Since the Christian era and after the break up of the Roman empire the island passed into the hands of the Byzantine powers. The Arabs, Greeks, Crusaders, Venetians, and Turks have held it for varying periods during modern times.

Authorities said that the illness of Howard Benjamin of Paxton, Ill., one of those quartered in the hall, had been diagnosed as scarlet fever. Two other students are ill of a disease not yet definitely diagnosed and the length of the quarantine will depend on their cases.

ESTHONIA CHIEF'S TRIP TO POLAND STARTS BIG FUSS

Latvia at Odds in Giving President Welcome.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Jan. 19.—The unexpected decision of President Oscar Strandmans of Esthonia to visit Poland in February, has aroused a tempest in a teapot in Latvia, where political parties are debating what kind of an official welcome is to be given to the Esthonian chief when he passes through Latvia on his way to Warsaw.

The left parties, favoring closer cooperation with Russia, urge that the government ignore the arrival of President Strandmann, while the right parties desire to arrange a festive demonstration to show both Poland and Esthonia that Latvia also favors a political agreement among the Baltic states.

President Strandmann's visit to Poland has been arranged by Gen. Johann Laidoner, who led the Esthonian army in its fight for independence against the bolshevists.

Urges Pilsudski at Helm.

Gen. Laidoner, an energetic supporter of the projected northern Baltic league, including both the Scandinavian and Baltic countries, visited Poland recently and urged Marshal Pilsudski to take the active leadership in this proposed formation against Moscow.

In retaliation Moscow is putting pressure on Latvia, suggesting that the Latvian president, Gustav Jemgals, visit Lithuania, which for the last two years has been waging unofficial war against Poland over the seizure of the Vilna corridor. German diplomats are cooperating with Russia in urging the Latvian chief to visit Lithuania before Poland, and Latvia's attempts to maintain a neutral policy between the active policies of Esthonia and Poland, and Russia and Germany, are wavering.

Other Chiefs Consider Visits.

Because Esthonian and Latvia are bound by a defensive agreement, and because Moscow has refused to keep the trade agreement with Latvia, whose trade balance with Russia is passive, it is expected that the Latvian president also will visit Warsaw, and the Polish president will follow the example of the Swedish king by visiting Reval, Esthonia, and Riga this autumn.

BUSINESS OF CITY'S SHIP LINES EXCEEDS PANAMA CANAL TOTAL

Steamship lines with terminals in Chicago already are handling more freight than passes through the Panama canal, and with the opening of the lakes-to-gulf waterway in 1932 the city will become a real world port, competing for foreign trade. This was the view of the Chicago Association of Commerce expressed yesterday in a statement showing that the twelve billion dollars annual business now being conducted in Chicago is eight times the total capitalization of all of America's national banks.

The growing importance of the city as a world market was indicated by the statement that the production from farming activities alone in the Chicago area within a night's ride is thirteen and a half billion dollars annually. Within the same area is more than 88 per cent of the nation's iron ore supply, while the coal supply of the Chicago district is said to equal five times the coal reserve of all Europe.

STEP INTO BLAZE TO SAVE COMRADE WINS HERO MEDAL

Army Aviator Receives Cheney Award.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Stepping into flames to save the life of a comrade while wearing clothes saturated with gasoline has won for Lieut. William A. Matheny of the army air corps the Cheney award, which is given annually to the flying officer performing the outstanding humanitariar act of valor and self-sacrifice.

Matheny, whose home is in Carrington, N. D., was the unanimous choice for 1929 of the awarding board. The prize carries with it $500 as well as an engraved bronze plaque.

With Lieut. Dwight Canfield and a sergeant, Matheny was ferrying a bombing plane to the Canal Zone. On Aug. 30, 1929, shortly after taking off from Managua, Nicaragua, one of the motors caught fire.

Then Gas Tanks Burst.

In an effort to return to the field the officers forced the remaining motor until it too was out of commission and the plane crashed in a jungle before they could use parachutes. In the crash the tanks burst, saturating the two officers with gasoline.

The sergeant was thrown clear and Matheny ran from the flaming wreck but missed Canfield. He saw him sitting, apparently unable to move, by the side of the plane. Matheny ran back and dragged him away, but not before Canfield's clothing caught fire.

Like Flaming Torch.

The latter recovered from the daze and dashed, flaming like a torch, for the jungle. Matheny tackled him and attempted to smother the flames, but his own clothing caught. Canfield got loose and again ran for the jungle. Matheny's body was severely burned but he managed to extinguish the flames and immediately set after Canfield. He found the latter sitting on an old jungle road so badly burned that he died that night in a hospital. It was an hour before aid came to them.

The award was established in memory of Lieut. William H. Cheney, who was killed in an air collision at Foggia, Italy, in 1918. Mrs. Mary L. C. Scofield of Peterboro, N. H., Cheney's mother, and Mrs. Ruth Cheney Streeter of Morristown, N. J., his sister, set aside a fund of $15,000 for the purpose.

HER AUNT KNEW WHAT WAS GOOD FOR COUGHS

LORRAINE ZEPNICK

REM "makes good" promptly

Lorraine Zepnick of 1210 7th Ave Milwaukee, was home from school with a very bad cough, the result of a cold. Her brother Charles was coughing too, and their mother had tried several remedies without success. Then Lorraine's Aunt, who had used REM herself, suggested to Mrs. Zepnick that she buy a bottle for the children. "Lorraine's cough was the worse," says Mrs. Zepnick, "so I started giving REM to her. That was Sunday and by Monday night her cough was gone. I gave it to Charles too, and a few doses ended his coughing." REM's a great remedy for coughs, as thousands who have used it testify. DEFENSE TO ASK QUICK TRIAL FOR O'BRIEN WIDOW

She Faces Court Today After Dorr Conviction.

When Mrs. Genevieve O'Brien faces Judge Harry B. Miller this morning on charges that she plotted the death of her husband, William, with Samuel Howard Dorr, her attorneys, Charles S. Daugherty and Samuel Hoffman, will demand an immediate trial. This was their announcement yesterday as those most interested in the case speculated whether Dorr and his wife, Rose, will take the stand against Genevieve. Dorr was convicted of killing O'Brien by a jury on Saturday night and his punishment was fixed at life imprisonment.

In view of Genevieve's refusal to testify in behalf of Dorr and of Rose Dorr's outcries against Genevieve when the Dorr verdict was returned, it was believed in some quarters that both Dorr and his wife might testify against Mrs. O'Brien. Dorr, however, said he felt no animosity toward the woman who was alleged to have been his sweetheart.

Prosecutors Want Time to Rest.

Assistant State's Attorneys Harry Ditchburne and Walker Butler said during the day they would not permit the defense attorneys to rush them into the midst of another trial so soon.

"We are ready to proceed, our case is complete," Mr. Ditchburne said, "but we are fatigued from the long trial of Dorr. We also have several other matters to dispose of that have been waiting."

He was told that Genevieve's attorneys had prophesied there would be no trial at all, that her case would be nolle prossed.

"We'll Go to Trial."

"That's foolish," he replied. "We'll go to trial all right."

Attorney Hoffman said the defense's demand that the trial start at once would be based on the plea that Mrs. O'Brien's health has suffered while she has been in jail and that she is soon to become a mother.

Dorr appeared dejected yesterday in his cell at the county jail. The jauntiness he displayed during his trial had fallen from him. He refused food as did Mrs. O'Brien in her cell in the women's section of the jail. Mrs. O'Brien seemed listless and wept frequently.

PRISONER DENIES AUTHORSHIP OF EXTORTION PLOT

Harry Lipsky, 26 year old Philadelphian, who was arrested on Saturday in the home of Julius Rosenwald, 4901 Ellis avenue, where he called to collect a bogus liquor debt of $1,700, was held without charge last night by the Hyde Park police.

Although Mrs. Florence Meyer, private secretary to Mr. Rosenwald, had not signed a complaint against Lipsky, police asserted they had no lack of evidence on which to hold him. His trip to the bureau of identification yesterday indicated the prisoner was wanted in Joliet and Crawfordsville, Ind., on charges of passing worthless checks.

Lipsky described himself as the son of a wealthy Philadelphia clothier. He said he came here penniless a few weeks ago and was persuaded Friday night by two men unknown to him to act as their agent in the collection of a bill. The police were inclined to discount Lipsky's story.

LAKE DIVERSION FOR NAVIGATION STILL DEBATED

Opposing Views on Hughes Report to Be Filed.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Questions having an important bearing upon the Illinois waterway will feature the concluding phase of the Chicago water diversion case before the Supreme court of the United States.

Objections to be filed by the opposing sides to the recent report of Charles E. Hughes as special master may bring a clarification of disputed points with reference to the authority of the secretary of war in allowing the diversion of water for navigation purposes. Under an order of the court, objections may be filed by Feb. 3 and arguments will take place on Feb. 24.

Advocates of the lakes-gulf waterway think that the effect of the decision of the Supreme court of last January, and also of the Hughes report suggesting terms of a final decree, is to establish the right of the secretary of war to permit such diversion of water as may be needed for navigation in waterways authorized by congress.

Want Definite Status.

To make this assumption more definite, Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom on behalf of Illinois and attorneys for the Chicago sanitary district will ask the Supreme court to leave to the secretary of war the fixing of the reductions in water diversion. The decree suggested by Mr. Hughes would fix the amounts to which the diversion would be cut on specified dates.

If the course proposed by the Illinois interests is followed it is contended that it will be made doubly certain that when congress authorizes taking the uncompleted Illinois state waterway as a federal project the secretary of war will have authority, without specific legislation on the diversion question, to grant a permit for the use of as much water as is necessary for navigation.

That opposing groups will resist the contentions of the Illinois waterway advocates, is evident from the results of the conference of attorneys general of the "lake states" held at Columbus, O., Friday.

Basis of Foes' Battle.

Two principal points are to be advanced by those opposed to diversion of water at Chicago. One is that there is no legal basis for a permanent diversion of as much as 1,500 cubic feet, as suggested by Mr. Hughes. The other is that congress is without authority to approve diversion from one watershed to another.

The 1,500 cubic feet diversion was held by Mr. Hughes to be necessary permanently in the interest of navigation in the Chicago river as a Chicago port. Without such diversion to carry into the drainage canal at Lockport effluent from sewage treatment plants and storm water, Mr. Hughes held that navigation in the Chicago river would be impeded. Under the Supreme court's decision of last January there is no legal authority for diversion for sanitation purposes.

The contention that congress is without authority to approve diversion from one watershed to another is advanced by the "lake states" to combat "inferences" of the Illinois waterway supporters. The court in its decision said that it was not necessary to pass upon the question of the transfer by congress of water from one watershed to another.

Whip Hand in Congress.

However, the court indicated that congress had the right to divert water for navigation purposes and that it had delegated powers in the situation to the secretary of war in section 10 of the act of March 3, 1899. Having specifically indicated the secretary of war's legal authority to care for the interests of navigation in the port of Chicago, the court's decision has been construed by the Illinois waterway supporters to mean that the secretary of war can consider navigation needs of that waterway as soon as it is authorized as a federal project by congress.

Under the decree suggested by Mr. Hughes the sanitary district would be required to complete sewage treatment plants within nine years, it would require the average direct diversion of water of 8,000 to 8,500 cubic feet per second July 1, 1930. It would require a further reduction to 5,000 feet with the completion of controlling works within two years after the granting of a permit by the secretary of war. The decree suggests the possibility of further reductions as construction of sewage treatment plants progresses, with final reduction to 1,500 feet.

According to the Illinois contention, the fixing of exact diversion is an administrative matter which ought to be left to the secretary of war. No objection will be offered to a decree which requires the completion of sewage treatment plants in the periods suggested by Mr. Hughes.

There will be further developments in the waterway project during the coming week. The army engineers have about finished their report on the proposal for the federal government to complete the Illinois state waterway. The rivers and harbors committee of the house is considering projects for inclusion in a rivers and harbors bill.

Phone Call from Wife Bares Hammond Suicide

When his wife telephoned from Indianapolis last night, Paul Chester, 35 years old, a salesman for the Puritan Bed company of Indianapolis, failed to answer the call in his room in the Savoy hotel at Hammond. The clerk entered the room and found Chester dead. He had opened a vein in his left wrist with a razor blade. No notes were found.

"The Grinling Gibbons" $6,800

Height 94 inches

THE magnificence of the carving on this fourteen piece suite—which comes to us from Robert W. Irwin Company, one of Grand Rapids' famous manufacturers—is an example of the ability of our American craftsmen to interpret the spirit of great masters and of their proficiency. The table, 46x72 inches, extending to 120 inches, has fourteen legs; the armchairs have eagle heads on the arms and the seats are covered in imported tapestry to match the upholstered side chairs. There is a combination of woods used: French Walnut with the very choicest of beautifully marked walnut for the largest panels. The carvings are done in pear wood, obtaining a rich artistic color common to the original Gibbons' carvings. A very distinctive effect is obtained in the finish, which is in a natural tone and adds its part to the general effect. This suite is named for Grinling Gibbons, who, in the time of Charles II and George I, was a master in wood carving and in the sphere of decorative arts was famous throughout England. Fourteen pieces complete this group for $6,800.

14 PASSENGERS AND 2 PILOTS CRASH VICTIMS

Several Women Killed in Giant Liner.

was a hard rain falling and fog coming in from the sea served to make his effort to save the plane and the passengers even more hazardous.

"The wreckage is lying in an open space. The pilot had selected a fairly level spot in which to make a landing. The earth is soft, but gravelled. The ship crashed in such a way that the wings and cabin are a tangled mass of wreckage with all the fabric seared from the metal framework.

"When the first rescuers reached the burning ship they were unable to touch any of the bodies. Two bodies of passengers and that of one of the pilots, Russell, were thrown clear of the wreck when the ship struck. All three must have been riding in the pilot's compartment.

"Those in the cabin were in a roaring furnace and we could see bodies piled in the center of the passenger compartment."

T. A. T. Recent Purchaser.

The Transcontinental Air Transport took over the Maddux air line last November. This line added 1,000 miles to the T. A. T. along the west coast.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, an official of the line, was informed of the crash. He was at San Diego, spending the week-end with Mrs. Lindbergh, Mrs. J. L. Maddux, wife of the Maddux line president, and Jack Maddux Jr. He went into conference with company officials at Los Angeles by long distance telephone.

Crash of the air liner with its sixteen dead was the second major plane disaster of the new year at Los Angeles. On Jan. 3 two planes engaged in making motion pictures crashed together over the ocean off Redondo beach and ten were killed. Bodies of five in this disaster never were recovered from the ocean.

THREE DIE IN PLANE DIVE

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Three men were killed and two probably fatally injured late today as a cabin monoplane dived into Lake Worth here. The dead:

William Lindley, pilot, Daytona Beach.

Arthur Umps, mechanic, Daytona Beach.

Ed Lipsky, believed to be a mechanic, Daytona Beach.

The injured:

Ed S. Butler, Miami.

Elber Stossell, West Palm Beach.

The cause of the crash was not determined. Witnesses said the plane evidently was trying to land on the lake and fell from a height of about 500 feet.

The plane was owned by the Florida Airways company at Daytona Beach and had been equipped with pontoons for water landings.

The party was believed to have been en route from West End in the Bahamas to Daytona Beach.

POLICE HUNT MISSING GIRL.

The Marquette police last night were asked to search for Helen Brod, 18 years old, 2016 Coulter street, who has been missing from her home since Dec. 31. Her mother, Mrs. Sophie Brod, said the girl left home to hunt for work and later wrote a letter saying she had been unable to find a job and would not return. The mother fears she may have committed suicide.

RECTOR DECRIES 'SENTIMENT' IN OLD TIME HYMNS

'Rock of Ages' Criticized from Gotham Pulpit.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—"The good old hymns of the fundamentalists" suffered rough treatment in churches here today and it was not in the choirs. The attack on them as "spine ticklers" came from modernist pulpits.

Such hymns as "Nearer, My God, to Thee," "Rock of Ages," and "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," which have opened and closed everything in the form of services from revivals to prayer meetings for many years were termed "sickly sentimentalism" by the Rev. Dr. Selden P. Delaney, rector of the Episcopal church of St. Mary the Virgin.

Reality Must Be Introduced.

"The tone of our social life," advised the rector, "would be greatly improved by the substitution of reality for sentimentalism. That has been shown time and time again in every walk of life. There is no better place to begin to abandon sentimentalism than in our religion and churches of today.

"There is too much vague and sloppy talk about conversion and accepting Christ as our Savior—words, words, nothing but words. Most of the lingo of evangelical Protestantism is simply mushy sentimentalism.

Drive People from Churches.

"Take, for instance, the ordinary evangelical hymns, "Nearer, My God, to Thee,' 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul,' and 'I Need Thee Every Hour'—it is all sickly sentimentalism. Ninety-nine out of one hundred do not mean anything by the words they roar lustily. Such sentimentalism is driving people from the churches."

The Rev. Dr. Charles D. Trexler, pastor of the Lutheran church of St. James, singled out "Onward, Christian Soldiers, Marching as to War," and told the congregation it did not mean a thing in the church today. The Christian soldiers, the Rev. Dr. Trexler said, "are merely dragging languidly along."

WOMAN ILL OF PARROT DISEASE LOSES MEMORY

Mrs. Vearle Whitson of Westmont, believed to be the first victim of psittacosis, or parrot's disease, in the Chicago area, showed a slight improvement yesterday but at the same time was suffering from a loss of memory. Dr. G. F. Gaffey, her attending physician, said Mrs. Whitson's fever had declined to 102 degrees, which he regarded as a favorable symptom, but he added that she has difficulty in recalling any events which have taken place within the last two or three months.

Mrs. Whitson has been ill for a week, her sickness following by a few days the death of a parrot which she bought in Chicago on Dec. 22. The parrot's body was examined by Dr. Lloyd Arnold, bacteriologist of the Illinois Research hospital, who announced on Saturday that he had found the psittacosis organism in the bird's viscera.

ONE DEATH IN HAWAII.

HONOLULU, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Mrs. Lena Pepperdine of Los Angeles died at Queens hospital here today from a malady diagnosed as psittacosis, or parrot fever. She recently returned from a trip to South America, during which she had purchased a parrot, which later died.

Bandits Menace 2 Clerks and Rob Radio Store

The Radio Doctors, Inc., a radio store at 347 South Clark street, was invaded last evening by two robbers. Finding the store deserted except for two clerks, Ted Epstein, 1911 South Spaulding avenue, and Mel Redlich, 1519 West Adams street, the robbers drew pistols, forced the pair into a rear room, took $250 from the cash drawer, and disappeared in the crowd.

Till REM relieved two coughs

Albert Roessler, Jr., of 421 E. Ormsby Ave., Louisville, Ky., and his sister Lynwood, both had bad coughs at the same time. They had both caught cold and were coughing so that there was hardly any sleep for anyone in the family. No matter what their mother tried, the coughing continued until a REM ad turned her steps to Lichtefeld's Drug Store at Preston and Ormsby. She brought home a bottle of REM and discovered "relief was very quick for them both. After just a few doses of REM, they stopped coughing and started getting their rest at night." One reason for REM's remarkable results is the special ingredient it contains that isn't found in ordinary cough syrups. Insist on REM—every druggist has it.

19 NATIONS POISE PENS TO SIGN WAR SWAG PACT

Young Plan to Go Into Effect Today.

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Jan. 19.—The second conference on the Young plan for the liquidation of the problems left by the world war will end tomorrow morning. It will leave behind it a thick document, which will be hopefully labeled as the gospel of Europe's finances until 1967, the year fixed upon for the final payment of war reparations.

Lest Owen D. Young, originator of the plan, is honestly unable to recognize his "baby" and refuses to claim it, the delegates of the various countries are calling it the "new plan." "This shows good psychology too," a diplomat said, "because the Young plan may come to mean sheer misery to so many people."

19 Nations to Sign.

Nineteen countries, counting the British dominions as separate entities, will affix their signatures to the 26 separate documents that comprise the second Hague conference's bequest. Four of these nations may sign with reservations. These countries are Czecho-Slovakia, Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Hungary.

With all German reparations settled, Philip Snowden, British chancellor of the exchequer, tonight influenced the little entente to stop bickering. He was quoted as telling Czecho-Slovakia that "you cannot have your cake and eat it too," referring to confiscated property.

"If you steal a person's two watches you cannot pay one back with the other," he is reported to have said.

So the Czech's came to time and agreed to the scheme by which Hungary itself, the little entente and big powers all combine to indemnify Hungarians, whose property was lost to Czecho-Slovakia, Rumania and Jugo-Slavia. Hungary raised its offer of what it will pay after 1943 to $2,700,000. This will go into pools, out of which claimants for property seized from private individuals and other interests will be paid.

Czechs Get Their Reward.

Czecho-Slovakia gets its reward in a one per cent reduction of its obligations under its liberation debt, its payments to Italy being reduced from $2,300,000 to $2,000,000. Out of this Italy must pay Britain $1,800,000. The little entente likewise agreed that this pool, out of which the Hapsburg archdukes, the church, and private railroads are to be paid, should be unlimited. These people will be empowered to ask The Hague tribunal to issue a permanent advisory decision concerning their rights.

In answer to the cynical query of Louis Loucheur, French minister of labor, as to what the rights of the archdukes might be, Count Bethlen, Hungarian premier, said to represent members of the Hapsburgs here, responded:

"In a democratic country is not an archduke as good as anybody else?"

As things stand, the big powers expect Italy to sign without reservations. It is expected, however, that the little entente and Hungary will sign their sections of the protocol contingently.

Traylor and Reynolds Leave.

The bank committee disbanded and Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago and Jackson E. Reynolds of New York are returning to America. They decided follow-up work must await ratification of the bank charter by the Swiss parliament in February. They turned over their powers to the subcommittee, consisting of Pierre Quesnay of the Bank of France, Paul Van Zeeland of the Bank of Belgium, and Mr. Siepman of the Bank of England.

MASONS OF SEVERAL LANDS DEDICATE CANAL ZONE TEMPLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BALBOA, Canal Zone, Jan. 19.—In the presence of a throng, representing every Masonic body in Panama and the Canal Zone, as well as representatives of the grand lodge of Massachusetts, England, Peru, Ecuador, and Scotland, the $120,000 new Scottish Rite temple at Balboa was edeclicated by Dr. William M. James, deputy of the supreme council for the southern jurisdiction.

Two-thirds of the residents of the Canal Zone are declared to be Masons or Eastern Stars. There are 1,200 Shriners and 88 33d degree Masons. Now at each end of the canal, the largest privately owned building is a Masonic temple. The Panama republic has nine active lodges, six Spanish, two English, and one Chinese.

The new temple is of Egyptian style adapted for the tropics, and contains accommodations for both the Scottish rite and blue lodge activities.

POLICE DARKEN GAMBLING CLUB IN RIVER FOREST

The Keystone club at Thatcher and North avenues, River Forest, reputed to have had the patronage of wealthy north shore folk, was dark last night for the first time in six years.

Lieut. Lester Laird and Sergt. George Ulrich of the Morton Grove highway police, chancing to find the iron gate open on Saturday night, drove in and found George Burright setting up a silver mounted and ivory inlaid roulette wheel. Burright admitted he was preparing for an after theater crowd and was arrested.

Sergt. Ulrich said for years the club was known as a resort where players could stake $1,000 on a turn of the roulette wheel. A 12 foot steel fence surrounded the bungalow clubhouse and three police dogs roamed the grounds as a protection against raiders.

Burright, arraigned before Justice of the Peace William W. Ward of Park Ridge yesterday, was released in $400 bail. The wheel, valued at $1,000, was confiscated.

HUNT RUM GANG IN SHOOTING OF GARET GARRETT

Police Declare Leader Is an Ex-Convict.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—A bottlegger is being sought as the instigator of the attempted holdup last night of the Chez Madelon, a downtown restaurant, during which Garet Garrett, editor and author, was shot three times. The suspect recently completed a term of ten years in Sing Sing.

Announcement that detectives were closing in on the man and through him on the band of three men who invaded the restaurant was coupled with an assertion by Police Commissioner Grover Whalen that Garrett had been made the target of the robbers' guns when he resisted the holdup effort. Garrett was described as out of danger tonight.

Scorns Robber's Threat.

The author, who is a small man, made a bold effort to overcome the leader of the holdup band. Facing the masked man who had an automatic leveled at him, Garrett scorned the demand to sit still.

Garrett got up. He dug his hands deeply into the side pockets of his coat, and with self-assurance walked toward the armed man.

"What's this, what's this?" he demanded sharply.

Possibly the holdup men thought Garrett held weapons in the pockets, which bulged from the editor's doubled fists. At any rate, as Garrett moved toward him, the holdup man fired four times. Garrett was struck three times. The holdup men fled.

Calls Holdup Theory 'Funny.'

Although the police insist it was purely a holdup, Mrs. Garrett, who has been separated from the writer since 1914, did not subscribe to this theory.

"There's something funny about this," she asserted. She later called at the hospital and left a note for her husband.

Garrett and a party of friends went to the resaurant at 8 p. m. preparatory to a trip to Chinatown. In the group were Miss Magdalene Davis, Frederick Simpich, a magazine writer, and Miss Hazel Humm. Miss Humm, who is half Chinese, was to act as guide and interpreter on a trip to the Chinese quarter.

6 NEW GERMAN AIR LINES GIVEN MAIL CONTRACTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Jan. 19.—A total of six important German air mail lines will reach their long fingers into foreign countries this spring. Lines from Berlin to Stamboul, Berlin to Seville, Berlin to Cherbourg, Berlin to London, Berlin to Paris, and also from Stralsund to Stockholm will be established by the Lufthansa company, which has just been awarded mail contracts by the German postal department.

It is expected that the Seville line will soon be extended to Teneriffe.

Night flying will be avoided for the present on these express lines, and fast trains will carry the mails part of the way where advantageous. The Cherbourg and Seville lines will connect with mail steamers.

CHINA DISOWNS PEACE ENVOY TO RUSSIAN PARLEY

TOKIO, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The action of Nationalist government heads in repudiating portions of the protocol signed between Russia and China at Habarovsk, Siberia, at the close of six months of quasi warfare, appeared today to have endangered final immediate settlement of the Chinese eastern railway controversy.

Rengo news agency reports from Harbin, Manchuria, said Nationalist heads charged Tsai Yun-Sheng, conferee at Habarovsk for the Mukden government, had exceeded his powers and had renounced his signature. A postponement of the conference scheduled to be held at Mascow Jan. 25 appears certain.

Manchurian officials as a result of Nanking's attitude were facing the unpleasant alternative of either defying the Nationalist government and negotiating a separate agreement, which Moscow was said to be encouraging, or continuing the costly and dangerous bickering with Russia.

COLD FACTS FROM MR. STRAWN.

Under the direction of Mr. Silas Strawn and his citizens' committee an audit has been made of the accounts of the local governments. Mr. Strawn has now made public the results of that audit. He finds that the city has spent $23,000,000 over and above any income which it can conceivably receive when taxes for 1928 and 1929 have been paid. He finds that the school board has likewise exceeded its possible revenues by more than $4,000,000 in the face of a 50 per cent increase in its tax rate in 1929.

The report fortunately does not stop with a statement of the extent of the insolvency of the local governments. Causes are examined. Mr. Strawn analyzes the politicians' alibi that the reassessment of property is to blame for all the financial ills. He says:

"While it is true that the delay in collection of taxes for 1928 has contributed to the present financial difficulties . . . the fact is that this delay has only precipitated the collapse of the system of reckless finance which has grown up over a period of years. Had the present tactics of borrowing and spending beyond income continued, the tax burdens of our citizens would have become unbearable and the city would eventually have confronted a situation of insolvency, entirely regardless of the reassessment."

Precisely. And if any further evidence of the fact were required, it is to be found in the record of the last few weeks with regard to the budgets of the city and the school board. The city council held the city's budget for 1930 within income, only to have the budget vetoed as appropriating too little money. The school board, which owes allegiance to the same political machine which rules in the city hall, blithely appropriated at least $4,000,000 more than optimistic estimates of income. In both instances the excuse was given that essential services could not be sacrificed to mere considerations of solvency. In fact, as every one knows who has looked into the question at all, there was and is no need to sacrifice in the interest of solvency the efficiency of the schools or the safety of life and property. All that is needed is a determination to fry the political fat out of the budgets. All that is lacking is that determination.

Drowning men grasp for straws and discredited politicians grasp for alibis. Hence the shouting about the reassessment. The political gangsters are hoping that the taxpayers will forget why the reassessment was ordered. Here again the trail leads straight to the door of the spenders. The reassessment was ordered because of outrageous unfairness in the distribution of the tax burden. Identical houses on lots of equal size in the middle of the same block were assessed at figures which varied by thousands of dollars. The price was graft either in dollars or in votes. Inevitably the reduction of A's taxes resulted in an increase in B's, and the increase in B's bills was made the higher by reason of the policy of excessive expenditure which has guided and still guides the political powers in the city hall.

The delay in completing the reassessment is driving the local governments deeper into debt as interest bills pile up, and here again the political gangsters are to blame. Their work could have been completed months ago. They have dragged it on and on, with one pretext after another for delay, hoping to tire or frighten the community into permitting the old system of blackmail by assessment to be reinstated. Their failure to date in the face of determined resistance has been as complete as the delay has been costly to the taxpayers and the credit of Chicago.

The unavailing effort of the political gang to pin responsibility for insolvency upon the reassessment has been accompanied by an effort to blame the banks for hesitating at first and now refusing to buy tax anticipation warrants. The charge need scarcely be analyzed. The politicians are asking the bankers to risk the money of their depositors in securities which are dubious because the politicians have made them so; and in the face of that fact the same politicians have the chilled gall to accuse the bankers of deserting Chicago in its time of need. The captain, the navigator, and the crew are blaming the passengers for driving the ship on the rocks and expect to be applauded in the bargain.

AIN'T THEY GOT FUN?

The sight of a herd of lady peace lobbyists galloping over the senate office, chasing senators to refuge in clothes closets and hiding places under the roof, gave a sudden pain in the neck to the president of the American Federation of Industrial Women, Mrs. Charles Fuller Winter. While the ladies were galloping the senate committee on lobbies was busy with its inquisition which has been so delightfully unaware of the moralistic uproar all over the place. Mrs. Winter with the pain in the neck and blood in her eye confronted the inquisitors with the demand that they find out what the gallopers were up to and why and how. The inquisitors stuttered, but the peace herd was safe from interference.

What the lady lobbyists chiefly wanted were votes for the world court. With credentials from themselves to represent the inert, inarticulate and suffering masses of the country they were putting on the high pressure for the Root formula which would join up the United States and the court. They were enjoying the great American pleasure of being active in good works. They were molding the destiny of their country, a gratification of the nobler emotions. They were leading humanity to redemption and lifting the sorrows from the soul of man. They were on the high places of sentiment and they saw Mr. Hoover. They chased timid senators and caught smiling ones.

This is the perfect scene of American statesmanship. Mrs. Winter impatiently called the ladies busybodies, but American political action in Washington is the noblest product of the busybody. There the tailors of Tooley street really would be "we, the people." Tooleyism is the cardinal principle of the American scheme.

Tooleyism is the director and censor of government. It is housed and caparisoned in authority. It furnishes the advice and consent by which government is administered and destiny directed. No one in Washington would think of questioning it when it gallops.

THE TREND OF NAVAL LIMITATION.

Prime Minister MacDonald's proposal for the abolition of the battleship, which is said to have surprised the American delegation upon its arrival in England, may have been imposed upon him by party pressure and may not be seriously pressed at the conference. That remains to be seen. But, taken for whatever it may be worth, it is a proposal that is quite consistent with the maintenance of British primacy as a sea power. As we have pointed out in previous editorials, the progressive diminishing of regular naval establishments will progressively increase the naval value of the merchant marine, and it has been the wise policy of British government from the Washington conference on to work for the limitation, upon terms favorable to British power, of the larger ships and the heavier armament while leaving the expansion of lighter types either without limitation or fixed upon a basis which practically secures British superiority.

We think this a course which British policy ought to follow, but in the measure of its success the doctrine of parity is thrust beyond practical realization. Until the United States or another nation acquires a merchant marine as good as that of Great Britain, the reduction of heavy fighting ships automatically increases British sea power and widens the already wide margin of its superiority.

This, of course, is also applicable to the reduction in the size of guns which Mr. Hoover is reported, we hope erroneously, to favor, and generally it should be clearly realized by the American people that any limitation upon or reduction of the heavier, more powerful and more costly naval types is a limitation upon or reduction upon American sea power in greater degree than upon Great Britain, Japan, or any other naval power. We are better able to build and maintain these types than any other nation. The abolition or reduction of these types automatically increases the military value of types of less value to us and of the fast merchant ships of which we have and for a long time will continue to have fewer at least than Great Britain, with whom we are supposed to have adopted a policy of parity.

We are not asserting that this consideration conclusively disposes of the possibility of arriving at agreements compatible with our security and our national interests. But it is a consideration of which neither our government nor our people can afford for a moment to lose sight. It should be the background of all our naval negotiations and a strong restraint upon the disposition to make concessions which are not clearly and substantially compensated. The tendency is profoundly pacific and there need be no quarrel with that tendency provided it is informed as to realities and controlled by a proper self-respect and a proper regard for the vital interests of our own nation. Thus far the concessions and heavy sacrifices have all been made by us. It is time this balance were redressed.

Editorial of the Day

A $225,000 VAN OF FURNITURE.

[St. Louis Globe-Democrat.]

The idea that old furniture has a large financial as well as household value has been rather generally grasped. The plot of more than one novel has turned on the discovery of unsuspected assets of this kind. When that adversity comes which always comes, sooner or later, in novels, and things are at their lowest ebb for the principal figures, somebody spots highly marketable used furniture in the living rooms or unused furniture in the attic, which is sold, and everybody lives happily in clover thereafter.

However, the fortunes old furniture brings in novels have often seemed so incredible as to make the whole plot far fetched. Who could believe that rickety old chairs and marred tables and scratched desks would bring any such prices as those given at an auction in New York the other day? Even connoisseurs in this sort of thing were amased.

That a small silversmith's anvil, once used by Paul Revere, should bring $9,700 and a maple armchair used by John Hancock when inaugurated as Massachusetts' governor $5,600 might seem to be explained by their appeal to collectors as historical relics. Bids, however, for old American made furniture associated with average American personages and families ranged up into these figures:

Inlaid mahogany Heppelwhite style secretary, made by John Seymour, Philadelphia, 1790, $30,000.

Carved mahogany tea table, made by John Goddard, Newport, 1762, $29,000.

Cherry highboy, Aaron Chapin, New England, 1770, $12,000.

Four card tables, John Townsend, Newport, 1780, $2,800 each.

New England secretary, $13,000.

Nine carved mahogany chairs, $1,000 each.

The total receipts of a three hour sale were $325,000, and the average high bid on all articles offered was $840. Doubtless not a little of the old furniture still preserved in homes of the west are copies by obscure cabinetmakers from more famous masters, but much of even that is valuable. Probably in many attics, if not in other rooms, are articles of furniture which are not to be sold at the first offer without inquiry as to real market worth.

BEATING MALARIA.

THE United Fruit company, operating in the most highly malarial sections of Central America, has cut the malaria rate of its nearly fifty thousand employés from 239 to 100 since 1925.

"The majority of the cases of malaria usually occur in laborers who have recently come from the interior, bringing the malaria infection with them," says Dr. W. E. Deeks.

What the United Fruit company has done could be done at small expense by the state governments in our malaria states and by big business enterprises with large investments in malarial regions. The method is as follows:

Mosquito breeding places within houses or close by are eliminated.

Drainage is done whenever this entails little or no expenditure of money. Water that cannot be drained off is treated either with crude oil or with a larvacide. The larvacide used is a mixture of 1 part paris green and 100 parts road dust or sawdust. The oil or the larvacide is applied weekly.

The vegetation around the houses is kept down and the premises are maintained in sanitary condition.

The houses are whitewashed on the inside. Under some circumstances screening is done.

Each labor unit is supplied with first aid malaria kits, each containing the following: Epsom salts, compound cathartic pills, 5 grain quinine tablets, pink tonic tablets, and compound plasmochin tablets.

If a man does not report for work he is visited in his home. If found with a fever he is given a dose of salts or cathartic pills, followed by 15 grains of quinine twice daily until his fever breaks.

Since 90 per cent of the fevers are malarial this, as a routine treatment, is proper nine times out of ten. As soon as the fever has come under control the quinine is stopped and two pink tonic pills are given three times a day for two to three weeks. The pink tonic pills contain 2 grains of quinine, 1-50 grain of arsenous acid, ⅛ grain of nux vomica, and 4 grains of reduced iron.

All cases of relapsing malaria are given pills of plasmochin compound. Each pill contains about 1-6 grain of plasmochin and about 2 grains of quinine. It has been customary to give three tablets a day for one week and then a like amount daily for three days each in the second and third weeks.

Experiments made by Dr. Baker indicate that one tablet a day is enough and that this need not be repeated many times.

Dr. Deeks says: "If a compound plasmochin tablet could be administered once a week (to every inhabitant of an intensely malarial region) for a period of three months complete control of malaria in such regions could be expected." He assumes that no old carriers would move into the area.

MIGHT TRY ANOTHER KIND.

Mrs. R. M. writes: My 18 year old boy is taking cod liver oil and it makes him belch. Would you advise taking it under these circumstances?

REPLY.

If there is urgent need for taking something of the kind, and what he is taking upsets digestion, why not try another preparation? He can choose between some of the sterol preparations, pill of cod liver oil, oil extract, or some other brand of oil.

MUST EAT FROM TABLE.

Mrs. I. G. M. writes: I have a baby boy, 30 months old. I have taken the bottle away from him and now he won't drink any milk at all. How shall I go about trying to make him drink it? He seems satisfied without the milk now that I have taken the bottle away.

REPLY.

Train your child to eat from the table. There is no way except through training. At the same time do not make much ado about it.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How-to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

about what to do about poisonous denaturants in industrial alcohol. They were talking about it in congress, and it seems that in spite of all the arsenic and paris green and barbed wire and shingle nails and asafetida the government puts into industrial alcohol so people can't make cocktails and high balls out of it, yet still they do. The experts down in Washington have loaded everything into industrial alcohol they can think of, but when it comes to making people stop drinking the stuff they're buffaloed.

Here's where we have to use our common sense again. What is it that people hate most of all? Answer: Things that will do 'em good and build 'em up. All right, that's what they ought to put in industrial alcohol and then people would leave it alone.

First of all, there's spinach. Spinach is the finest thing for the health there is; the doctors all say so. Well, you can take our share of the visible spinach supply and dump it all in industrial alcohol. And there's lots of folks we know will make the same sacrifice. And bread pudding. Put bread pudding in industrial alcohol and a lot of people will leave it alone that used to jump for it. And cod liver oil!

Chuck 'em all in. And when you've done that you'll find out there's a lot of people that used to drink hootch that wouldn't touch a drop if you paid 'em.

SONGS FOR LYNN.

How long ago was the wine of this love
Honeyed, and tasted,
How many times has it been
Now sipped, now wasted,
And not yet, the full, the brimming cup,
Not yet the ambrosial nectar!

Often too dark with bitterness,
Sometimes insipid with selfishness, or too bright with laughter
After, how many centuries, will it be
The wine . . . divine . . .
Yet, nothing that is gained is ever lost.

A toast, dear heart, before we part,
We, who know our lives to be in the infinite round,
Less than a fraction of the fragile sound
Of these clinking glasses.

A toast, to the wine of Love,
And its ultimate, perfect consummation.

LYNNETTE.

IT WAS SIXTEEN below zero Saturday, and maybe it's that today and lower yet, if the thermometer can get any lower than that, and still our wailing protests go unheeded. We only had time on the Boul Mich to rush from the taxi to the revolving door, but in that brief quarter second we saw two victims of the storm—lovely gels they were, with heavy mink or otter or coonskin coats. But the rich warm coats came only to the knees, and from there to the galoshes they wore only sheer silk stockings. And sixteen below zero. Why can't the good kind souls who are saving us from the Demon Rum and the Demon Cigarette and various other Demons do something about this? Girls ought to have nice thick woolen socks these days. Let a fund be raised to provide such.

"OF COURSE," writes Mabel Melinda, "since your little Tommy Atkins is now doing Vangie's work eating the contributions that do not stick to the ceiling, he must work at the office every day, and I've been wondering—you see, I have a little Boston terrier, and I've been wondering how you trained Tommy Atkins to the point where he was absolutely safe in the office." With patience, Mabel Melinda. Patience and kindness work wonders with a little dog. Also we've borrowed a mop from the janitor. Everybody makes mistakes.

AN OFFICER AND A GENTLEMAN.

Neighbor W. G. Sibley of the Chi. Jour. of Commerce's "Along the Highway" has a peeve against army officers because he sent a couple of letters to an army officer in response to a request for information regarding Gen. Don Carlos Buell of civil war fame and never received the slightest thanks or acknowledgment of any kind. "It may be," says W. G., icily, "that we came in contact merely with a personal idiosyncrasy of the officer and gentleman." Which, W. G., reminds us of a dear old story which, if you've heard, you've probably forgotten, but which when it is recalled to you should again bring a smile to your usual beaming and philosophical countenance. A man was walking in a cemetery and saw a tombstone inscribed, "To an Officer and a Gentleman." "How come," asked the man of the sexton, "how come they buried two guys in that grave?"

"WHY DON'T YOU GO," asked a form letter from a steamship company, "away from all this ice and snow to where the roses bloom and the parrots call gayly from the nodding palms genial welcome?" Listen, steamship company, it isn't because we can't afford it and have to stay here and work. No, it isn't that; don't get that idea in your head. The reason is them damn things would bite us and give us parrot fever.

RAINBOW.

It takes so many roses—
Such wealth of gorgeous bloom—
So many petals crushed, to make
One breath of faint perfume.

It takes so many hours
Of labor and of tears,
To give the world a lovely song
That will outlive the years.

But love is something quite apart.
Just one swift kiss can break a heart!

MARJORIE F. W.

REGARDING the marriage of the Japanese prince to a princess of the Tokugawa family, the newspapers said that in accordance with an ancient custom the prince sent his bride-to-be a court garment, a wooden fan, two casks of rice wine, and a quantity of fish. The Tokugawas promptly returned the wine and fish. Of course, we understand why the Tokugawas sent back the fish; we had a couple of trout sent to us by a friend last summer who was fishing in Idaho and they were that way, too, by the time they got to us, but it's hard to understand why they sent back the wine. Think of sending back two casks of wine. Why, the very idea!

LAGNIAPPE.

"BIG PACKER HIDES were very quiet," said the stock reports Saturday. But we've read the same thing every day for over a week. Wonder what's the matter—did they go broke in the stock crash or is it too cold? Bet you the big butter and egg men's hides keep lively enough flying around to night clubs and cafés and dances and things. But maybe the big packers are older and more sedate than the butter and egg men. There must be some reason.

"NO, NO! Away, this is my hero!" the maiden cries when it's below zero; "I've found my knight, my gladiator!" Then she throws her arms 'round the radiator. R. H. L.

NO DOUBT ABOUT IT—THE NEW STYLES AREN'T AS POPULAR AS THE OLD

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 20, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—Rumors are afloat, the highest name as authority, that Francis P. Blair is to start to Richmond again tomorrow in a special boat furnished by the navy department in connection with peace negotiations. Since his return he has had repeated interviews with President Lincoln, the last of which took place this afternoon. It begins to be suspected that his visit to Richmond was not nearly so barren of results as rebel papers have reported.

WASHINGTON.—President Lincoln has nominated Gen. Terry, the hero of Fort Fisher, as a brigadier general in the regular army.

WASHINGTON.—Perkins Bass of Illinois has been appointed United States district attorney for the northern district of that state.

WASHINGTON. — Senator Sumner declined an invitation to deliver a eulogy on Edward Everett before the Massachusetts legislature on the ground that he has never been absent from his place in the senate a single day while he has been a member of it, except when kept away by physical disability.

NEW YORK.—The Tribune's Montreal correspondent says: "The rebels in Canada design the capture of Clinton state prison, a descent on Plattsburg and a raid through New England. A considerable number have been detached from their regiments by the rebel war department to assist in the enterprise."

CHICAGO.—William K. Sidley of Chicago and Miss Mary F. Pratt, daughter of William H. H. Pratt of Racine, were married in Racine on Jan. 14 by the Rev. Mr. Benedict.

CHICAGO. — The city's newsboys formed a Newsboys' association, the object of which is to establish a reading and lodging room similar to the one in New York. F. A. Emory presided and was elected president. Other officers chosen were: Vice president, James McBride [newsboy]; secretary, J. G. Owen and William Smith [newsboy]; treasurer, T. W. Anderson; librarian, T. H. Paschall; assistant librarian, Thomas Smith [newsboy].

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 20, 1900.

LONDON.—Gen. Buller telegraphed the war office from Spearman's camp that Lord Dundonald, with a body of mounted troops, came into action with a force of Boers west of Acton Homes on Jan. 18. "After a fight Lord Dundonald occupied several kopjes," the dispatch says. A Durban special dated Jan. 18 says: "Gen. Buller is said to be within twelve miles of Ladysmith and Gen. Warren to be about six miles to the rear."

SPEARMAN'S CAMP.—Gen. Warren and Lord Dundonald are continuing a cautious advance, hourly expecting battle. There has been slight artillery fighting here, at Ladysmith, and at Chieveley. Natives report that the kopjes are full of Boers.

BOSTON.—Martin Bergen, famous catcher of the Boston baseball club, murdered his entire family, consisting of his wife and two children, and then killed himself in their home near North Brookfield, Mass.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JANUARY 20, 1920.

NEW YORK.—Whisky, wines, and cordials valued at $5,000,000 to $10,000,000 have been seized here in the last 24 hours by 100 federal agents.

TERIJOKI, Russian-Finnish Border. —The band of bolsheviki and anarchists deported from the United States entered Russia today. They were greeted with cheers, but only three may be allowed to remain, according to a message from the soviet authorities. The favored three are believed to be Emma Goldman, Alexander Berkman, and Peter Bianky.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The senate committee on naval affairs directed that the Hale subcommittee make a thorough investigation of Rear Admiral Sims' charges that Secretary of the Navy Daniels hampered an efficient prosecution of the war at sea.

THE HAGUE.—Formal announcement of the receipt of the allied demand for the surrender of former Emperor William of Germany for trial was made at the foreign office.

CHICAGO.—Miki influenza continued to sweep through the city yesterday at the rate of 1,100 new cases every 24 hours.

WHEAT AND COFFEE.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—I refer to the editorial, "Wheat and Coffee."

It being widely advertised that our farmers are to reduce the acreage sown to wheat, will not other wheat growing countries increase their acreage enough to maintain the total supply at or above its present level?

Is not the supply affected more by variations in the yield per acre than by the acreage sown?

If a farmer reduces the acreage sown to wheat what shall he do with the land thus released?

Does not the prosperity of carriers, consumers, and the community as a whole depend more upon the volume produced than upon the price realized by the producer?

Has not the theory that the way to increase wealth is to produce less of it been ridiculed, when workers have loafed on their jobs, by the same people who now urge the adoption of that theory by the farmers?

If present prices result in an unwieldy surplus how is a surplus to be avoided when prices are raised? And if prices are not raised how is the farmer benefited?

Carrying the theory that the less produced the better off the producer to its logical conclusion, should not a Chinaman be better off than an American?

Is there not a shade of irony in talk of a surplus of wheat and the tale of millions starving for lack of it, both stories on the same page?

If, all things considered, raising wheat is less profitable than raising other crops on the same land would be why, in the name of common sense, does the farmer raise wheat? Is he incompetent to decide for himself what to produce, as producers in all other lines do?

And why provoke antagonism by bluffing so early in the game?

A. L. SARDY.

WHAT THE FARMER WANTS.

Gerlaw, Ill., Jan. 17.—Your editorial, "Wheat and Coffee," is based on false premises. The farmers' difficulties are the result, not of overproduction (as a comparison of figures now with pre-war will show) but of discriminatory legislation.

When government agencies are invoked to artificially raise the commodity prices for the benefit of the industrial groups, without a corresponding benefit to agriculture, it is bound to make trouble—for the farmer. For example: Yesterday's market report quotes March wheat at Chicago at $1.24⅛, whereas Liverpool's quotation was $1.32⅝. Hence the tariff protection of 42 cents on wheat is a huge joke perpetrated upon the wheat grower. And when "the urban and industrial sections of the country, which contribute by far the greater income of the federal treasury, consented to the enactment of the present farm law in the hope and belief that it would solve the farmer's difficulties," they perpetrated another joke by substituting a set-up of their own creation for the remedial legislation the farmers themselves wanted.

Given equal opportunity under the law the farmer is well able to take care of himself and needs no favors not accorded other groups. But there is a limit, however, to the willingness of the farmer to subsidize industrial prosperity, and unless we are greatly mistaken the limit has about been reached.

WILLIAM BESTE.

HARRY MASSEY AND GEORGE HUNT.

El Paso, Ill., Jan. 16.—The members of the El Paso Commercial club, in common with the other people here, are deeply grateful for the efforts of THE TRIBUNE in obtaining the release from custody of our fellow townsman, Harry Massey.

Down here where Mr. Massey is so well known the people were confident of his ultimate acquittal of the charge against him, but the same sad circumstances that took him to Chicago made it very desirable that his release be secured with as little delay as possible. While the press stories make no mention of your part in obtaining his discharge, that is understood here and is thoroughly appreciated.

We are also very grateful for the kindness of THE TRIBUNE men to George Hunt. George's misfortune has deeply touched the hearts of this community, and, in fact, of the people of central Illinois. The many people who have been kind to him are certainly friends of ours. P. H. ANDREWS, President, El Paso Commercial Club.

THE DISARMAMENT CONFERENCE.

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 15.—"British Keep Ships by Wits; Can Uncle Sam?"

"Our statesmen manifesting usual inferiority complex."

"Uncle Sam usually ends by giving up his shirt."

"Balfour sunk the new American navy without the firing of a single shot."

"Adroit, farsighted British statesmanship." "Hughes' and Hoover's tactical blunders."

From THE TRIBUNE of the last few days.

What-ho! And whereaway? Likewise how come?

Upon what liquor hath plain blunt John Bull been fed that he has been able to put it all over foxy, horse-trading old Uncle Sam all the time, everywhere? Is it the loss of our grog that has metamorphosed this once proud, puissant people into its present state of punk puerility?

A bas Volstead and the 18th amendment and vive John Barleycorn! Let's insist on parity on booze before we attempt it on water. Can't Ambassador Dawes find out what brand the Balfours, Churchills, MacDonalds, and Snowdens have been getting and send at least a barrel to each of our delegates? Then we can all have a good opinion of ourselves undisturbed by the facts.

If the majestic but muddled old British lion thought he was going to end tail-twisting in America by giving the Irish everything (well—nearly everything) they wanted, he reckoned without his TRIBUNE.

More power to you and for the love of Pete don't let go! JOHN GROGAN.

RUSSIA AND THE BALTIC STATES.

Chicago, Jan. 16.—When you write of Russia an imp of malice and unreason seems to guide your pen. You are editorially worried over the chance that bolshevism may gobble up the pin point Baltic states. Of course it will. That was ordained when darkness was said over the face of the deep. But why worry about it? You frequently assert that bolshevism can never take root in this country. Why then concern yourself about a pitch so far away that can never defile us. Instead, why not spend your time enjoying the sweetness and light of Chicago? M. V. D.

What Will the Spring Silhouette Be?

Is the silhouette modified?

Indeed. The somewhat difficult fall silhouette has been trained and tamed in the salons of the French couturiers this midseason until it appears quite mild and amenable, whether you are 14 or 40!

Is ensemble to be important?

We said so last fall—we say so even more emphatically this spring. Not only the ensemble which includes three or four pieces as the case may be—but that distinctive type of ensembling our Sections are ready to do for you—the perfect harmonizing of coat, dress and accessories for every hour of the day.

Will one dress suffice for all day long?

Indeed no! The spring mode is highly individualized. Each frock has a time of day for which it was created—and it is perfect for that hour or occasion and for none other.

What trends do you consider most significant?

The seven illustrated, but in the various Sixth Floor Sections may be found many other interesting interpretations of 1930 fashion trends.

EMPIRE
If we look like the court of the Empress Josephine this winter we are quite advanced—for the Empire influence predominates in such high spring fashions as the frock illustrated.

Misses' Dresses, Sixth Floor, South, State

VICTORIAN
A term of fashion flattery when one is wearing the little flared jacket costumes characteristic of the Victorian age. This feminized flare jacket is worn over a most becoming dress.

Women's Costumes, Sixth Floor, South, Wabash

or the bustle frock is receiving lots of attention this spring. If you aren't awfully observant you perhaps won't recognize it in the little peplum dresses. So here is a pronounced type.

Fashion Bureau, Sixth Floor, Middle, State

GIBSON GIRL
Remember when we told you that blouses hadn't been so important since they were shirtwaists? This little angora suit with its candy striped blouse with shirtwaist detail is significant!

Sports Apparel, Sixth Floor, Middle, Wabash

NAPOLEONIC
is the coat with the gallant little cape—and if capes were good this fall—you've no clue as to how good they're going to be this spring! This coat with standup collar is typical.

Women's Coats, Sixth Floor, North, State

RUSSIAN
You'll recognize yourself as a mere descendant, but a descendant none the less of the dashing Russian Cossack when you wear little flared belted-in coats like this one this spring.

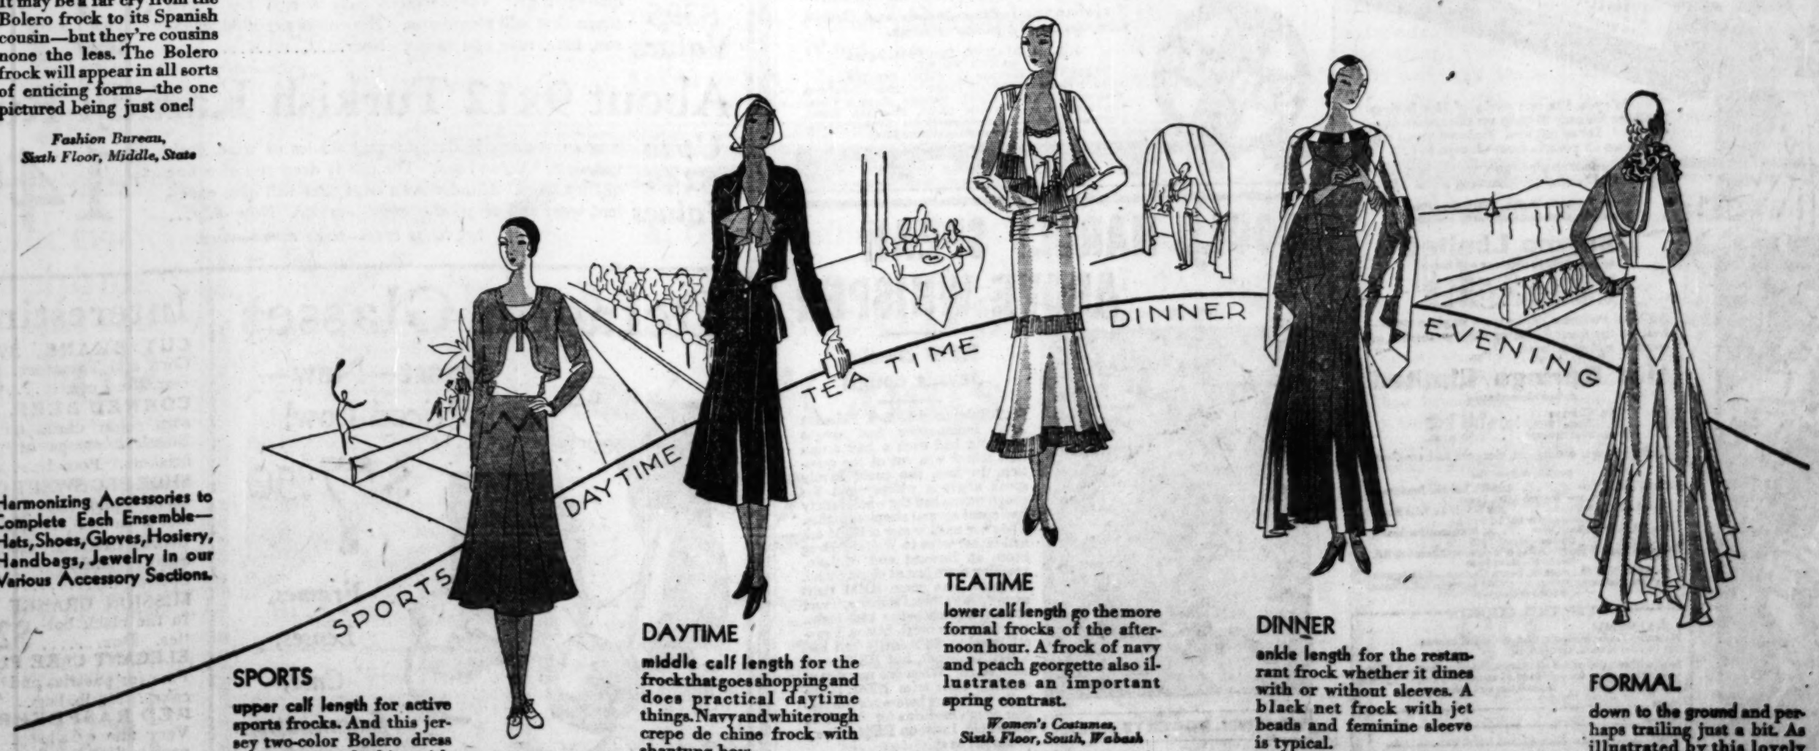
Misses' Coats, Sixth Floor, North, State

SPANISH
It may be a far cry from the Bolero frock to its Spanish cousin—but they're cousins none the less. The Bolero frock will appear in all sorts of enticing forms—the one pictured being just one!

Fashion Bureau, Sixth Floor, Middle, State

What Is the Length of Skirts?

We repeat our words of last fall—"as long as is becoming and no longer—roughly between 4 and 5 inches below the knee for general daytime." And we might add to make everything quite definite for this spring—"the later the hour, the longer the skirt!"



Harmonizing Accessories to Complete Each Ensemble—Hats, Shoes, Gloves, Hosiery, Handbags, Jewelry in our Various Accessory Sections.

SPORTS
upper calf length for active sports frocks. And this jersey two-color Bolero dress in crimson and white with tuck-in blouse illustrates the point!

Sports Apparel, Sixth Floor, Middle, Wabash

DAYTIME
middle calf length for the frock that goes shopping and does practical daytime things. Navy and white rough crepe de chine frock with shantung bow.

Misses' Dresses, Sixth Floor, South, State

TEATIME
lower calf length go the more formal frocks of the afternoon hour. A frock of navy and peach georgette also illustrates an important spring contrast.

Women's Costumes, Sixth Floor, South, Wabash

DINNER
ankle length for the restaurant frock whether it dines with or without sleeves. A black net frock with jet beads and feminine sleeve is typical.

Fashion Bureau, Sixth Floor, Middle, State

FORMAL
down to the ground and perhaps trailing just a bit. As illustrated by this lovely chiffon gown with modified princess lines.

SHOWDOWN DUE IN CONTROVERSY ON BOULDER DAM

Southwest States Again Will Confer.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 19.—[Special.] — After constant controversy since the enactment of Boulder dam legislation in December, 1928, a final showdown on the question of heading off litigation is scheduled for this week.

Representatives of California, Nevada, and Arizona will meet tomorrow in Reno, Nev., at the request of Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur to make a last effort to reconcile the difficulties among these states of the lower basin of the Colorado river.

If this conference fails as have several others in the last year Arizona proposes to commence a suit at once, probably in the United States Supreme court.

Court Action Threatened.

Arizona broke off negotiations with the other states last October and announced that validity of Boulder dam legislation would be challenged in the courts. Secretary Wilbur, however, succeeded in inducing Arizona to delay litigation pending one furthter effort to adjust differences. William J. Donovan, former assistant to the attorney general, who presided over previous conferences, will represent the federal government at Reno.

Meanwhile several other phases of the Boulder dam project have been producing controversy. Nevada and the four states of the upper Colorado basin, New Mexico, Utah, Wyoming, and Colorado, have protested against the price of 1.63 mills per kilowatt hour tentatively fixed by Secretary Wilbur for power at the Boulder dam plant. These states maintain that the price is too low and is designed to benefit California, which all along has been recognized as the chief beneficiary of the 165 million dollar government project.

Wilbur Defends Rate.

Despite an offer by Nevada to assume a contract for all the power at 1.75 mills per kilowatt hour Secretary Wilbur has defended the 1.63 mills rate on the ground that if a higher price is charged the power cannot successfully compete with steam power in lower California. The 1.63 mills rate is equivalent to about four mills at Los Angeles.

Nevada not only has offered to handle all of the power but has demanded at least one-third of it for its own use. The tentative allocations by Secretary Wilbur provide that the metropolitan water district of southern California shall contract for 50 per cent of all power or as much thereof as may be needed for the pumping of water from the Colorado river for domestic purposes, that the city of Los Angeles shall contract for 25 per cent of the power and the southern California Edison and associated companies 25 per cent. These allotments are to be subject to the deduction of not to exceed 18 per cent of the total power each for the states of Nevada and Arizona, and not to exceed 4 per cent for municipalities.

Contracts Are Planned.

Secretary Wilbur, unless all proceedings are tied up by court action, proposes within the next few weeks to enter into contracts for the sale of power, the law requiring such contracts to be made before appropriations for construction work can be granted by congress. It is planned to ask for appropriations in the final deficiency bill in this session of congress and award contracts for construction of the dam and power plant by next fall. Seven or eight years or more will be necessary for the construction of the huge dam which will be the highest in the world.

"Arizona will hope to ascertain whether in sovereign right, power and dignity she stands on a plane of equality with the other states," said the Arizona commission in referring to the proposed litigation. "Whether the federal government, under a pretense of regulating navigation in the Colorado river may take charge and control of all of its waters for all purposes and engage in a purely commercial undertaking of selling those waters and the power produced thereby; whether, in such a transparent disguise, a purely southern California enterprise may masquerade in Arizona as a federal project and appropriate to itself powers, privileges, and immunities, which as a California enterprise it could neither demand nor enjoy; whether Arizona may be subjected to the Colorado river compact by act of congress and without her consent."

HESSIAN MINISTER ESCAPES AS MOB DEMOLISHES CAR

RUESSELSHEIM, Germany, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Herr Leuschner, Hessian minister of the interior was attacked today by a crowd of unidentified persons on arriving to open a women's home in connection with the Opel Motor works. The minister and his party succeeded in escaping from their automobile, but the car was demolished. The police said they believed the attackers were communists seeking revenge because the minister had sent reinforcements from Darmstadt during recent communist disturbances in Worms.

COULD HARDLY SPEAK ABOVE WHISPER

MRS. WM. ROBERTS & JEAN

REM checks Jean's cough

Jean Roberts of 1905 S. Belmont Ave., Indianapolis, had caught cold and had such a bad cough that school was out of the question. In fact, she could hardly speak above a whisper and the cough was so bad the whole family had spent several sleepless nights. Then her mother saw a REM ad, and father went to Walters' Drug Store at Howard and McLain, reaching there just at closing time. "I gave Jean some REM right away", says Mrs. Roberts, "and she slept much better that night. Soon she was much better. I myself caught cold recently and had a terrible cough, but REM soon stopped it." When one member of a family once tries REM, it usually isn't long before it's the regular cough medicine for the whole household. Insist on REM—every druggist has it.

REM's easy to take, too. Children and parents can both appreciate that

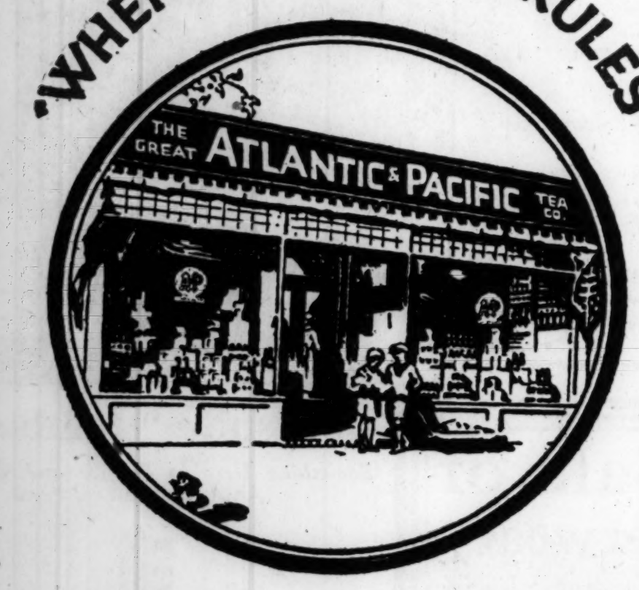
THE CANNERS' ASSOCIATION



May Your 1930 Convention Here Be a Great Success

Representatives of one of America's greatest industries are gathered in Chicago this week for their 1930 convention . . . As a direct link between the canners and packers, and the consumers, The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company wishes you a successful meeting devoted to the furtherance of quality canned foods . . . Your convention here a year ago resulted in much productive good . . . Your decisions last year regarding "Quality Canned Foods" have been effective . . . Consumers throughout America are more and more recognizing the high food value of properly canned foods of all kinds . . . May your visit in Chicago be pleasant and may your convention further aid your campaign for finer canned foods.

A Message to Housewives

This week representatives of Canners and Packers all over the United States are holding their annual meeting in Chicago. These men meet to discuss, among other things, ways and means to produce and pack still better canned foods. Uniform standards of quality are recognized by members of the Association.

From soil and sea—from tree, stalk and vine—foods of fine flavor that are wholesome, nutritious and economical are packed in sealed containers and thus made available to millions of families.

TASTE ISN'T EVERY-THING IN A TOOTH PASTE

Any tooth paste can taste like a confection, but "taste" doesn't mean "results." PEBECO purposely does not have a candy-like taste. It has a distinctive, minty tang which at first you may not prefer. But it tells you instantly that PEBECO is giving your teeth the help they need. It cleans as it whitens and checks the mouth acids which hasten decay. If PEBECO tastes strong or "bitey" it is because of this extra benefit, not obtainable in other dentifrices. Try it!—Advt.

WOMAN LINKED TO SLAYING BY AN ACCOMPLICE

'I'm Not Interested,' She Tells Investigators.

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Walter Glenn Dague today confessed that he and Mrs. Irene Schroeder and another man took part in a gun fight with two Pennsylvania state highway patrolmen near New Castle, Pa., on Dec. 27, in which Corporal Brady Paul was killed and Private Ernest Moore was wounded.

With Vernon Ackerman, an Oklahoma ex-convict, Dague and the woman were captured by an armed posse in the mountains near Laveen, Ariz., last Tuesday after they had kidnaped and wounded an Arizona deputy sheriff and wounded a second deputy in a running gun fight. The three are in jail here charged with assault with intent to murder.

In the confession to Sheriff C. H. Wright, Dague declined to name the other man who took part in the gun fight in Pennsylvania.

Picture of Child Exhibited.

Mrs. Schroeder professed little interest when shown the signed confession. "I don't know anything about the thing," she said.

Sheriff Wright then handed her a photograph of her 4 year old son, Donnie, who is with friends in Pennsylvania.

"What about this?" asked the sheriff.

"I'm not interested," she replied.

The woman steadfastly has maintained she is not Irene Schroeder, although she has been identified by former neighbors and by Dague in his confession.

Blames Woman and Other Man.

In his confession Dague said Paul and Moore were shot either by the "other man" or Mrs. Schroeder. He denied having shot either of the officers.

The unnamed man is believed by Sheriff Wright to have been T. D. Crawford, Mrs. Schroeder's brother. Crawford is believed to have been the robber killed during a gun battle which followed a Texas bank holdup. This theory was based on reports from Texas authorities and statements made by Dague, Mrs. Schroeder, and Ackerman.

Dague made his confession after more than six hours of constant questioning.

The cheka will be instructed to enforce the order, which applies not only to Christian sects, but also to Zionists and Mohammedans.

Mr. Craig said he would urge the building and modernization of homes as a step towards relieving unemployment. He declared there is a shortage of dwellings all over the country.

Yale Alumnus Flays British House System

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—An alumnus of the Yale law school has written a protest against the proposal to wipe out the old lines of social and athletic division at the university and substitute the British house system, as is being done also at Harvard.

Edward S. Harkness, another Yale alumnus, who is a millionaire, notwithstanding the fact that he has never been tapped for the Madison Square Garden sporting club, vulgarly known as the 600 millionaires, gave $20,000,000 to Yale to pay the cost of rearranging matter at his alma mater.

He also gave the money, some quite disgusting number of millions, with which Harvard plans to substitute the house system there and, although he may not have had exactly this idea in mind in donating all this wealth to the two universities, the tendency in the reorganization is to establish Harvard and Yale as the Cambridge and Oxford, or vice versa, of the U. S. A.

Information Too Exclusive.

Last spring your correspondent made some inquiries at Harvard and reported that the eventual purpose of President Lowell was to substitute interhouse matches for intercollegiate fixtures on the Harvard athletic program and retain the rivalry with Yale as the only traditional extra-mural athletic commitment on the program.

This intelligence evoked some rather indignant unofficial denials and denunciations at the time, but I recently saw that President Lowell in discussing athletic matters in his annual report, finally came out with a suggestion that this would be a good idea. So the trouble with your correspondent's information now proves to have been merely that it was too exclusive at the time of publication.

Under the Harvard conception of the house system, which, I suppose, generally coincides with the Yale plan, the university would be divided into a group of houses or sub-communities

BOUTS AT GARY LAUNCH GOLDEN GLOVES PRELIMS

Buck Everett Unopposed in Heavyweight Class.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

The first of a series of preliminaries to select a team to represent Chicago in the third annual Golden Gloves amateur boxing tourney with New York will be held at Gary, Ind., tonight under the auspices of the Post-Tribune. Nineteen other papers in five states will conduct similar tourneys to pick teams for the grand finals at the Coliseum Feb. 25 to 28.

More than 70 will compete in tonight's trials.

Buck Everett, runner-up in the Golden Gloves 175 pound ranks last year, will be unopposed in the Gary heavyweight tests. No one desired to challenge him.

Change Prize List.

The first of the Chicago trials will be held at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium Feb. 11. The second series will be decided at the Fronton Feb. 14 and the third at White City Feb. 17.

A change has been made in the prizes. Winners of first, second, and third places at the Coliseum will be given golden gloves. Last year golden gloves with diamonds in the palm were awarded to winners. Silver gloves with emeralds went to runners-up, and bronze gloves with rubies to third place winners.

This year golden gloves replace the silver, but the stones remain the same. Winners in the intercity tourney will receive medals studded with diamonds, emeralds, and rubies.

Trophy for Winning Team.

A trophy will be awarded to the organization whose contestants score the most points in the grand finals. Five points will be awarded the winner of each bout, three for second, and one for third.

Following is information for contestants and those who intend to see the bouts:

[1]—Prices of admission at the Coliseum and Chicago Stadium will be $1, $2, and $3.

[2]—Prices at the Chicago sectional trials will be 50 cents and $1. No reserved seats.

[3]—At the sectional trials contestants must report not later than 6:30 o'clock to be weighed and examined. Qualifiers for the Coliseum finals must weigh again.

[4]—All contestants must be registered with the A. A. U. Roy E. Davis, secretary of the registration committee of the Central A. A. U., is located at 538 South Clark street.

[5]—Boxing commission referees and judges, assisted by Tribune officials who have been identified with amateur events for years, will be in charge of the contests.

[6]—Profits of the show will go to the Forty and Eight for the maintenance of its world war veterans' camp in the forest preserve.

Tourney Nets Club $25,000.

Last year the profits of the four day tourney amounted to $25,000. The previous year, when the bouts were held at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium, the Forty and Eight received $9,000. If all tickets are sold for the intercity bouts at the Chicago Stadium there will be 22,000 in attendance. This will be the largest crowd which ever has seen an indoor boxing show anywhere.

RICH GOLF MEET OPENS TODAY AT AGUA CALIENTE

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Faced with four days of keen competition, almost a hundred players today tried out the new course where tomorrow they set out on a 72 hole quest for the $25,000 in prizes awaiting the winners in the first annual Agua Caliente open golf tournament.

It was the first opportunity for these par chasers to test their game over the course which hands a $10,000 sack of gold for the champion.

Going into this climaxing tourney of the Pacific coast "gold dust" trail, the final stand on the western seaboard, many of the leading contenders, including Walter Hagen, British open champion; Macdonald Smith, twice victor in the Los Angeles open, and Johnny Farrell, former national open titleholder, have yet to appear among the front rank money winners.

OIMAN, ENGEN WIN NORGE SKI TOURNEY TITLES

Casper Oiman of Canton, S. D., yesterday won the class A event in the twenty-fourth annual tournament of the Norge Ski club at Cary, Ill., He leaped 172 feet, bettering the previous slide mark by a foot. A crowd of 8,000 saw the meet.

Lemoyne Batson, also of Canton, S. D., soared 156 and 160 feet in his two attempts to earn second place. Roy Mikkelson of the Norge Ski club of Chicago was placed third.

In the class B tournament Severre Engen, 18 year old Norwegian rider of the Norge Ski club, jumped 153 feet for first place. George Gunderson of Racine, Wis., remained aloft for 141 feet to take second honors. Hans Strand, Rockford, Ill., was third.

In the class A tournament Harold Soronsen of the Norseman Ski club of New York, made two spectacular jumps, but lost his balance on each occasion and fell. Lloyd Ellingsen of St. Olaf's college, of Northfield, Minn., and three University of Wisconsin jumpers, just returned from the national meet at Lake Placid, competed but also were rated low because of their poor landings.

It was the second Chicago district victory for Oiman and the versatile skier shattered two slide records in the meets. In the Ogden Dunes meet, Oiman leaped 169 feet on a thawing glide. Oiman was awarded the Chicago medal by officials of the Norge Ski club last night at a banquet in the Masonic temple.

Phillips Sees Visions of Two City League Titles

While the Englewood-Hyde Park and Lindblom-Tilden games are closing the first round of the City league schedule in the central section tomorrow, the undefeated Wendell Phillips teams, both of which will be idle, can sit back and relish the vision of a double sectional championship. And the vision isn't an empty one to the fans at the Pershing road school, for both the heavyweights and lightweights have completed the first lap with four victories won over the other members of the circuit.

Wendell Phillips' 1928 lightweights brought the school the only city basketball title it has won in fourteen years of league competition, but this year's teams are eager to bring both championships home—a feat which has been achieved by only two schools, Marshall in 1917 and Crane in 1921.

Englewood Is Second.

The disturbing element in Phillips' sectional title dream is Englewood. Both the Purple teams are in second place with two victories and one defeat. Those defeats were met at Phillips' gym in the league openers, the heavies losing, 32 to 22, and the lights, 19 to 14. Since then both teams have hit their stride and the boys are sure they'll reverse the verdict on the home floor Friday. They aren't overlooking tomorrow's battles with Hyde Park, for a meeting between the two most famous rivals in the league is liable to produce anything. But the heavies point to their 55 points against Tilden—the league's season record—and the lights, defending city champions, hold easy decisions over Lindblom and Tilden.

Coach Norman Harris of Wendell Phillips boasts two of the best heavyweight basket shooters in the league in Capt. Agis Bray and James Buckner, forward and center respectively. Bray's lowest point total for the season came in the Tilden game, when he was held to three baskets and three free throws. Until Bill Haarlow of Bowen scored his 21 points last Friday, Agis led the league for scoring in one game with seven baskets and five free throws against Hyde Park.

Lost Only Game.

The heavyweight talent is not confined to Bray and Buckner, however, for Walter Miller, forward, and Bill Patterson and Joe Branham, guards, have played their part in the team's record. Before starting on the league schedule the heavies won seven games and were defeated only once, by Harrison of the west section. Jonathan Lightfoot, Walter Hayes, and Jones are the substitutes.

The lightweights are the only team

Second period—F. Cook [Boucher], :46; Adams, [Dutkowski], 16:14.

Penalties.

Bourgault [3], Keeling [3], Dutkowski, Arbour, Abel [2], Taylor, Gottselig, Goldsworthy, Bostrum.

New York, Jan. 19.—[Special.]—The New York Rangers climbed back into second place in the National Hockey league tonight, by defeating the Chicago Blackhawks, 4 to 1, at Madison Square Garden.

Ching Johnson, with a bandage across his right eyebrow as a memento of last Sunday night's battle between the same two teams in Chicago, was the star, scoring twice and flashing brilliantly on both attack and defense.

The game was fiercest in the first period, during which the Rangers gained the ascendancy on goals by Bill Cook and Johnson. Their lead never was threatened subsequently. About 14,000 fans, expecting a revival of last week's Chicago scrimmaging, cheered throughout the first period. Towards the finish, with the Hawks outplayed, the game and the crowd quieted down.

14 Penalties Called.

There were eight penalties in the first period, five in the second, and one in the last. Three of Chicago's four first period penalties were bunched, so that for about half a minute the Hawks had only three men on the ice, including the goalie. The Rangers could not score, however, until after two of three penalized players had regained active ice status.

Bill Cook lit the first red light, on a lightning fast pass from Boucher in 11:10. Johnson's first goal, which came in 15:44 of the opening period, was a brilliant individual feat. Ching fought for the puck with a Hawk defense man in a corner of the rink, wrestled away from him, sneaked around another Hawk in his way and then skated to the net to spin the puck past Gardiner.

Each team took the ice one man short for the second period and 46 seconds after the faceoff the first string Rangers line swarmed over the Chicago goal. Boucher's rebound fell to the ice a yard from the goal line and Bun Cook, skating past, swept it home with a backhand slash.

Scores Freak Goal.

About mid-period the Rangers' forces were reduced to four by penalties to Keeling and Bourgault, but Chicago did not score until three minutes before the bell, when a scrimmage in front of the New York goal gave Adams a clear shot at the net, with Roach flat on the ice beside one goal post.

Johnson's second goal, the only third period score, was a freak shot. Ching, behind the Chicago net, slid the puck across the corner of the goal. The Chicago goalie's stick was in the way and the puck rebounded into the basket for the evening's final in 8:41.

Roach fell hard on his right shoulder during the first period but after a short time out resumed play. This was the only semblance of an injury the evening furnished. The saves stood 9 to 8 in Roach's favor in the first period, but Gardiner led in the other two, 11 to 7 and 14 to 10.

BRUINS, 5; COUGARS, 4.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 19.—(AP)—The world's champion Boston Bruins nosed out the Detroit Cougars, 5 to 4, at Olympic tonight. A hectic second period, which saw seven scores, five in the first five minutes of play, featured the contest. Clapper, a spare, scored twice for the Bruins, driving their third and fourth goals into the net. Carson, Oliver, and Welland also scored for the winners.

DETROIT PINMEN WIN WORLD TITLE FROM FLORALS

The Palace Recreation five of Detroit won the world's team bowling championship last night by defeating the Duffy Florals in the last of their 24 game series. The Detroit team led throughout the series and finished with a 999 point advantage. The total scores were Palace Recreation, 24,377; Duffy Florals, 23,338.

Joe Morris, 21 year old Detroit youth, led the pin topplers with a 214 point average. He tied with Frank Kartheiser for high game with 254.

The game scores of the two teams: Duffy Florals—947, 935, 908, 892, 902, 993, 899, 906, 945, 1022, 1024—23,338; Palace Recreation — 904, 954, 1007, 1046, 905, 1064, 903, 1041, 954, 1059, 1050—24,337.

in the league to show a clean slate, winning nine straight in practice before opening the regular schedule. They defeated Medill and Tuley twice, Harrison, Fenger, Morgan Park, Parker, and the school alumni. Capt. Guy Ousley leads the team from a forward position and is paired with Emmett Hunter. George Darden, the center, is a sharpshooter and clever ball handler. George Easter and Milt Harris man the guard posts.

Coach Harry Staples of Englewood found most of his lightweight champions of last year back, but was forced to shift four of them—Capt. Jimmy Custard, Chuck Waterman, Irving Charnoff, and Stub Guthrie—to the heavyweight squad. The team lines up as follows: Custard and Waterman, forwards; Rith, center; Graham, Charnoff, and Guthrie, guards. Custard, one of the best forwards in the city, will be lost by graduation at the end of the month, as will Charnoff and Graham. George Strom, C. Johnson, and Jim Wright are substitutes who will have their chance when the trio leaves.

Hyde Park Loses Two Men.

The lightweights, all of whom played last year, are led by Sig Schatzberg, a fine guard. Jim Wilson shares the defensive job with him, while Dick Wren and Hank Isaacs are at the forwards and Bert King at center. Wren and Isaacs are the offensive stars of the team. The latter will be graduated at the end of the month. The lights won ten straight in practice.

At Hyde Park Coach Henry Schultz faces the problem of losing two of his heavyweight stars by graduation. They are Capt. Phil Cole, a forward and a consistent basket maker, and Frank Carr, guard. Al Johnson jumps center and Cliff Allman is the other forward, while Harold Johnson, unrelated to Al, is the other guard. Ashley Offill, Bob Humlong, Art Hadhazy, and Addison Carr, a cousin of Frank, are the four who will be called upon to fill the places of the graduating trio. The team showed a good practice record of nine victories and four defeats.

Coach Lloyd Rohrke turned from football to tutor the lightweights, and he also will be hit by graduation, since Walter McNally, guard, and George Hughes, a forward, will be in the midyear diploma line. Len Mayer, guard; Bob Everett, forward, and Allan Gilmore complete the lineup.

The graduation problem exists for Coach Henry Smidl of Lindblom also, since both of his captains, George Sherman of the heavies and Charlie Matuz of the lights will go, as will Steve Karac, who played in the city final against Crane last year. Ed Beinor probably will take Sherman's place at guard; Len Ansley will replace Matuz at forward, and Bill Silverstorf will be in Karac's forward job after graduation.

Tilden in Cellar Position.

The remaining personnel of the two teams follows: Heavies: Henry Graske, guard, and Ray Janda, center. Lights: Art Carlson, forward; Wendell Hamilton, center, and Dan Deskovich and Willard Gasper, guards.

Both of the Lindblom representatives are respected by the leaders, for the heavies were beaten by Englewood by only two points, while the lights, lagging by seven points at the half of the Hyde Park game, came back and won, 25 to 17.

Neither of the Tilden teams has managed to break into the win column as yet, but Coaches R. D. Hicks of the heavies and J. M. Fewkes of the lights look for their boys to do things in the second round. The regular heavyweight lineup is composed of Capt. Harold Blackmore and Daniel Moriarity, forwards; John Moore, center, and George Abrams and Fred Wachter, guards. Abrams, a good shot, will be graduated in midyear, but Tom Joyce or Harry Johnson will be in line for his job.

George Harris and Jack Devine are the lightweight guards, while Joe Krause and Francis McCloud handle the forward jobs and Jim Koeppe attends to the tipoff. Bob Exter and Frank Devine are two others who frequently break into the box scores. Both Tilden teams won three and lost three in practice.

and a student would remain a resident or member of one house as long as he should stay in school. Thus, he would be thrown into domestic association with sophomores, juniors, and seniors and even with post graduates while a freshman and identify himself more distinctly with the house of which he chanced to be a resident than with the class of '33 or '35, or whatever his class might be.

Varsity Team Process of Survival.

In athletics, he would aspire to house teams and secondary teams within his house rather than to the freshman team or, after his freshman year, to the varsity. There would be a Harvard varsity to represent the entire university in the Yale game every fall, of course, and membership on this team would be a very distinguished honor but the member would be selected by a process of survival.

That is, the best house team players would be plucked from their various squads and amalgamated into the Harvard varsity for the game with Yale. Of course, the plan has not been definitely set down in this form as yet; but, having minor departures, that is the general eventual idea of athletic team organization under the house system.

The Yale alumnus who opposes the institution of the system at New Haven, a Milton Knight of Toledo, O., expresses alarm at the prospect of disarranging the present memorial quadrangle and suggests the horrifying idea that the clatter of dishes and the odor of boiled cabbage from the several house dining rooms and kitchens would disturb an otherwise peaceful environment.

DUNDEE TRIES ICE WORKOUTS; EYES THOSE 3 POUNDS

Believes They'll Help in Fields Fight.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Vince Dundee, who is to fight Champion Jackie Fields at the Chicago Stadium Friday night, wants the world to know he is not a hothouse plant. He has adopted as his favorite training maneuver the daily practice of leaping from iceberg to iceberg off Belmont harbor.

Upon his arrival here Vince instructed his manager to engage quarters near the harbor so he could get out into weather that is weather without a great loss of time. During the last three or four days Vince has been having the most fun out there on the lake where the air has been so nice and fresh.

After his romp on the ice and snow Vince comes down to the loop to work out in a gymnasium where the air is not so fresh but the facilities are better for actual boxing.

Wants Weight Advantage.

Dundee figures that he doesn't reveal much out of the lake and thus is able to retain his 152 pounds, which is permissible under the terms of the coming fight, which is not for the 147 pound title. If Vince goes in at 152 as he expects to do, he will be three pounds heavier than when he fought Jackie at the Coliseum last fall.

Dundee says that if he is able to avenge his brother Joe's loss of the welter crown to Fields by giving Jackie a good, decisive trimming at the Stadium he'll launch a gradual program to get down to 147 pounds by summer, when he will seek a title match with Fields if the latter still is champ. If he does not realize his hopes and expectations Friday night, he'll announce himself as a middleweight contender, he says.

Jack Brady, director of public relations at the Stadium, last night expressed some anxiety about the noms de resin of the two well known fighters, a matter which he says has a great deal of bearing on the matter of attracting casual fight fans who have much racial pride but limited data on the family history of even the more famous of the fistic petitioners.

The Truth Is Out.

Accordingly, Mr. Brady sent out bulletins reminding the public again that shortly after Jackie Fields was born in Chicago 22 years ago and for many years thereafter he was known to his family and others as Little Jackie Finkelstein and that Mr. Dundee is registered in the family bible as Vincent Lazzaro. Mr. Brady holds that while most of the Finklesteins and the Lazzaros know these facts, there are many persons with the price of admission who have not been advised of the truth and would like to know it. Following is the card which will support the Fields-Dundee attraction:

Johnny Burns, San Francisco, vs. Joe Gorman, Detroit, eight rounds at 162 pounds.
Harry Dubinsky, Chicago, vs. Jimmy Hackett, Indianapolis, six rounds at 133 pounds.
Jimmy Lundy, Oakland, Cal., vs. Hirshey Allen, Chicago, six rounds at 140 pounds.
Harry Ross, Chicago, vs. Johnny Andrews, Chicago, six rounds at 132 pounds.

Silver Skates Entries Close; Record Number to Compete

Entries for THE TRIBUNE'S fourteenth annual Silver Skates Derbies at Garfield park Saturday and Sunday, closed last night, but the number of contestants will not be known until today. Nominations placed in the mail yesterday will be accepted.

The Opal A. A. held its ninth annual Derby at Douglas park yesterday, and those in charge of the various teams waited until the last event before determining the personnel of their teams.

Last year a record breaking entry of 4,404 was received. Indications are this mark will be surpassed when the final entries are received and computed today. Team and individual nominations have been turned over to Harry Berz, chairman of the registration committee of the Western Skating association, under whose auspices the events will be conducted. No post entries will be accepted.

Here Are the Rules.

Following are some of the rules skaters must remember:

[1]—Preliminaries in the boys' juvenile and junior races will be held Saturday starting at 2 o'clock. Contestants must report for their numbers not later than 1:30 o'clock. Contestants who do not call for numbers before 1:30 o'clock automatically forfeit right to compete.

[2]—Finals in the boys' juvenile and junior will be held Sunday. The number to qualify in each race will be determined by the officials Saturday.

[3]—Preliminaries in the girls' junior and senior, boys' intermediate and senior will be held Sunday. Trial heats in the boys' intermediate will start at 1 o'clock. Numbers must be called for half an hour earlier. No exceptions will be made. Either contestants, team managers or captains may call for the numerals.

Candidates Must Register.

[4]—Every contestant must be registered with the Western Skating association. Officials of this organization will take care of such registration, which costs twenty-five cents. Payment of this fee permits all skaters to take part in Derbies sanctioned by the Western Skating association.

[5]—Skaters found guilty of misrepresenting their age not only will forfeit prizes, but also will be suspended from further Western Skating association contests for a period to be determined by the board of control.

[6]—Unsportsmanlike conduct will not be permitted. Skaters refusing to obey instructions of the officials automatically will forfeit their right to compete.

[7]—Contestants must answer promptly when their numbers are called for preliminary, semi-finals and final heats. Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, the referee, will rule tardy entrants out.

Must Know Numbers.

[8]—Races are staged to encourage boys and girls in a healthy winter sport. Officials devote the day to make it a memorable one for the contestants. Skaters for that reason are requested to cooperate so that the Derbies may be run off with the dispatch that has made them the greatest ice classic in the country.

[9]—When contestants arrive at the pavilion, they are requested to secure a program and ascertain their numbers. When reporting to number clerks they must know their numbers. Names and numbers of all entrants will appear in THE TRIBUNE Saturday and Sunday.

[10]—Prizes will be awarded to winners of the first five places in each event at the conclusion of the program. Charles V. Barrett will make the awards and Freddie Marquard and George Sonnenleiter Jr. will have charge of the trophies.

[11]—Spectators and contestants are requested to obey the commands of police. Every effort wil be made to avoid confusion and accidents. This only can be brought about by respecting orders from those in official capacity.

INDIANA SEEKS BIG 9 LEAD IN MICHIGAN GAME

Indiana university, by its overwhelming victory over Northwestern Saturday night, has been made the favorite in tonight's Big Nine game against Michigan at Ann Arbor.

Chicago plays its second conference game tonight against Wisconsin. The Maroons lost their inaugural to Indiana. While Chicago is given an outside chance to upset Dr. Meanwell's five, that possibility became even more of a long shot when Sid Yates was injured last week. A fractured hand will keep him from the lineup.

BOB OCOCK WINS SENIOR TROPHY AT MILWAUKEE

Milwaukee, Wis., Jan. 19.—[Special.]—Bobby Ocock, University of Wisconsin skating star, won the senior trophy at the central interstate championships at Gordon park this afternoon. Ocock won the city championships here last Sunday. He took first in the half mile and three-quarter mile events today for a total of sixty points. In the three-quarter mile event he broke the city record in 2:18.7, and defeated Fred Einert, holder of the previous record.

Robert Flanagan of Oconomowoc excelled the national half mile record in the intermediate class, skating the distance in 1:21. The old mark was 1:23.6.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Mme. Elisabeth Rethberg, an operatic and concert soprano whom the present generation can claim as its own and who could easily have held her own among the Golden Age of Singers of the last generation, was the star soloist on the New York concert through W-G-N, 8:15 to 9:15 last night. Edward Kane, first prize winning tenor in the recent national radio audition contest, was a participant in this concert.

It may be taken for granted that the radio audience knows Mme. Rethberg as thoroughly as the Ravinia opera audience knows her. Her program was lengthy, contrasting as to material, and her song numbers far exceeded her operatic arias. With her last two selections, "Love Is Forever" [Brahms], and Isolde's Love Death aria from "Tristan and Isolde" [Wagner], she achieved a climax and a depth seldom attained in vocal programs.

Mr. Kane is an interesting singer, and he is different. His voice has a distinct color, and since he is now only 22 years of age, it will be interesting to see what niche in the field of music he ultimately fills.

George Nelidoff, Russian baritone who is now appearing weekly on the W-G-N 5 to 5:30 orchestral program, would seem to merit the making of a name for himself, locally and nationally, operatically and in the concert field. He has a strong and decidedly likable voice, and he knows how to arrange a good program.

The Chicago Symphony orchestra concert, Frederick Stock conducting, through W-G-N, 2 to 3, was one of unusual orchestral color, depth, and richness. Goldmark's "Country Wedding" symphony was played in its entirety, if I am not mistaken. And we had choice selections from Wagner: Prelude to "Lohengrin," Siegfried's Rhine Journey from "Twilight of the Gods," and the Magic Fire music from "The Valkyrie." Also we were given an interesting and likable symphonic waltz composed by Mr. Stock.

Cæsar Franck's Symphony in D minor was played during the theater concert from New York through KYW, 1 to 2 o'clock. Beethoven's Second Symphony was played complete on the New York concert through WMAQ, 2 to 3 o'clock. And from 7:45 to 8:15 the W-G-N Symphony orchestra, Gaston du Moulin conducting, played the equivalent of a full symphony by playing four of the most attractive movements from symphonies by Beethoven, Schubert, and Tschaikowsky.

INVESTMENT CO. ASSETS INTACT AS YEAR ENDS

Cen. Ill. Securities Earns Dividends.

BY O. A. MATHER.

The Central Illinois Securities corporation, the investment trust affiliate of the Central Trust Company of Illinois, not only came through last year without any loss on its investments but also more than earned its preference stock dividend. These facts are set forth in the annual report issued last night by President Philip R. Clarke.

"With security prices suffering so severe a decline in October and November, it is naturally gratifying to be able to report the absence of any aggregate depreciation in the corporation's investment account; likewise to report an operating profit of substantially more than the preferred dividend requirements for the period despite the large amount of cash loaned on call at comparatively low rates," Mr. Clarke says.

Condition of Resources.

"Special attention is directed to the fact that more than $12,000,000, or approximately 83 per cent of the corporation's resources, is represented in the form of either cash or very liquid and well secured demand and short time loans.

"Of the investment account of $2,470,944, about two-thirds or $1,658,711 is invested in carefully selected bank shares and the balance of $812,244 in miscellaneous securities. Inasmuch as the market value of the latter on Dec. 31, 1929, exceeded the purchase price and because the bank stocks were capable of realization without loss, the investment account is set up in the balance sheet at cost and as such is considered to be conservatively exhibited."

Net earnings between Oct. 21 and Dec. 31 were $143,419, including dividends received on Jan. 1 and after provision for federal taxes. After setting up an additional reserve for taxes of $15,000, there were net assets of $15,-143,419, which affords a liquidating value of $31.63 per unit of one preference and one common share. The units were offered at $31.50 in October.

American Equities Report.

The American Equities company also issued its annual report. On Dec. 31, 1929, net assets were $36,645,264, taking marketable securities at current prices and other securities at cost. This was equivalent to approximately $18.19 a share, or about the price at which the stock was offered in August.

About half of the company's resources, or $18,206,146, were represented by call loans, short term loans, receivables and marketable securities, with the latter at $3,096,443 on Dec. 31, but worth $3,199,142 on Jan. 15, this year. There was an operating profit of $527,238 between Aug. 21 and Dec. 31.

THE STOCK MARKET HAS FLUCTUATED WITHIN VERY NARROW LIMITS SINCE THE FIRST OF THE YEAR

INVESTMENT TREND IS CHANGING, RECEPTION OF BONDS INDICATES

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—Establishment of a post-war record for bond offerings is regarded as a most significant illustration of the changed trend in investment markets. Last week's total borrowings reached the unprecedented peace time total of $305,058,000, which compares with $497,000,000, the previous high mark, made nearly three years ago.

Aside from pointing the shift in sentiment to bonds, this record offers some sharp contrasts with 1929. It is larger, for instance, than the aggregate of bond issues for six entire months of last year, and it is nearly ten times the total for the corresponding week of 1929. Incidentally, 1930 has seen no important stock financing; a year ago tastes were quite in that direction.

The bankers who sold the American Telephone company's $150,000,000 loan, which of course accounted for half of the week's volume, found it is a very satisfactory medium for testing the depth of the market.

Reception of the bonds was described as sensational and subscriptions totaling $551,000,000 were received from 47 states. Allowing for the supposition that many subscribers purposely placed their orders high to cover any shrinkage through the expected curtailment of allotments, the vast investment reservoir which the loan uncovered was decidedly encouraging both to bankers and to other corporations contemplating bond issues.

H. L. Stern to Retire from Balaban & Katz Corp.

Herbert L. Stern, president of the Balaban & Katz corporation since its organization in 1919, is retiring from his connection with that company to devote himself to private interests. Mr. Stern's resignation is in accordance with his intention announced last year when Paramount-Famous-Lasky corporation purchased an additional large block of Balaban & Katz stock. Detroit Edison Co. Income Shows Increase Over 1928

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 19.—(AP)—Net income of the Detroit Edison company last year totaled $13,494,262, against $12,990,311 in 1928. Alex Dow, president, in his annual report to the stockholders, says that sales showed an increase last year in every classification of electric service except to interurban and street railways.

Big Oil Firms Cut Prices to Curb Supply

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—Reduction of the price of crude oil seems to be the method adopted by the larger oil companies to force curtailment in petroleum production, according to oil executives in New York.

The frank statement made by the president of the Humble Oil and Refining company in announcing the cut in the crude oil prices in Texas fields caused by overproduction, is taken to mean that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, parent company of Humble, intends to use this method in keeping production within the bounds of demand.

The price cutting method of forcing curtailment was first tried last fall by the Standard Oil Company of California when independent producers were balking at joining in the prorating method which had been adopted by the larger companies. A drastic cut in the crude prices by this company in the fields where operators were not coöperating brought about an agreement on curtailment within a few weeks with production brought down to the point demanded by the referees under the prorating agreements, and Standard of California restored its previous prices.

The cut made in the Texas field, which was followed by one in the midcontinent field by the Carter Oil company, another subsidiary of Standard Oil of New Jersey, has already brought forth indications that it will be successful in curtailing the production in Texas. In Oklahoma the operators have held meetings during the week to agree upon terms for a further curtailment, so that it appears to oil men in New York as if the attempt would be successful.

COSGROVE SEES GOOD YEAR FOR CANNING TRADE

The canning industry is looking forward to a year as prosperous as 1929, E. B. Cosgrove, president of the National Canners' association, said last night. The association opens a five day convention at the Stevens hotel today, which it is expected will attract 10,000 representatives of the food trade industry to Chicago.

E. B. COSGROVE.

"Shipments of canned food products during the first quarter of 1930 are estimated at 44,257 carloads, compared with 42,374 in the first quarter last year," Mr. Cosgrove stated.

"Our industry with the use of a little horse sense in the immediate future can profitably merchandise existing unsold stocks. Basic conditions in both production and distribution are such that industry and trade can go ahead with plans for the future. Neither Pollyanna optimism nor long faced pessimism should have a place in the picture of the year to come."

CHICAGO AREA BANKS DOUBLE VOLUME OF BILLS IN LAST YEAR

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—The American Acceptance council reports that the volume of outstanding bankers' acceptances in this country on Dec. 31 was $1,732,436,388, an increase of $447,950,638 for the year 1929.

"The return of funds to the banks for commercial uses, comfortable money rates, and a reported slowing down in some trade lines," the council said, "has had no apparent effect upon the acceptance credit business, which is now at its highest volume record. In fact, many large accepting banks are now giving particular attention to the further development of this business despite the easy cash position which they now enjoy.

"In the Chicago federal reserve district the banks have nearly doubled their volume of bills in one year. San Francisco has increased 50 per cent, New York 35 per cent and Boston about 20 per cent. The Chicago figures have passed the 100-million mark for the first time, while the New York banks have outstanding as great a volume as was reported by the whole country a year ago."

Last year saw an increase of nearly $200,000,000 in American bank credits based on goods stored abroad or shipped between foreign countries. Domestic warehouse credit gained $100,000,000.

Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, now chairman of the County Trust company, will be one of the speakers. Questions of policy and practice in the management of trust funds will receive thorough discussion by leaders in the trust company field of banking.

Grigsby Protest May Turn Spotlight on Patent Laws

BY SCRUTATOR.

Protest by R. J. Grigsby, president of the largest independent company manufacturing radio sets, concerning the manner in which the Radio Corporation of America handles its patents may be the forerunner of a wide investigation of the patent laws.

Great inequalities exist in the patent field. It can hardly be said that the present system of patent issuance is equitable to all parties, that it gives the little fellow a fair chance against the big one, or that income tax provisions dealing with funds derived from royalty are fair.

On the last point something has been said here before. It is difficult to see why an inventor, after years of work perfecting a device, should be compelled to pay high surtaxes in one year if he sells his rights for cash. Some who know how to do it take rather extreme measures to avoid such unfairness. At hand is the letter of Raymond A. Duggan, who states that he and two associates in the invention of a bookkeeping machine have created a separate corporation into which they will turn their interest in the device in exchange for stock.

Spread Out Profits.

They do this to "spread out the profits, and hence the surtax on them, which we hope to make if the device can be sold in the manner we anticipate." Tax burdens are so heavy that inventors are right in adopting every legal means of avoiding them.

On the other points, it can be said that the inventor must always wait longer than he should for a decision on his application and that such cases as are carried into the courts are unduly expensive. It is explained in a communication from A. Miller Belfield, Chicago patent attorney, that much of the trouble is due to the legally accepted "doctrine of invention" which has grown up and which is peculiar to the United States alone.

Briefly, this doctrine is that a patent may not issue unless it is shown that the work on the device involved inventive skill or genius and not mere mechanical skill.

Patent examiners may find devices novel and useful, which is about all that would seem necessary, but must then decide whether the inventor has demonstrated "invention" or not. Mr. Belfield relates that there are no standards by which invention and mechanical skill can be compared, with the result that examiners and attorneys constantly wrangle over what appears to be merely a locution.

Situation is Confusing.

Patent cases in courts put the same question up to the judge. He, too, has to pass on what is mechanical skill and what is inventive genius. Many patents, it is stated, have been found invalid in litigation because lack of invention, despite unique usefulness, has been proved. Legal battles, also, are more frequent because of the application of the doctrine, a situation that tends to discourage those with small funds and favors those with full war chests.

REPORTS THROW LIGHT ON LAST MONTH'S TRADE

Extent of Reaction Now Apparent.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 19.—Some of last week's reports from industry were moderately encouraging for the future, but most of them, like those of the week before, have been more particularly in point for the light they throw on the state of things a month ago.

Earlier statements had shown that the country's steel production in December was the smallest of any month since the middle of 1924, that liabilities involved in its business failures were the largest since 1924 and that railway freight loadings were the smallest for December, excepting 1927, since 1923. Last week we learned that, except for the period of the British strike in 1926, takings of cotton by our domestic mills were the smallest since 1924 and that unemployment in manufacturing industries in December was except for the opening month of 1928, the greatest since deflation days.

Severity of Reaction.

Possibly the financial mind will be most impressed with the fact that, while the severity of last month's reaction from the normal activities of trade is recognized by everybody, the low level reached can be paralleled in most of the returns by the figures of 1924 and in some by those of 1927. This fact might lead to divergent inferences.

The Pilot watches the compass and not the waves; and so it might be said of business, that its security rests in keeping one's eyes on an ideal rather than on the hills and valleys of business.

When the ideal is right, the business knows no limitations in the years of its service. But its eyes can never be taken from the ideal to rest on the waves of prosperity or the valleys of depression. These are but incidents in the voyage.

PHILADELPHIA

A CITY OF DIVERSIFIED INDUSTRY WITH A GREAT TIDEWATER PORT

PHILADELPHIA will help you to cut your expenses . . Competition compels economy in production and distribution. Philadelphia offers American business and industry this necessary economy . . Here at tidewater is one of the most modern port developments in the United States. Charges are lower. Goods move faster. You can put your plant at water front . . . ship from your own dock . . . No harbor congestion. Trucks and freight cars unload at ship side. No lighterage required . . Philadelphia enables you to cut corners in carrying on profitable foreign trade, as well as Atlantic and Pacific coastwise trade . . Her nearby markets bring to your front door the richest consumer area in America . . Labor is more dependable . . Well-situated manufacturing sites cost less.

The Philadelphia Business Progress Association has made a comprehensive survey of the City's industrial, commercial and cultural advantages. Write on your business letterhead for specific information based on your particular requirements and for a copy of Booklet "The Real Philadelphia." No obligation will be incurred. U. S. FARM BOARD RAISES BIDS ON WINTER WHEAT

Increase Activities to Stabilize Values.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Farm board activities in the grain markets are increasing in an apparent effort to stabilize values in the southwest and northwest, coöperatives having bought No. 1 northern wheat in Minneapolis at $1.25, durum wheat in Duluth at $1.15 and $1.12 for No. 1 and No. 2 grades.

In Chicago they raised their bid on hard winters on Saturday 2c, to $1.20 for No. 1 and $1.18 for No. 2 grades. Indications are that their activities will be increased. At the same time, foreigners have disappointed the bulls on wheat here by not buying heavily of United States grain, while Canadians who reduced their prices have made good sales, particularly to the orient.

General discussion of the trade is on the possibility of American wheat prices being reduced to a competitive level with Canadian and southern hemisphere wheat in foreign markets.

Argentine offerings abroad are increasing at apparently lower price levels and are used as a club to force North American holders to sell their grain at lower values. Traders as a rule have become very bearish and are more disposed to sell wheat under $1.30 for May, while recently at $1.40 they were bullish expecting a large foreign demand to take hold freely and advance prices.

Foreigners Conservative.

Advices from abroad do not suggest immediate possibility of foreigners becoming bullish and of their buying heavily in anticipation of future requirements. It is unfortunate for holders of wheat in all positions that a better level of values can not be secured, but with large supplies in North America and the crop season half gone, there is an increasing disposition to weigh the situation of the future more carefully, although nearby deliveries of wheat are around 40@42c under the season's highest, taking the low level reached on Friday's break. There was a break of almost 10c from the high of the previous week, and net losses were 2¾@3¾c for the week, with the close on March wheat at Chicago of $1.23¼@1.23⅝, May $1.27⅝@1.27½, and July $1.29¼@1.29¾.

Winnipeg led the break in wheat prices early and the recovery later, with the spread between Chicago and that market reduced materially, and at the close it was 6⅛c against 11c a short time ago, and closed at $1.33⅝, a loss of 5⅝c for the week. Liverpool declined sharply, a loss of 4⅛c for the week.

Although trading in wheat futures has increased over 33,000,000 bu for the week and sales in Chicago for the week of 284,229,000 bu compared with 175,633,000 bu last year, it was largely professional. Open interest increased on the break to the largest of the season, 202,321,000 bu compared with 192,433,000 bu the previous week and 112,767,000 bu last year. It is regarded as representing an oversold market and also shows greater spreading operations between near and distant futures.

At the close March wheat in Chicago was $1.23¼@1.23⅝, May $1.27⅝@1.27½, and July $1.29¼@1.29¾. Prices for the week follow:

Industries Consuming Corn.

Industries are consuming an unusual quantity of corn in making grape sugar. It is estimated that they are using about 30,000,000 bu a year. Were prohibition to be strictly enforced, it is said that there would be a sharp reduction in the use of corn which might adversely influence values.

There is said to be a large quantity of corn in central Illinois that is soft with a high moisture content which could be moved while freezing weather continues as it could be handled to the best advantage. It is a fear of increased receipts that has made corn traders mainly bearish, despite the fact that prices are down to around the lowest of the season. Outside trade is light and the open interest is small as compared with other years.

Prices had a range of around 4@5c and closed at net losses of 1⅝@2¾c for the week. March finished at 90⅝, May 93⅝@93⅞, and July 95⅞. Prices follow:

LARD PRICES ADVANCE

An impression previalls in the provision trade that liquidation by speculators in lard is over and that new investment buying combined with light selling pressure has created a better feeling and a good advance in prices. Foreign buying is of fair volume and exports are liberal. Stocks changed little within the last few weeks. Hog prices closed sharply higher for the week and good receipts are expected this week.

Shorts who were good buyers of dry salted clear bellies found offerings light, necessitating an advance of over 1c on January and almost 2c on May, with net gains of 97½c to $1.10, while lard finished 20@22½c higher than a week ago. Prices follow:

SYNOPSIS.

John Andrew Kellogg, heir to millions, asks Barbara Thornton to marry him. She agrees but not very graciously. When she hears that he has just lost his job she scolds him and calls him a playboy. He calls on his attorney, David Craig, who tells him that he will never inherit the money his father left if he doesn't prove himself capable of managing his life in a sensible way. He tells him that since he has lost one job after another he will have to double five thousand dollars in thirty days or live on an income from a trust fund for the rest of his life. John Andrew telephones this to Barbara and she offers to give him five thousand to turn over to Craig. He refuses and tells her he is going out to Hollywood. She is furious with him and breaks the engagement. He decides to go to San Francisco, and starts for California. On the train he meets Anne Ames, who is on her way to Hollywood with a letter of introduction to a movie producer. They become interested in each other. Before saying good-by in Utah, John Andrew tells Anne that he will see her in Los Angeles in a few days.

Arrived in San Francisco, John Andrew meets an old school friend, Peter Merriam, on the street. Pete is selling Mercury cars and tries to sell one to John Andrew. They go for a trial spin, and with John Andrew at the wheel, have a slight smashup. In order to keep Pete from losing his job, John Andrew buys the custom built roadster for $4,980. He also gives all but a hundred dollars of his expense money to an old man with an invention without asking what the machine is. He drives to Los Angeles in the Mercury and sees Anne at the Consolidated studio, where she is being tried out. He makes an engagement to take her to dinner. Before starting out he looks at the old man's plans and learns they are for a noiseless camera. He sells the patent rights to Consolidated for twenty-five thousand, the money to be turned over to him on the receipt of the signature of Blake, the inventor.

In the meantime the hotel people become suspicious of John Andrew and ask him to pay his bill. He decides to pawn some belongings. He receives a telegram from the inventor's attorney asking for five hundred additional or lose the contract. He tries to sell the Mercury and offers it for $2,000. Before the deal is completed he is arrested by order of the Mercury motors of San Francisco.

INSTALLMENT XXXVII.
AN UNEASY SITUATION.

Fitzgerald said crossly, "Now that it's all decided and you can pay me interest, too, or buy me a lunch some day or when you get the cash from us, play on the floor with the gang some afternoon and we'll get it all back; now that we've made up our collective minds what to do, I'll go sit in the corner and you can talk with Miss Ames. If I go out of here, they'll probably make her come, too; you aren't supposed to speak with anyone until you've been given the order of the boot, or whatever they give to initiate you here."

"What if Blake's attorneys try to ask for more money from me?"

"Talked to our own over the 'phone . . . not about that, but gave them the idea that there was something odorous about the business; I'll get in touch with 'em again, and I don't think Blake will try to pull the same thing twice. There's a limit to everything. We'll be just as tough."

John Andrew put his hand on Anne's arm; her own hand seized his, pressed it fiercely for a moment, and then dropped to her skirt, lax. "Just . . . just keep trusting me, little Anne," Kellogg whispered.

"How can I?" she asked. "It . . . it all so fits together."

John Andrew said nothing, but followed her arm with his hand until he reached her fingers; these, cold, he held firmly.

She sat with her head a little forward.

"I fear that we—that is, my client—owe you an apology."

Long before this Kellogg's first uneasiness at the situation—for her sake—had disappeared. Now it returned many fold. He frowned in a puzzled way; he had not, and never had, been concerned with questions of right and wrong, since he knew his own innocence; even at his dreariest moments. But now he saw that something was beating from Anne that which she might never regain, or, if she did find it again, which would leave her different than before.

"Don't try to think about anything," he said in her ear.

Anne, he saw, was worn out with thinking; she nodded, with a sort of weak obedience very unlike her, and Kellogg wanted desperately to rush into words . . . which, now, for the time, she could never believe. Yet he was searching for words which might comfort when she began to speak: "I knew . . . in New York," she said, as much to herself as to the man. "When you borrowed money . . . to pay the landlady. I knew it on the train. I've always known it. And I love you anyhow. I love you enough to be unhappy with you. And too much to see you unhappy. I——"

"I'm not unhappy," said John Andrew softly.

Her cloak of restraint whirled from her, and the lining was scarlet: "I know you aren't," she said in a terrible tight voice. "Not even now. Not even when you're in jail for . . . for stealing. You think everything will come out all right. Every one comes to help you. Even now there's . . . there's Mr. Fitzgerald——"

"And you," Kellogg added.

"And me. I . . . might even stand . . . this . . . your being a . . . a . . . crook [and John Andrew blinked once] but . . . if you loved me . . . really did . . . you wouldn't hurt me so . . . nor lie to me. And so . . ."

"Just wait——"

"I have! And hoped! I even thought that I'd be making enough money so that we wouldn't need to worry. I'd have been willing to . . . to pay you, John Andrew. But now——"

"Money hasn't anything to do with it."

"If it had," Anne blazed, shaking his hand off, "do you think I'd ever have cared for you?"

* * * * *

It seemed to Kellogg that there had grown a bond between them, welded now by Anne's very heat; it was independent of love; reason could not weaken it, nor hate destroy it. Fitzgerald, who, for minutes had heard nothing from either Anne or Kellogg, coughed discreetly and turned around.

"We don't want to rub it in," he said; "if you people have had your say, we'd better run along. I'll let you know how we make out, Kellogg, just as soon as I get a confirmation from San Francisco I'll see if I can't square things here and get you out——"

"We've decided—Mr. Kellogg and I—that I'll give you the money to spend," said Anne. They hadn't even spoken of it; after Anne's vehement words neither had spoken a word. "And I'll give . . . whoever gets it . . . the money for the machine——"

"Five thousand?" asked Fitzgerald.

"You leave it to me," the engineer suggested. "As soon as we get an O. K. on the deal I'll use the organization's drag and we'll fix up the check business and then Kellogg can . . . er . . . get out."

"Remember this name and address," John Andrew said; he gave them to the engineer, and then said, "Send this wire to Craig for me. Ask him what is wrong with my check for forty-nine hundred and eighty; that the bank has refused to honor it. Tell him to deposit that amount . . . no, to wire me . . . say ten thousand . . . no"—thinking of the venture back of everything—"tell him to wire me, care of you, what the trouble has been, and see that the bank wires me the five thousand now on deposit."

Anne covered her face with her hands.

"Don't," Kellogg pleaded. "Just be patient a little longer——"

"I can't," Anne tried to say distinctly, but the words broke. "Why—why—now—how can you try to keep on fooling me? I know. You can't ever fool me again. You—you never fooled me. I know what you are trying to make me think with that telegram. But you can't. I know better." She let him see her face and, abruptly, stood up. "I . . . I . . . good-by, John Andrew," she said.

Kellogg realized the finality of the word; he tried to speak but what he did was more automatic, requiring no [none indeed!] thought. He began, worst of all things in the world, to whistle tunelessly, although his face was white and strained as the girl's. Anne threw up her hand, almost as if to stop him across the puckered lips; she stared at him and then, abruptly, turned to leave.

None of the three had heard the glass door open. Anne's way was blocked by the blue serge clad deputy who had arrested Kellogg in his room at the Poinsettia and by another man John Andrew had never seen. "Just a minute," Blue Serge said, closing the door behind him. "Just a minute, lady——"

"She hasn't anything to do with this," John Andrew snapped. "She wishes to get out of here; let her go, d'you hear? Open the door——"

"Just—a—minute," Blue Serge repeated.

"The lady came with me," protested Fitzgerald. "I'm from Consolidated——"

"Don't get excited," the deputy said; he stared at Kellogg coolly, from John Andrew's dark blue cravat to his brown shoes, as if inventorying every article of attire and registering height, weight and features for the Bertillon cards; then he announced to the man with him, "That's him. I picked him up at the Poinsettia, where he was tryin' to beat 'em out of their bill, but they ain't pressin' it——"

"If you're from the district attorney's office and want to question me," Kellogg broke in, addressing the second man, "what sense is there in forcing the lady to remain here?"

"None, sir; none at all. She may go if she desires." Anne started toward the glass door; Blue Serge opened it as the newcomer said, "Frankly, Mr. Kellogg, I am not from the district attorney's office at all; I represent Mercury Motors here, sir, legally, and . . . well, on the face of things, and to make a very long story short, I fear that we—that is, my client—owe you an apology——"

"Well?" said John Andrew.

"You see, sir . . . if you are not going, madam, may I offer you a chair? . . . perhaps we might all sit, eh? . . . this has evolved into a rather intimate affair, on one side, although I am sure, Mr. Kellogg, that you will——"

Good Morning!

And now Earl Derr Biggers' laugh-mystery of stage and silent-screen fame comes to the silversheet as an altalker. You will recollect that Douglas MacLean had the leading rôle in the voiceless version of several years ago. The piece is much better entertainment in its present guise than it was before.

Richard Dix gives an alert, polished and amusing performance as the young author, who, on a bet, goes to a "haunted" mountain inn in the dead of winter to write a novel in twenty-four hours. Mr. Magee his name is, and he is told by the inn's caretakers, as they hand him the key and tremblingly depart, that it is the ONLY key to Baldpate inn.

IS IT?

See title for clue and picture for further information—always supposing that you haven't read the story or seen it played.

Mr. Dix is supported by an A-1 cast who throw themselves heartily and successfully into their task of keeping you grinning and guessing. Photography, synchronization and direction are excellent and suspense is admirably sustained.

For the sort of trick offering it is, this picture proves a humdinger.

See you tomorrow.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send your name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Frank E. Atherton, 3733 Wilton avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

What is your opinion of prohibition after ten years' trial?

The Answers.

E. F. Baumann, 3572 Palmer street, salesman—It is a joke. It is my conviction that were the government to spend those millions of dollars in educating the public how to drink moderately something would be accomplished. In such an event the present day powerful bootleggers would be dethroned.

Miss Mildred Auble, 4938 Drexel boulevard, stenographer—In some ways it has been a success, in other ways detrimental. The saloon is gone; general conditions in the family have been bettered. But drinking is common, prohibition is not enforced creditably; a general disrespect for law has developed.

B. E. Seamon, 53 West Jackson boulevard, engineer—It's an experiment noble in purpose definitely proved unsuccessful. It has been a very expensive and autocratic manner of eliminating the saloon and its attendant evils. It is evident that we could profit much by following the Canadian liquor regulations.

Mrs. Grace Keough, 834 South Kenilworth avenue, Oak Park, housewife — It has been a failure. It is about time that we were having light wines and beer, as they do in Canada. Every workingman is entitled to his beer. People great and obscure are entitled to wines, legally, not surreptitiously obtained as at present.

E. F. Brewster, Winnetka, Ill., book dealer — Prohibition has not had sufficient length of time for a real trial. Mankind has been drinking for thousands of years, more or less, and only had ten years of prohibition. It has had no support from The Tribune and the press in general, and little from many other people, law abiding and otherwise.

$100,000 Gift to Found Six Fellowships

Chicago Musical College Gets New Fund.

Directors of the Chicago Musical college at 64 East Van Buren street, through Carl D. Kinsey, the president, yesterday announced a gift of $100,000 for the creation of six yearly free fellowships of $1,000 each. The gift is the second one of such a sum in little more than a year. The first was given by the will of the late Charles Ditson. The donor of the present endowment has chosen to remain anonymous.

The musical college is now in its sixty-fourth year. It was founded in 1867 by the late Florenz Ziegfeld, musical educator and the father of Flo Ziegfeld.

"The Chicago Musical college acknowledges with deep gratitude this token of confidence and respect," said President Kinsey. "The rules of the competition for the fellowships will be made known later. The fellowships will be known as the Beethoven and Chopin fellowships for pianists; Schubert and Verdi fellowships for singers; the Paganini fellowship for violinists; and the MacDowell fellowship for composers."

The gift of a year ago was specifically given for the purpose of creating scholarships, while the present donation is to be used for fellowships. President Kinsey said. The distinction, he explained, is that scholarships are for $500, while the $1,000 fellowships entitle the winner to a full year's tuition in his or her chosen subject.

"It is an unusual thing when a privately owned school is given gifts such as these," said Rudolph Ganz, artistic director of the college. "It is also a fine thing, for it enables young persons who might otherwise not be able to afford and attain it, an education along the lines in which they are gifted."

Unfinished Novel by Scott Now Sold to Publisher

LONDON, Jan. 19.—An unfinished manuscript of Sir Walter Scott's "Siege of Malta," sold by his great grandson, Maj. Gen. Walter Maxwell Scott, to F. J. Sheed, member of a publishing firm, for what is said to be the highest price ever paid for a Scott manuscript. It is assumed the intention is to publish the manuscript on the occasion of the Scott centenary [the famous novelist died in 1832].

Shaw Declines Feast, Sighs for Fast in Word to Banqueters

New York, Jan. 19.—(AP)—A stern vegetarian gesture was the reaction of George Bernard Shaw to a dinner given in his honor tonight by the Town Hall club.

Despite the Irish dramatist's persistent refusal to visit America, Archibald Henderson, biographer of the playwright and toastmaster at the dinner, invited him to attend. He received the following reply:

"How horrible.

"I am to be made the pretext for killing all those wretched animals and birds and fishes!

"Thank you for nothing.

"Now if it were to be a fast instead of a feast; say a solemn three days' abstention from corpses in my honor, I could at least pretend to believe that I was disinterested.

"Blood sacrifices are not in my line."

Three hundred persons attended, sitting at 40 tables, each of which bore the name of a play or a novel by the absent guest of honor.

At the table named for "Cashel Byron's Profession" sat James J. Corbett, who once held the title which Shaw's friend, Gene Tunney, later relinquished. The speakers, including Mrs. Richard Mansfield, Norman Thomas, Philip Moeller and Lawrence Langner, sat at the table entitled "Man and Superman."

Thelma Votipka Sings in "Lohengrin," and Then She Is Married

When the Chicago Civic Opera orchestra swung into the stately measures of the Lohengrin wedding march yesterday as the opera of that title was presented at the new opera house, the musicians had no idea they were practically ushering an actual bride to the altar. But Miss Thelma Votipka, soprano now in her first season with the company, exchanged grease paint and opera costume for wedding garb immediately after the curtain fell.

She and her fiancé, W. T. Hamilton, an electrical engineer whose work necessitates dividing his time between Chicago and New York, had planned the quietest of weddings at the rectory of St. Mary's church, 9th street and Wabash avenue. But a friend to whom the news was confided revealed the secret, and confronted as they left for their suite in the Congress hotel, Mr. Hamilton and his bride admitted the nuptials.

Mrs. Hamilton, who was a member of the American Opera company before joining the Chicago Civic opera, declared her marriage would not interfere with her musical career. Although her husband's residence is in New York, she expects to spend the greater part of her time in Chicago, she said.

Relativity of Sinning Proclaimed Here to Sunday Evening Club

What constitutes the greatest sin was discussed last night by Fred B. Smith, moderator of the Congregational church, in an address before the Chicago Sunday Evening club. He dismissed drunkenness, theft, and murder as the greatest sin.

"Many consider intoxication the greatest evil. One cannot overlook the fact that two men may consume the same amount of liquor and one remains sober while the other becomes sotted. In theory each is equally guilty, in fact their degree of guilt is different.

"Our attitudes toward theft vary. A small boy stealing sandwiches from a dinner pail may go to the reformatory, while a deacon who robs a whole neighborhood may pass for a gentleman and a Christian. Murder, too, may be excused by the righteous if it is carried on in the grand manner and dignified by the name of war."

Mr. Smith concluded that the capital sin, surpassing all ethical and moral branches, was to forget God. This sin, he declared, is widely prevalent in the present generation.

THEATER

MISS FANNIE BRICE, who has not been in Chicago in a long time, and Miss Madge Kennedy, here late in 1928 in "Paris Bound," will divide the bill-topping next week in the Palace. Miss Brice has had a go at the talkies out in Hollywood; and Miss Kennedy has been filling in with variety-theater dates while searching for a new play.

Thomas W. Ross, once the idol of most theater-goers as the hero of the play called "Checkers," is now acting the late Raymond Hitchcock's rôle in "Your Uncle Dudley." However, the lamented Hitchy was not the first actor of the rôle, which had been filled in some try-out performances by Arthur Byron.

It is definitely settled that the fifth play to be given in Chicago by the Dramatic League will be the imported comedy named "Dear Old England." The Molnar piece named "Wolf! Wolf!" has been held over until next season, by which time the League will have had adjusted the copyright tangle which has operated to prevent the use of the comedy this season.

"A Deputy Was King" is to be made into a play. The novel is G. B. Stern's sequel to "The Matriarch." . . . And the dramatization of the latter is to be offered in Vienna, Berlin, and Paris in the near future.

Noël Coward and George S. Kaufman are authors of the new piece wherein Mr. Ziegfeld is to place Miss Marilyn Miller and the Astaires.

"Six-Cylinder Love," the farce wherein Jack Donahue expected to star this season after a song-and-dance make-over by William Anthony McGuire, is to be revived next week in the Kedzie. It was the first attraction in the Harris Theater, back in the Autumn of 1922.

English Star, Away Twelve Seasons, Gasps at Chicago

Returning to Chicago, after an absence of twelve years, Constance Collier, the London actress, expressed vast amazement at the architectural growth of Chicago, and listened with obvious incredulity to an explanation of the increased importance of the city in theatrical matters. Her last engagement in Chicago was in 1918, when she and John Barrymore were here as co-stars in "Peter Ibbetson."

"Why," she said, "London with all its millions of population does not support even one subscription theater, not to speak of three! Besides, you tell me that Chicago supports a successful annual season of grand opera by subscription, and also a Summer season of opera at Ravinia. We have not had a real season of opera in London since the Spring of 1914, the year the war started. As to subscription theatres, all we can point to are two or three societies devoted to giving special Sunday performances by subscription, using plays which the Lord Chamberlain has refused to license.

"It just so happens that I have not acted in Chicago in the last twelve years; for in that time I have been through six or seven engagements in New York, and besides have done some work for the movies and the talkies out in Hollywood. I spent this afternoon motoring about Chicago, and it was an adventure to observe the changes that had taken place in this busy, buzzing city of yours."

Miss Collier's visit to Chicago is for the American première of "The Matriarch," tomorrow night in the Princess Theatre. She has brought with her from London the actors who were with Mrs. Patrick Campbell in the run of the play there. The première was dated for tonight; but postponement was made necessary by the late arrival in New York of the Aquitania, on which Miss Collier was a passenger.

New British Prayer Book Burned Outside Cathedral

LONDON, Jan. 19.—Great Britain's perpetual discontent with the anomalous position of the prayer book, of which two versions exist, one of which is favored by certain factions of the Church of England and the other by their opponents, broke out with one of the not infrequent indications of ill feeling which exists below the surface today. A copy of the revised book was burned outside Exeter cathedral as a protest against its introduction in the services within.

Jobless Paris Musicians Invade Theater, Protest

PARIS, Jan. 19.—Protesting against the influx of American talkies, which they claim put them out of work, a number of union movie musicians invaded a boulevard movie house last night and staged a demonstration. The film was stopped and the gendarmes called. The demonstrators, after explaining to the indifferent audience how the talkies were putting them out of work, left the theater peaceably.

Mischa Elman's Long Program Finely Played

London String Quartet Plays at Goodman.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Mischa Elman came to Orchestra hall yesterday afternoon with the apparent intention of playing a good part of the world's supply of violin music before he left it again. The first half of his program, a Bach-Nachéz Partita, the Brahms Sonata in D minor, and the Paganini-Wilhelmj Concerto, would have been a full length recital for an average violinist, but there was a second half to follow.

This contained a suite from Erich Wolfgang Korngold's "Much Ado About Nothing" music, two ancient Spanish pieces picked up and modernized by Joaquin Nin, Mr. Elman's own transcription of "Eili, Eili," and the Sarasate "Zigeunerweisen." Only a violinist of Mr. Elman's artistic inches could have got away with such a list, and even with him it was a little long.

But he is a brilliant and fine artist, and he is now playing at the top of his form. Not only do glittering feats of virtuosity give him no concern, but he is a sensitive and imaginative artist. When he and Marcel Van Gool, his pianist, played the Brahms sonata it was considerably more than an ordinary musical performance, something that got up to the heights. The Nin pieces will probably be added to several violinists' repertoires. They are unusually pleasing.

It is only about once or twice a year that the London String quartet comes to town, as it did yesterday afternoon at the Goodman theater, but when it comes, it is well worth taking a trip to hear. Occasionally there is a change in its ranks: Philip Sainton is at the viola desk, but the bright, sunshiny tone of the organization is always evident and always entrancing. Moreover, the playing of this body is both a matter of fine tone and of fine art. Mozart, Schubert, and Brahms were on the program, the quartet in D minor for the first, a single movement in C minor for the second, and the full work in the same key for the third.

David Moll, violinist, gave a recital at Kimball hall before an audience that manifested uncommon friendliness toward his accomplishments. The feeling was justified: he played with a warm and well developed tone and with the mind of a musician. A Tartini group took up the first section, Lalo's Symphonie Espagnole the second, and a group of shorter works the third.

In order to give an advance hearing of what may be expected musically during the coming world's fair, "A Century of Progress" band, the officially appointed band of the 1933 proceedings, Max Bendix, conductor, joined forces with the Apollo Musical club, Edgar Nelson, conductor, in a concert at the Civic Opera house last night. With them was Anna Thelma Joseffer as soloist, a violinist of marked talent and ability.

The band, though newly organized, is an excellent playing body. It has breadth, solidity; firm, mellow tone, and an alert manner—good qualities in any musical organization. In fact, band, chorus and soloist, all three, were considerably more expert than their program. This, or at least quite a bit more than its first hour, looked pretty well on paper, but turned out to be almost entirely lacking in the contrast that comes from change of pace. It needed a few marches and the like to give it bright spots, but in spite of invitations from the audience, encores were refused. Though this was presumably a semi-popular program, gravity was the order of the evening.

Catholics Dedicate New Hospital on The Southwest Side

The Rt. Rev. Bernard J. Shell, auxiliary bishop of Chicago, yesterday dedicated the new hospital of the Little Company of Mary, nursing order of nuns, at 95th street and California avenue. Ground was broken for the building in February of 1929, the completed unit containing 150 beds. A twin unit and a smaller building to house a convent and chapel are planned for future erection. The site covers ten acres.

For the last 35 years the Little Company of Mary has occupied its convent at 4130 Indiana avenue, its members nursing patients in their own homes, but has not heretofore had a hospital.

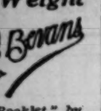
Many Factors Enter Into Correct Weight and "Under Weight"



"A Sex Education Booklet," by Mrs. Bevans will be sent free on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"He is underweight"—"She is underweight" is echoed often in my letters.

"He is underweight" is the result of many professional examinations of a child. There is no question that the words have a way of worrying one.

Now, of course, many children are underweight. But many who are said to be underweight are not. And so, much worry is wasted.

The simple fact back of this matter of weight is that heredity has a finger on the scales. And what would be underweight for one boy or girl might be perfectly normal weight for another. So many things enter in.

For instance, suppose you have a father and mother, or previous forbears—which is really more important in this inheriting business—who are short, small boned and slender. You wouldn't expect their child, no matter how well nourished he might be, to weigh nearly the same as the child of tall, rangy, muscular people. Nor would you expect this same child of a small slender heredity to weigh, even in the best of condition, as much as a child who might happen to come of one of the short, stocky, European peasant races.

Of course, these instances are in sharp contrast, but they do demonstrate that all well nourished, normal children of the same age and even the same height do not weigh the same. You also have the variations in weight that are determined by individual qualities, such as physical alertness, emotional buoyancy, or the craving for a great deal of vigorous physical outdoor activity.

In fact, other things than his weight determine the degree to which a child is in good condition—the color of his flesh, the firmness of his tissues, the springiness of his muscles—and his disposition and spirits.

In this matter of children's weight there is always a certain amount of variability—minor ups and downs. Some children have a quite noticeable rhythm of growing. For example, some seem for a while to grow lengthwise and thin—then they fill out—then they lengthen—then fill out again. At the first "slenderizing" one is sometimes a little disturbed, but a few repetitions and you realize that you are witnessing a cycle of growth.

So, many things must be taken into consideration before a fair verdict of underweight can be rendered.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Dee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Jean, 3, an only child, had been taught to be courteous to her playmates and unselfish with her toys.

While visiting relatives she came in contact with five cousins and was soon fighting for her rights. One day a small child came to call with her mother.

Jean came to me and in a stage whisper asked: "Aunt Ruth, is she a cousin or any kind of relation, or must I be polite?" R. de B.

After a visit with an old friend who has no family, Cuthbert, my small son, who accompanied me, said to his father: "I never want to spend another whole day in a house that is empty of kids." E. C.

When One Equaled Two.

The elevator was crowded with the usual Christmas shopping rush. The elevator man looked over his load and said:

"Two more!"

I stepped in. He looked me over, and calmly announced:

"That's all!"

Inasmuch as I weigh two hundred and fifty pounds, it was my most embarrassing moment. D. K. R.

That organization is to give a theater benefit in the near future, and, as Mrs. Chadwick leaves tomorrow for a sojourn in Florida, Mrs. Wilhelm Ludwig Baum is to take over the managerial reins for the affair.

The Kenwood Social Service club is to have a bridge tea at the residence of Mrs. E. Malcolm Anderson of 5009 Greenwood avenue this afternoon at 2:30. The club is one of the few units of the Women's Auxiliary of the Infant Welfare society that earned its yearly quota during 1929. In consequence it has undertaken to raise its pledge of $10,000 for this year. Mrs. John A. Logan has been reelected president and the other officers include Mrs. Layton Northrup, 1st vice president; Mrs. Wilson Killough, 2d vice president; Mrs. Kenneth MacLellan, recording secretary; Miss Gwendolyn Cummins, corresponding secretary, and Miss Madeline Magerstadt, treasurer.

Lent and Easter come so late this season that the brief flare of post-Lenten social activities will be more than usually short. It therefore behooves the various organizations that plan their annual affairs to take place in spring to be forehanded about obtaining dates. The committee in charge of the annual dinner dance for the benefit of Madonna Center has designated Saturday, May 3, for its 7th annual benefit.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd A. Laflin whose marriage took place on Jan. 4 have left for Honolulu for their wedding trip. After that they are to reside in Lake Forest. Mrs. Laflin was Beatrice Clow.

She has taken a job as assistant to a tour manager, and will plan and conduct such. She leaves this week for a short stay in New York city before taking up her duties.

Mr. and Mrs. William Prescott Pettit, whose marriage took place on Dec. 21, are residing at 215 East Chestnut street. Mrs. Pettit was erroneously referred to on Saturday on this page as the former Dorothy Walsh instead of Dorothy Worth.

Union League Prizes for Young Artists Have Good Results

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The Union League club has announced its prize awards in the competition just concluded for artists of Chicago under thirty years of age. More than a hundred young painters entered the competition and the four prizes of $100 each were won by Irene Bianucci, George Hirschmann, Ralph Wadsworth Graham and Carl Linden. The four prize-winning paintings will be presented by the Union League club to four high schools represented by students in the Lincoln's birthday oratorical contest, also sponsored by the club.

Irene Bianucci, who won with a simple and dignified painting of a young peasant woman entitled "The Little Russian Girl," holds a scholarship at the Art institute, where she has studied for the last four years. Her parents were born in Italy and her interest in art began early when she was a student of the Clinton High school and later when she studied at the James Milliken university at Decatur. At the Art institute she specialized in portrait painting and figure composition and she plans to become a portrait painter.

George Hirschmann studies in the night classes of the American Academy of Art. He is the youngest prize winner, being twenty years old. He is an athlete as well as an embryo artist and at Lake View High school he combined art and athletics, playing on the basketball team for three years and his last year at school he was all-city guard. For two years he was on the track team, where he held or tied five high school field records. His record for the high jump for Chicago high schools still stands.

All of the foregoing is of interest particularly as it refutes the general idea of an artist not being an athlete or a sportsman. The familiar picture of the abstracted artist perambulating the street in flowing tie and long locks will have to be discarded if Hirschmann and others of his ilk take up the profession of painting.

The jury which awarded the prizes included Paul Schulze, Frank G. Logan, Percy B. Eckhart, Pauline Palmer, Allan Philbrick, Nellie Osgood and Frank L. Morse.

WEDDINGS

The wedding of Miss Gertrude Huebsch to Dr. Irving Sward, which was to have taken place yesterday at the Southmoor hotel, has been indefinitely postponed because of the death of Dr. Sward's father, Hyman Sward.

The marriage of Miss Alma Jane Austrian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey S. Austrian of 2710 Lakeview avenue, to Edward Stanton Rosenbaum Jr. is to take place tomorrow evening at the Drake hotel.

JOSE ECHANIZ, CUBAN PIANIST, OFFERS SOME MUSIC FROM SPAIN

BY HAZEL MOORE.

With each successive appearance the popularity of José Echaniz, Cuban pianist, becomes increasingly evident. His first recital of the current season took place at the colorful Civic theater yesterday afternoon and attracted thereto a large number of enthusiasts, including a generous sprinkling of celebrities of the opera and concert stage.

Mr. Echaniz brings various gifts to bear on this popularity. An attractive personality is backed by an eminently sane approach to his music, and the possession of a set of unusually fine pianist's fingers add immeasurably to a really glittering technic. One had only to hear the "Gigue" of J. S. Bach's French Suite in G major to gain an immense admiration for that fine left hand that knew perfectly well what the equally good right was doing. In other words, it was a brilliant performance, as was that of the Schumann Symphonic Etudes that followed.

It was with deep regret that the vicissitudes of time and space did not permit of hearing the modern Spanish group, which is rather a specialty of this artist. Just returned as he is from a trip to Spain, where he made friends with the retiring De Falla, Turina, and Halffter, the group of these composers' works was of especial interest. At least two of the numbers were new here, "Petenera," by Turina, and Second Spanish Dance, recently arranged by De Falla from his own opera "La Vida Breve." A group of Chopin closed the program.

The Playhouse was reached in time to hear Laura Stroud, pianist, play the Prelude, Aria, and Finale of Cesar Franck. Unfortunately this work requires a somewhat special inspiration on the part of the interpreter to light up the retired beauties that Franck wrote. This I did not find in Miss Stroud's performance. It was mannerly and exact, but lacked the high lights.

Three preludes from Bach's Well Tempered Clavichord opened the program, and selections from Brahms, Chopin, Ravel, and Debussy and Schubert-Liszt completed a program of full length and difficulty.

Adhering to their plan to present one modern work and one of established worth, the Chicago String quartet played for a comfortable audience at the Cordon club two major and opposed quartets. Arthur Honegger's quartet in C minor is one that these players believe will live. Judging by the applause which greeted the last notes the public yesterday agreed with them.

The second was the more familiar Brahms Quartet in C minor, op. 51, No. 1. Though both were written in C minor the effects were startlingly different. Both were excellently played.

Braized Beef Shoulder.

Some of the shoulder cuts of beef designed for either braizing or pot roasting look like long thick beefsteaks, too long for the width of an ordinary pot roasting kettle. In purchasing such we may cut the meat in half and use one part for pot roasting and the other for the making of meat gravies, with the meat cut up in bits in them for macaroni, but the best effect I have secured with such meat, when it was from a young beef creature, was by braizing it in the broiling oven, using the half containing the bone for this treatment.

Over this piece put first some thin slices of onion, and then, because it is to be cooked in the broiling oven, a thin layer of chopped salt pork. To protect and season it further, pour over the meat before it is put into the deep broiling oven some hot salt pork fat. It is best to chop the pork because if it were in slices the edges would curl and quickly burn. When chopped it presents a more solid front to the fire. In the broiling of a cut of meat like this we must avoid all burned edges, because they flavor the whole undesirably, or really, we should say, they ruin the flavor.

In preparing this for the oven we put a half cup of boiling water in the pan. The meat, with its onion seasoning and its protection of salt fat pork and then hot pork fat over it, is then shoved into the hot broiling oven—the oven should have been slowly heated, at first with the door open and then closed—and, as soon as the meat is in, the flame should be lowered as much as possible and the door closed. Cook the meat for three-quarters of an hour, basting three times. The fat and juices of the meat will soon cook into the water in the pan, and there will be the marrow fat from the bone to cook out and flow over the meat advantageously.

The salt pork will season the meat somewhat, but toward the end of the cooking add a little salt. With nice work this will be an excellent hot meat, and fine cold. The gravy in cooking a meat like this is not as good as when this same meat is cooked as a pot roast, in which case more of the juices of the meat cook out, leaving the meat drier but contributing a good deal to the gravy. The water in the pan could profitably be a highly seasoned vegetable stock, or we could use plain celery water, or even a highly flavored meat stock to make a better gravy.

Ugly Duckling Can Easily Turn to a Swan, These Modern Days

A bright thought for today might be extracted from a tale just unfolded to me about a certain woman with a reputation for being "a perfect knockout."

The extraction is recommended to girls and women who are holding a grudge against nature for not doing right by them. For the teller of the tale says that, if any woman has a right to complain about actual physical shortcomings, this now highly exploited woman surely has. Her figure wouldn't stand an averagely good test. Her features are nothing to write the boy friend about. Her hands and her feet are neither white butterflies nor scampering young mice. Yet she is a much toasted charmer, described as awfully good looking and what chic, my dear!

Of course, I had more details as to the shortcomings, getting the story first hand. But the other gossip and I agreed that we live in a glorious age for women. What you can do with an average set of looks is something marvelous, and what you can do without an average set of looks is still more so.

There are so many side lines to cultivate, nature having dealt a joker, or two, or three. Chic, charm, personality and the art of makeup, color of dress, line—all are important factors. If you can't have all of the latter you can have a few of them and still make a darned nice picture of a woman, can't you?

I think this is a point that needs to be driven home oftener to women, because so many good lookers are about these days that some of the inferiority complexed are apt to overemphasize the natural endowments when it is the cultivated arts that should be getting the praise.

Today's beauty is a cultivated beauty. The code permits the entry of so many more women than are already inscribed on the cultivated list. I'll wager you could take any one of the downhearted ones and with six months' intensive training you could produce a new woman. But why can't the "down" one take hold of herself and do the training?

She has the opportunity of knowing how to go ahead. Doors of advice on every conceivable angle of physical and esthetic corrective work are wide open. All she has to say is, "I'm going to learn how!"

Women Meet Today for Reform of Election Laws

FARM AND GARDEN
BY PAUL POTTER

With eggs selling at a nickel apiece, it pays to turn skim milk and meat-scraps into eggs by feeding them to the hens, according to W. C. Tully, extension poultryman of North Dakota Agricultural college. Hens have a hard time of it trying to make eggs out of grain alone; they need some sort of animal protein such as milk and meat scraps every day.

As the albumen or "white" makes up about 13 per cent of the total egg and this material, except for the water and small amount of mineral, is all protein, it is evident that the hen's daily feed must contain some of that material. Most farms have skim milk and if this is fed to the hens daily they will show their appreciation by laying more eggs. Meat scraps are also desirable and in most cases a few cents invested in this feed will prove profitable.

In feeding milk it is well to remember that ice cold or frozen milk is not relished by poultry. To get the most out of the hens, it will be found that feeding warm milk several times a day is the best practice. When cold milk or water is given, much of the hen's energy goes to heat it up in her body, while it should go toward making eggs. Another objection is that hens do not drink enough of the milk when it is cold.

If five cent eggs are wanted and no milk is available, one-fourth of a cent must be invested to pay for the meat scraps necessary to make the egg, Mr. Tully states.

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE
[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

Black jacket suits of broadcloth with that new suede finish are very smart, and in the one sketched the bodice of the dress is of an eggshell silk crêpe. The deep V neck of the dress is finished with an applied band of black canton crêpe, the ends of which form a scarf and slip through a bound opening. The jacket is lined with eggshell silk crêpe. The pointed treatment of the skirt indicates the raised waistline, while the belt rests at the normal waistline. The low placed fullness on the skirt is a smart detail.

The pattern, No. 3190, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years, and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 54 inch material with 3¼ yards of binding for the jacket and skirt, with 3½ yards of 39 inch material for the blouse and jacket lining.

Loveless Marriage Needn't Be Unhappy, Often Becomes So
BY DORIS BLAKE.

The advisability of marrying a person one admires, but does not love, is before the house this morning.

A man has been in love for years with a girl who turned him down for another man. In the meantime he has met, admired and contemplated marriage with a second girl, knowing now that the first love is, for him, hopelessly out of the picture.

A girl has not had any great love affair in her life, but marriage is offered her by a man ten years her senior, a business success, a man of standing with men and a generally admirable person. The girl appreciates his fine qualities—but love is the missing ingredient in the great opportunity her family and friends assure her is hers.

Generalizing on the subject of marriage without love, I should say the crux of the matter lies in the individual's appetite for sentiment. If it be an omniverous one the odds are against compromising on admiration. If one's headline, as the palm reader would say, is stronger than the heart line—the chances might be good for a successful life, if not one brimming over with happiness.

I have known persons to marry about whom it was conceded of one or the other, or perhaps of both, that the fires of love were not at what you might call white heat. But they seem to plod along, bearing smiling enough faces to convince one that the missing ingredient has been heartily substituted for. So I am not convinced that the thing cannot be done.

However, the observation is that a sense of fair play and a thorough appreciation of human qualities is pretty thoroughly established in the characters of these who make a go of it without the deep flame of love. The very same qualities, though, that substitute so well for the tender passion, make fertile field for the growth of love. And frequently you find people who may not have started out madly in love accomplishing the miracle after a time of living together.

But if one were of a self-absorbed nature, whose idea of life was happiness for self, first, last and foremost, I wouldn't give much for his or her chances in a loveless match.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Wants a Girl.

"Dear Miss Blake: What would you do if you had no girl and you wanted one? BILLY."

Ask your pals to introduce you to some of their friends.

A FRIEND IN NEED
BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Asks for Ice Skates.

"Has some one a pair of ice skates, size 5 or 5½? I have a friend who wants some, but she cannot afford to buy them. M. D."

Did Christmas find you with new skates? Perhaps, then, you'd like to give your old ones to this young woman who wants to indulge in the winter sport, but cannot buy a pair.

Has No Winter Coat.

"I am an elderly woman, 54, and badly in need of a winter coat, size 50 or 52. I cannot afford to buy one as my husband makes only a small salary and there is hardly enough to support our family. I will be so thankful for any you may be able to get me. "MRS. W."

Doing without a winter coat is a dangerous and most uncomfortable situation, especially for a woman of Mrs. W.'s age. Have you an old one, in size 50 or 52, she may have?

New Costume Jewelry Goes in for Animals
BY BETTINA BEDWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

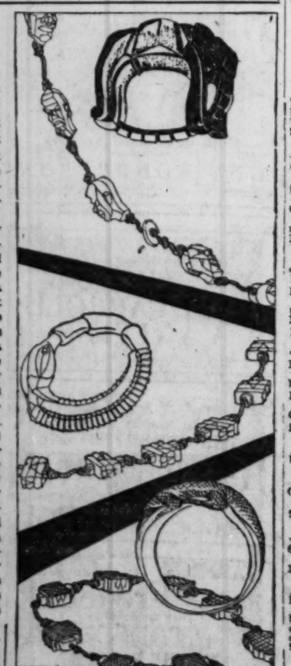
PARIS. — [Special.] — Here's something brand new in costume jewelry. Elephants and crocodiles, armadillos and other wild animals are serving styles. You wear 'em twined around your favorite wrist in the smartest bracelets that Paris has brought out for many a day. Of course, not the real thing, but heavy carved and polished ebony images inspired by primitive African sculpture.

A shiny ebony elephant with tiny ivory tusks is curved around a slender wrist, his substantial legs held by a notched trunk, as shown in the upper division of our sketch. It's a bracelet and a stunning one. With it you wear a throat fitting necklace made of carved ebony. African masks strung on a knotted grass cord or a throng of leather also are shown in the sketch herewith. This sports jewelry ensemble is supposed to bring you luck and is certain to bring distinction to simple sports clothes.

If you don't care for elephants, you have other choices. There is a bracelet and a necklace inspired by the crocodile and shown at the bottom of our sketch. This ensemble has a heavy round brown ebony bracelet depicting a crocodile eating his tail, and there is a necklace, also pictured, with carved ebony plaques, having crocodile scaled sides and held together with grass cords. This necklace is short, as are all of the smart sports necklaces Paris is making at this time.

The third ebony necklace and bracelet sketched in the center are inspired by the armadillo and carried out in a similar way. The necklace is strung together with grass cords also.

This new and striking costume jewelry gives a heavy effect, the bracelets being almost an inch thick and the necklaces heavy also. Small umbrellas with carved ebony animals for handles are made to go with these necklaces and bracelets.



The jewelry is being sponsored by Schiaparelli and is already on the high seas en route for America.
